LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22.

The SPEAKER took the chair at thirty minutes past 4 o'clock.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Mr. FARNELL, in reply to Mr. Driver, gave information with reference to the survey of a conditional purchase of Miss E. C. Laycock, at Newbold, Clarence River.

Mr. FITZPATRICK, in reply to Mr. Driver, said there was a sum of £130 3s. deposited in the City Bank in the names of the captain and secretary of the Finance Committee of No. 3 Company of Volunteers. Its distribution had been approved of by the members of the company, but the captain had not yet made it, believing that he required superior authority for the appropriation, but he had been informed that no such authority was requisite.

Mr. COHEN, in reply to Mr. J. Davies, for Mr. Bowman, said that from the 1st of January, 1878, to the present date there had been paid for advertisements for land sales: To the Town and Country Journal, £272 2s. 8d.; to the Sydney Mail, £6 3s. 6d. No correspondence on the subject could be traced in the Treasury, but if the hon. member who asked the question would name the department with which any correspondence had taken place, there would be no objection to the production of such correspondence.

Mr. COHEN, for Mr. Farnell, said that the allotments in Namoi and Camp streets, Coonabarabran, would be advertised in the next sale list.

Mr. COHEN, for Mr. Sutherland, in reply to Mr. W. C. Browne, said that the drawings of the design approved of by Sir W. Jervois for the fortifications at Botany Bay were being prepared under Colonel Scratchley's supervision.

Mr. COHEN, for Mr. Farnell, in reply to Mr. M'Elhone, gave particulars respecting the selections of Samuel Owen, Frederick and John Engelbraith; also respecting the old Merriwa road from Scone to the selections of T. Alterater and others.

Mr. COHEN, for Mr. Farnell, in reply to Mr. Barbour, gave information in regard to the conditional purchase of William Chapman.

Mr. COHEN, in reply to Mr. Cameron, said the Marine Board were informed that when the steamship Coonanbara left Newcastle on Monday last, she had on board eight deck hands, including the captain, and first and second officers.

Mr. FITZPATRICK, in reply to Mr. M'Elhone, said he was aware that the Auditor-General and the Prothonotary acted as bank directors. He was not at present disposed to go beyond the resolution of the House adopted on the 6th of June, 1876; but he would inquire how far, if at all, the terms of that resolution had been disregarded in the case of the Auditor-General and the Prothonotary.

Mr. FITZPATRICK, in reply to Mr. Hungerford, said that under the new regulations leave can be granted by officers commanding corps without reference to higher authority—to officers for one month, and to volunteers for three months. Leave to officers for absence from continuous training, or for a longer period than one month, can only be given by the officer commanding the Volunteer Force or his Excellency the Governor, and to volunteers for more than three months by the officer commanding the Volunteer Force.

Mr. COHEN, in reply to Mr. Cameron, without notice, said he had not received information that the harbourmaster at Newcastle had caused a number of men connected with the pilot service to be put on board the Coonanbara to bring her to Sydney, but he would make inquiry.

PETITIONS.

Mr. LUCAS presented a petition from the Mayor and aldermen of the borough of Petersham against the repeal of the Public Vehicles Act, and in favour of giving municipalities control over public vehicles plying for hire within their boundaries, and a share of the license fees.

Mr. J. DAVIES presented a petition from 66 citizens of Sydney, and a petition from inhabitants of Balmain against the Railway Refreshment Rooms Bill.

Mr. COONAN presented a petition from a Free Selectors' Association, in favour of legislation upon certain matters connected with the land law in the directions indicated by the petitioners.

The petitions were received.

ADJOURNMENT—THE GRATUITY TO MRS. LANG.

Sir JOHN ROBERTSON wished to make a statement to the House, and though it would necessitate his moving the adjournment, he was sure hon. members would not think that course unwarranted. About the 13th of last month he was favoured with a note from Mrs. Lang, in which that lady mentioned that she had seen his notice of motion with regard to provision being made for her as the widow of the late Dr. Lang. She thanked him, but requested him not to go on with the motion as she could not accept such a grant to herself, seeing that it had been refused to her husband during his lifetime. He, having, after a consultation with Mr. Neill, who, he believed, knew more about Dr. Lang's pecuniary affairs than any one else, brought the motion forward without consulting any of the persons connected with the family of Dr. Lang, when he received the note, he sent it to Mr. Neill, and requested him to see Mrs. Lang and to see what could be done in regard to her determination. On the 14th of October he received the following letter from Mr. Neill:—

"The City Bank, Sydney, 14th October, 1878.

"My dear Sir John,—I have seen Mrs. Lang to-night, and in the presence of the Rev. Mr. Mackenzie urged her simply to remain quiescent in reference to your motion—to leave for the present her letter to you in abeyance, as if it had never been written; and, in fact, having done what she has done, to regard it, as between both, as nothing, reserving to herself the right, if the money be voted, to dedicate it to the memory of her husband if she then feels so disposed, or otherwise to use it; and, if not voted, to be at liberty to say the action was taken not at her seeking.

"This I feel is all I could ask such a noble-minded woman to do, and one so devoted to the memory of her husband that fears to do anything even if it were from need, of which the spirit of her departed husband would disapprove. In this instance, however, his shade would not reflect upon your proposed action to be undertaken only on the ground of success. Proceed, luck be with you. It is now nearly 11 o'clock, I have only come from the church, and am off to the Hunter. Sorry I cannot be with you to-morrow night. "Yours faithfully, (Signed) "JOHN NEILL.

Sir John Robertson, &c., &c., &c."

Things remained in that way until he moved the resolution. Then he received a letter from Mrs. Lang, dated the 20th November. He regretted he had lost the first letter. He knew it was among his papers, but he could not lay his hand on it. On the night that the motion was carried by 29 to 9 in favour of the proposition, he wrote a note to Mr. Neill telling him what had been done, and to communicate with Mrs. Lang, whereupon Mrs. Lang wrote him this letter:—

"Tuesday, 20th November.

"Dear Sir John,—Our mutual friend, Mr. Neill, called upon me last night to say how you had so far gained your object in Parliament on my account, and trusting that I would not interfere further in this matter, which I half promised to do. But I must say that I now still positively decline any such gratuity from Government, my family and myself preferring rather, should we find it necessary, to make an income for ourselves.

"My lamented husband's friends must now rest contented with the vote already passed recognising his services to the colony, and can have no reasonable objections to my refusing to accept any money that might have been voted to me by your honorable House.

"I beg, notwithstanding to thank you most sincerely, together with all those who have gone with you in this vote, on my behalf, for your kind endeavours to serve me and to do honour to the memory of my late revered husband, Dr. Lang. "I remain, dear Sir John,

"Your most sincere and indebted friend,

"(Signed) WILHELMINA D. LANG."

He sent this letter on to Mr. Neill, thinking that she might be induced to change her mind in regard to the remarkable procedure of refusing so large a sum of money that might be useful to her in a thousand ways; and on the following day, the 21st, he received this letter from Mr. Neill:—

"The City Bank, Sydney, 21st November.

"My dear Sir John,—I have to-day interviewed Mrs. Lang, whose letter to you I return herein, with her son-in-law the Rev. Mr. M'Kenzie, who entirely concurs with us that she should receive the proposed money vote; but I find she is inexorable in her determination not to accept of any money on her husband's account. This is from no dissatisfaction with the amount proposed, for if it were £100,000 she would remain of the same mind, her feeling simply being that she cannot enjoy anything of which her late lamented husband was deprived during his lifetime, preferring to bear in future the same lot she had with him in the past.

"She accepts, however, with gratitude the resolution of the House as a just testimony to the worth of her husband's labours for the colony, in the interests of which he sacrificed so much.

"She also expresses her warmest acknowledgments to yourself for your interest in her behalf.

"I can only say in the interest of Mrs. Lang and her children, I regret but cannot control the determination she has arrived at. "I remain, yours faithfully,

"(Signed) JOHN NEILL.

"Sir John Robertson, K.C.M.G."

That being so, he supposed Mrs. Lang must have her own way. Every one must honour her for the view she took with regard to this matter. But it seemed to him if his advice was of any value, she would have acted wisely in receiving this money. The only thing he could do would be to take the notice off the paper. (Cries of No no.)

The motion for adjournment was negatived.

CITY OF SYDNEY IMPROVEMENT BILL.

The House went into committee for the further consideration of the bill in detail.

The schedules were passed, with a slight addition to schedule C. The postponed clauses, 10 and 58, and the preamble, were agreed to, and the bill was reported to the House with amendments, and the report was adopted.

RAILWAY REFRESHMENT-ROOM BILL.

The House went into committee for the further consideration of this bill in detail.

The preamble was postponed.

Clause 1. "From and after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for the Minister for Justice for the time being to issue yearly licenses to such persons as shall be approved of by him for the sale of fermented and spirituous liquors at railway refreshment-rooms, but such licenses shall have effect only at such places as shall be approved of by the Commissioner for Railways, not being nearer than thirty miles to any railway terminus nor nearer than thirty miles to each other."

Mr. J. DAVIES opposed the clause. In Canada and other places where refreshment rooms had been established on the railways it had been found necessary to abolish the sale of liquors therein. There had been no single request from the people in favour of this bill, while on the contrary there had been over a hundred petitions against it. This bill proposed to give licenses of a different character to any granted at the present time. Whereas public-houses pay £30 a year, it was proposed to grant licenses to these refreshment rooms at £10 a year. On the Glasgow railways they had abolished the sale of drinks at the refreshment rooms in consequence of the large sums of money they had had to pay as compensation for accidents arising through the sale of drink at these places. They found that, notwithstanding the most stringent restrictions, a number of the employés got access to intoxicating drink, and serious results had occurred, causing accidents to the public, and pecuniary loss to the company. [Attention called to the state of the committee, and a quorum formed.] The Governor-General of Canada expressed his strong approval of the step taken by the companies in discontinuing the sale of liquors at the railway stations, and the step was generally approved by the people. Here also the people viewed with alarm the proposal to establish liquor bars on the railways; and the question was one of great social importance, for the change proposed would jeopardise the lives and property of the community. The Manchester Examiner showed that there had been numerous accidents traceable to the use of intoxicating liquors by the railway servants. In this colony we had enjoyed comparative immunity from accidents; and one of the principal reasons for this was that we had a large number of employés who were strictly sober and attentive to their duties. The hon. member's bill would place temptation in the way of these people; and the facility for obtaining drink would tend to promote drunkenness among the passengers, and a greater nuisance could not be submitted to than that of having to travel in a railway carriage with a drunken man. Not only would passengers be subjected to that intolerable nuisance, but a general sense of insecurity would result. He appealed to the House to profit by the experience of Canada and Scotland, and he promised to oppose the measure at every stage.

Mr. COPELAND moved the omission of the words, "Minister of Justice," with a view to insert the words, "Colonial Treasurer."

Mr. MACINTOSH did not see why a Minister should have the privilege of issuing licenses, and he objected that there was nothing in the bill to prevent the railway refreshment rooms being converted into wholesale stores. They could sell liquor in any quantity they thought proper, and he supposed the liquor would be carried free by rail. If licenses were to be granted, they should be granted by the magistrates, or by a board. If the licensing were entrusted to the usual licensing authorities he should not have half the objection to the proposal that he had now. He advised the hon. gentleman to postpone the bill for another week. There had been no petition in its favour, and petitions had come in against it from all parts of the country. If the bill were postponed the House would be in a position to judge of the Government proposals for dealing with the licensing of publicans generally.

Mr. BAKER protested against the obstruction of the hon. member for East Sydney (Mr. J. Davies) after the bill on its second reading had been approved by the House, and contended that less drinking in railway carriages would be carried on if there were licensed refreshment rooms than there was at present.

Mr. MACINTOSH and Mr. J. DAVIES both denied that they were unfairly obstructing the bill.

Mr. W. DAVIES said the hon. member for the Northern Gold-fields seemed to wish to restrict the speaking to the supporters of the bill. The hon. gentleman had himself often obstructed the business, and it did not come well from him to make objection. One argument that had been used was that grog was now handed round the carriages and drinking carried on.

Mr. BAKER said the hon. gentleman was out of order, as he was not speaking to the amendment.

Mr. CAMERON said hon. gentlemen must confine their observations to the amendment.

Mr. W. DAVIES said it must be very hard for the committee to decide which was the best man to attend to this business—the Minister for Justice or the Colonial Treasurer. The mover of the amendment had not given any reason for proposing to make the change. Surely the proposed amendment was a reflection upon the Minister for Justice. Did the hon. gentleman think that the Colonial Treasurer would be a better judge of the matters that would come under his notice than the Minister for Justice? He objected to so young a man as the Colonial Treasurer having such a power placed in his hands.

Mr. COPELAND explained that his reason for moving the amendment was simply that the Colonial Treasurer was in the habit of issuing licenses.

Mr. ROSEBY justified his opposition to the bill on the ground that he thought it was calculated to do serious injury to the public. [Attention was called to the state of the committee, and a quorum was formed.] It was not the fact that licenses were granted by the Colonial Treasurer. They were granted by the magistrates. He objected to the power being placed in the hands of one person. He would vote against the amendment, and, should it be lost, he would be prepared to propose another.

Mr. HUNGERFORD intended to vote against the amendment, because he thought the Minister for Justice was the person most likely to be well informed as to the characters of applicants for licenses.

Attention was called to the state of the committee, and there not being a quorum being present, the fact was reported to the House. On the bell being rung, a quorum was formed.

The committee resumed.

Mr. JACOB supported the amendment.

Attention was called to the state of the committee, and a quorum was formed.

Mr. ROSEBY again addressed the committee.

Mr. J. DAVIES again addressed the committee. He suggested that the further consideration of the bill should be postponed until reports on the subject had been obtained from the railway officials.

Mr. M'ELHONE said he could understand the opposition of Messrs. Roseby and J. Davies, who were well known as teetotallers, but he could not understand the opposition of Mr. W. Davies, who sold liquor wholesale to his customers for them to sell it retail to make people drunk. He alluded to his experience in travelling on the Victorian railways recently, where he saw that the bulk of the articles sold were eatables, and not grog, although it was allowed to be sold there.

Mr. MACINTOSH rose to order. The hon. member was speaking to the general question, and not to the amendment.

Mr. CAMERON said he did not see that the hon. member's remarks were altogether relevant to the question.

Mr. M'ELHONE, in order to put himself in order, moved that the Chairman leave the chair. He had seen much more tea and coffee consumed on the Victorian lines than spirituous liquors. He did not think we were any less moral in this colony than they were in Victoria, and he did not believe any of the evils would arise from the passing of this bill that some hon. members seemed to fear. It was far worse for people to be compelled to take bottles of drink with them, than to allow them to get it at the stations.

Mr. MACINTOSH said this bill proposed twice as many refreshment rooms on our lines as they had on the Victorian lines. The gradients on our lines were far heavier than those on the Victorian lines, and we had far more need to be careful. He thought the hon. member would do well to withdraw the bill, as it had not been asked for by the people.

Mr. COPELAND said that the member for East Sydney in March last introduced a bill which gave persons the right to obtain refreshments if they had travelled only ten miles; but under this bill travellers would not be able to obtain refreshments at a less distance than fifty miles; and it would not be lawful under any circumstances for the Government to license refreshment rooms nearer to each other than thirty miles. It was a piece of impertinence for two or three hon. members to set their opinions against the whole House; and, as they introduced these Victorian tactics of stone-walling here, he would remind them there were old Victorians in the House who could play the game quite as well as they. Their action on this occasion was only another example of the narrowminded intemperance of those who, because they liked water themselves, fancied it was their duty to thrust it down the throats of everybody else. He looked upon the petitions presented as simply bunkum, as utterly worthless as representing the opinion of the public or anybody else except the G. W. P., whoever that was, and the G. S., who he saw from the published report of a temperance organization had framed the petition and sent it to the different branches of the organization for signature. The statements contained in the petition were a slander upon the railway employees of England, as he could prove from the report of the Royal Commission.

Attention was called to the state of the committee, and there not being a quorum present, the Chairman reported the fact to the House. There being still only nineteen members present, Mr. Speaker at twenty-one minutes to 8 o'clock, adjourned the House until 4 o'clock on Tuesday next.

The following members were present when the House was counted out:—Mr. Farnell, Mr. Fitzpatrick, Mr. Cohen, Mr. Leary, Mr. Driver, Mr. Cameron, Mr. Copeland, Mr. Shepherd, Mr. Burns, Mr. W. C. Browne, Mr. Murphy, Mr. O'Connor, Mr. Watson, Mr. Greenwood, Mr. Terry, Mr. Jacob, Mr. Moses, Mr. Badgery, Mr. J. Davies.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTICES.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3.

Mr. Windeyer to move,—That, in the opinion of this House, it is desirable that Clarke Island should be dedicated as a place of public recreation, and placed in the hands of trustees, and that the land at the head of Long Bay should also be secured to the public as a place of public recreation by Act of Parliament.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22.

SITTINGS FOR CAUSES.

Jury Court—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice FAUCETT.)

ISBESTER V. THOMSON.

Jury: Messrs. Isaac Himmelhoch, Joseph Cabe, J. P Smith, and J. W. Fell.

Sir George Innes, instructed by Mr. Fawl, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Darley, instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, for the defendant.

Josephus Cloriston Isbester sued James Thomson for the amount of his overdue promissory note, made on the 30th June, 1876, for £20. The defendant pleaded a set-off of money due for goods sold and delivered. This was in reality a case of disputed accounts. The plaintiff was a commission agent carrying on business in Sydney, and the defendant was a settler at Shoalhaven. Produce was sent by the defendant for sale by the plaintiff, who in return sent goods ordered and money. The accounts ran over some years, and did not appear to have been kept in a very accurate manner.

The jury, after counsel's addresses and his HONOR's direction, found a verdict for the defendant.

BALDWIN V. FARQUHARSON.

Jury: Messrs. J. H. Mills, T. Bray, W. Beattie, and S. Callaghan.

Mr. Butler, Q.C., instructed by Messrs. Deane and Deane, appeared for the plaintiff.

The defendant did not appear, and was not represented.

Charles Baldwin sued George Farquharson for trespassing on Dinawarindi station, near Manilla, with sheep, horses, and cattle. £1000 was claimed. The defendant paid 40s. into court. The plaintiff was a grazier and lessee of Dinawarindi station, Liverpool Plains, on which the defendant had conditionally purchased 640 acres, six years ago, which in ordinary seasons would carry about 500 sheep, but on which he attempted to run 3000 sheep, 160 head of cattle, and 30 horses. The consequence was that the greater part of his stock were continually depasturing on the plaintiff's land, to the great deterioration and injury not only of the grass and water, but also of the plaintiff's stock, much of which had to be removed, and some died.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, and assessed the damages at £636, including the sum paid into Court.

MOONEY V. TAYLOR.

Was struck out before it was called on.

AVERY V. MUSCIO.

Jury: Messrs. D. H. Gullivan, Thomas Stewart, James Scroggie, and N. Sutton.

Mr. Windeyer and Dr. Donovan, instructed by Mr. R. B. Smith, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. M. H. Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Laurence, and Jaques, for the defendant.

This was an action of ejectment brought by Thomas Avery to recover possession of 38 acres of land in the county of Macquarie, on the right bank of the Hasting's River, of which Peter Muscio was in possession.

The plaintiff's title was grant from the Crown (which was in the custody of the defendant's attorneys) dated 31st May, 1859, whereby the land in question was conveyed to William Wilson. Power of attorney from William Wilson to Henry Wilson. Conveyance of the land by William Wilson, the deed being signed by his attorney Henry Wilson, to the plaintiff for £500. At the conclusion of the plaintiff's case, Mr. M. H. Stephen moved for a nonsuit on the ground that Henry Wilson had not been authorized by the power of attorney to sell the land in question until he had obtained possession of it, and that, therefore, the action had been misconceived as it should have been brought in the name of William Wilson, and not in the name of the purchaser.

His HONOR, after hearing Mr. Windeyer and Dr. Donovan, agreed with the construction of the power of attorney placed upon it by Mr. Stephen, and nonsuited the plaintiff.

In Equity—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice HARGRAVE, Primary Judge.)

UNDERWOOD V. UNDERWOOD.

This was a petition by those representing the children of Richard Underwood, son of the late James Underwood, that the share of the late Richard Underwood, being one-fifth in the amount of money (£32,000) paid into court in respect of the Paddington Estate should be paid to those entitled.

Mr. Gordon and Mr. Owen appeared for the petitioners; Mr. Davis appeared for the trustees under the Underwood Estates Acts; Mr. Manning for William Underwood and Towel Cecil Underwood; Mr. Dawson for the executors of the late A. Davy; Mr. Bennett for the Hon. John Frazer, who had purchased the interest of Sydney, the son of Edward Underwood.

After the petition had been read, his Honor declined at the present time to make any order, the petition to stand over generally till after the vacation.

CAMPBELL V. HOSKINS.

In this suit, on the motion of Mr. Owen, the COURT made an order that a sum of money should be paid out of Court.

Dr. Donovan, for the defendant, applied for the defendant's costs in getting in the fund. An order was made for the defendant's costs of the application only.

FULLER V. TOOHEY.

This was a motion on behalf of the defendant for an extension of time to take evidence, and also to vary a decision of the Master in rejecting evidence.

Mr. Davis and Mr. Haydon appeared for the defendant.

Mr. Owen and Mr. Knox for the plaintiff did not object to the extension of time, but had no power to consent as the time for taking evidence had elapsed. The Master had rejected the evidence as it was unmaterial.

His HONOR granted the extension of time asked for, and ordered the evidence which had been rejected to be admitted. Costs of both parties to be costs in the cause.

DIBBS V. DIBBS.

This was a petition of Jane Dibbs, the wife of Mr. J. C. Dibbs, who was living apart from her husband in pursuance of the provisions of a deed of separation, for access at reasonable times to those of her children in the custody and care of the husband. Mrs. Dibbs had very many times, both in person and through her solicitor, applied to be allowed to see her children, without success.

Mr. C. J. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Shepherd and Asher, appeared for the petitioner.

Sir George Innes, instructed by Messrs. Daintrey and Chapman, appeared for the defendant, who consented to allow access to the children at reasonable times, and in the presence of a third person.

His HONOR accordingly made an order that the mother should have access to the children in the custody and care of the father at reasonable times in the presence of a third person. The order to follow the words used in the deed of separation, allowing the father to have access at reasonable times to the child in the custody and care of the mother.

EX PARTE AGNES BAILEY, AN INFANT.

On the motion of Mr. Irving, the Court made an order that Agnes Bailey, an infant, should be allowed to make a marriage settlement, under the Act 20 Vic., No. 2.

MATRIMONIAL AND DIVORCE CAUSES COURT.—FRIDAY.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice HARGRAVE.)

M'CARTNEY V. M'CARTNEY.

On the motion of Mr. Linklater, instructed by Mr. Hourigan, the COURT ordered substituted service of all the proceedings.

FATTORINI V. FATTORINI.

This was a motion, on notice, to settle issues for trial. E. L. D. Fattorini was the petitioner; and his wife, Pauline Henrietta, the respondent.

Dr. Donovan, instructed by Mr. De Lissa, appeared for the petitioner; Mr. Linklater, instructed by Messrs. Pigott and Trickett, for the respondent; Mr. Knox, instructed by Mr. Curtiss, appeared for Francis Cooper, father of the respondent—the citation, &c., having been served upon him.

His HONOR settled the issues to be proved by the petitioner, as follow:—1. Marriage. 2. Whether the respondent had continued separated from the petitioner since the month of May or June, 1877, and continued separated from him. 3. Whether the respondent unjustifiably refuses to render conjugal rights to the petitioner. 4. Whether the continued separtion of the respondent from the petitioner has been mainly occasioned by her father Francis Cooper, or promoted by his influence, and whether the respondent has been harboured by him against the will of the petitioner. The issues settled to be proved by the respondent were (1) cruelty, and (2) adultery. All of the issues were granted, subject to final settlement in his Honor's chambers.

The trial was ordered to be set down for the 16th December next. The issues to be tried by a common jury of 12.

It was then arranged that the trial should be heard in camera, but no order to that effect was made.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—FRIDAY.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

FRIDAY.

(Before his Honor Sir WILLIAM MANNING.)

Mr. Want prosecuted for the Crown.

George Burnett Whittington, convicted the previous day of stealing, was brought up for sentence. He had been remanded in consequence of his having put forward some statements to the effect that he was a pensioner in the army, but after inquiries by the police there seemed no confirmation of them. His Honor considered the defence put up a very bad one, as it was an attempt to most shamefully blacken the character of the prosecutrix without the slightest reason. The sentence was 12 months' imprisonment in Darlinghurst gaol, with hard labour.

Andrew Bryan, found guilty of wounding with intent, being brought up for sentence, said that he really stabbed the man in self-defence. The jury recommended him to mercy, and the captain of the ship he belonged to had given him an excellent character to the police. His Honor said, under the circumstances, a short sentence would probably meet the ends of justice, and he sentenced him to three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

His HONOR, addressing Mr. Bennett, said that he had heard that the latter gentleman was to move the Court to reserve the point in the case of the male prisoner Crawshaw, as to whether there was evidence to go to the jury to convict him. His Honor was not clear as to whether the point had been taken at the trial by Mr. Butler, and though he should reserve the point for the consideration of the full Court, he should at the same time report as to how the point was raised, and whether, under the circumstances, the full Court could entertain it. In the meantime, of course, the prisoner could be respited.

MURDER.

Cornelius Byron was charged, that on the 7th September, 1878, he did feloniously, wilfully, and by malice aforethought, kill and murder one Patrick Hale.

Prisoner pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. W. H. Cooper, instructed by Mr. Roberts.

The case was a peculiar one. The prisoner was not seen to commit the act. He had a row with the deceased, who was very drunk at the time, and he was seen to seize an iron bar and go in the direction of where deceased was. Shortly after, the deceased was found lying with a severe wound on his head, and the prisoner standing near where deceased fell. Deceased was put under medical care, and died some short time afterwards, as the evidence taken at the post-mortem examination went to prove, of the results of injury to the head. The issues were—first, whether the offence was murder or manslaughter; and second, whether there was evidence enough to prove that the injury might not have been caused by a fall.

Mrs. Hall, the mother of the deceased, stated that her son came home on the 1st August, with his head cut over the temple. He had been drinking heavily. He continued to get worse, and subsequently died on the 7th September.

Thomas Kirk stated that he was at the Gardener's Arms on the night of the 10th August, between half-past 7 and 8 o'clock. He saw deceased and the prisoner in the bar together; they did not appear to be quarrelling. This witness went into the kitchen of the public-house, and he heard some parties quarrelling shortly after. Prisoner shortly after came into the kitchen, and, taking the boiler off the fire, he seized the fire-bar and went out with it. Being warned that he had better let the boiler alone, he said "that he was going to do no harm." The next thing witness heard, about five minutes after, was the noise of some one falling in the passage, and upon going there he saw deceased lying there. Prisoner was not there, but he was in the bar.

This witness appeared to have been indulging rather freely, and gave some rather foggy evidence as to the position of the deceased and the prisoner when he went out. Deceased was lying on his face; he was picked up and taken into the yard when it was found that he had received a cut over the left temple; prisoner did not seem at all excited when he took the iron bar out of the kitchen.

Mr. Cooper cross-examined this witness at some length, with a view of showing that the position of the stairs in the passage and their construction, taken into consideration with the posture of the deceased as he lay on the ground, led to the inference that deceased might have fallen against the corner of the lower step of the stairs and sustained the fatal injury.

Margaret Hendren was serving in the bar of the Gardener's Arms on the night in question, and she heard a noise of a man falling in the passage; she found deceased lying on his back in the passage, and bleeding from a wound in the left temple; she called for assistance, and the deceased was picked up and taken outside; she found the iron bar in the yard next morning close to the end of the passage; both prosecutor and prisoner were drunk, but she did not hear them quarrelling.

Two witnesses, named Martin and M'Gowan, were called, but they failed to prove that there was any circumstance whatever that they noticed to connect the prisoner at all with the death of deceased, either in the way of quarrelling with him or assaulting him. Both of them indeed said that the deceased had told them that he had hurt his head in falling on the flags.

The medical evidence of Drs. Frean and Markey, who had attended deceased, and the latter of whom had made a post mortem examination of the corpse, went to show that the skull had been fractured, and that abscess on the brain had supervened, but neither of them seemed to consider that the blow on the head was the direct cause of death.

The jury interposed at this stage, and expressed the opinion that there was no case against the prisoner, in which his Honor concurred.

Mr. Want then withdrew the case, and the prisoner was discharged.

ASSAULT.

Charlotte Hawes pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting and ill treating a child, whose name was unknown, at Ashfield. The details of the case, as laid down in the depositions, were more damning against the father of the prisoner than herself, as it appeared that he and her sisters actually stood over the unfortunate girl when her confinement took place, and then the former insisted upon her taking the infant at once to the Infants' Home, at Ashfield. This course she followed, and, wrapping it in a shawl, she put it over a fence into the paddock where it was subsequently found.

His HONOR said that the case was worse against the father than the prisoner, whose atrocious conduct in sending the poor girl within a very short time of her confinement to carry the child to the Infants' Home. Still, this abandoning of children must be put down and examples must be made, as it would be monstrous if girls were to imagine that they could get rid of the fruits of their illicit intercourse in this clandestine way. His Honor could not let the case pass over without a sentence which would mark the heinousness of the offence, and he inflicted that of six months' imprisonment in Darlinghurst with hard labour, at the same time specially ordering that particular care should be taken of the girl during her term of imprisonment, and that she should not be allowed to associate with the more hardened criminals.

ASSAULT.

Hugh M'Dicken and Rachel M'Dicken were charged with committing an assault upon a child named Bridget M'Dicken.

Defendants pleaded not guilty, and were undefended.

The circumstances of the case were briefly these. The defendants were married, and the child was a stepchild of the wife's. A gentleman going home one night found the child exposed on a frosty night, and handing it to a constable, he took it to the Ashfield Infants' Home. The latter told inspector Rush, who, from what he heard, went to the prisoners' place, and asked the male defendant about the matter. He said that the child was a burden to his wife and that she would go mad if she was troubled with it. Hence he exposed it as he did."

Constable O'Connor said that he arrested the defendants because they disobeyed the summons by being too late at the Police Court. He had previously visited the house of the defendants on the 5th September with Sub-inspector Rush. M'Dicken and his wife came into the room. Mr. Rush asked M'Dicken his name, and if the lady was his wife. He said "Yes, and the youngest child was about 20 months old." After some further conversation M'Dicken said, "I know what you have come about." Mr. Rush then cautioned him as to the answers he made, and asked him "where the youngest child was?" "Well," he said, "I left it out at Ashfield." M'Dicken then stated that on the 7th August he and his wife had taken the child to Ashfield and exposed it, that he was willing now to take the child back and do the best he could with it. "My wife," he said, "was always complaining about the child being so dirty, and on the last occasion she threw herself in my arms and said, "If he left her this child any longer, she would go mad;" and hence, what could he do?

M'Dicken elicited from the constable the fact that he had cheerfully given all the information he could, and expressed his regret at the result.

Mr. Frederick Kensett, draper, residing at Ashfield, stated that, about half-past 11 o'clock on the night in question, he heard a noise, and he found the child trying to get out of the garden, and crying bitterly; it was a bitter cold night, and it was very lightly clad.

The poor child, a very interesting looking one, was here produced, and identified by Mr. Kinsett.

The latter not being able to find out anything about the child, gave information to the police, who took charge of it. The child was very cold, and had been crying for some time, but Mr. Kinsett thought it was a dog making a noise.

Constable Higgins deposed to having, at the instigation of Mr. Kensett, gone to his place at about half-past 11 on the night of the 7th August, and corroborated Mr. Kensett as to the coldness of the night and the exposure of the child. In this witness's presence, Mrs. M'Dicken said that they had left the child with an old man and woman residing near the Foundling Hospital, and that they must have exposed it where it was found. On the same day Mrs. M'Dicken went to Ashfield with the witness to point out the house where they had left the child, but she failed to find it anywhere near the Infants' Home. She ultimately confessed to having exposed it where it was found, and pleaded that she was not aware when she was married to M'Dicken that she would have so much trouble; now that the child was in the institution she hoped that it would be taken care of, and she would pay for it. On the back of the child's dress was pinned a piece of paper, with the following inscription:—"Please take this child, and do for it; I can do no more. Be kind to her and I will call and see it. Her name is Bridget. Send her to Miss Trollope. She is a year and eight months—I will send money when I can." Witness had seen the child subsequently, and it appeared to him to have suffered from the exposure.

Sub-inspector Rush stated that he had a long conversation with the defendants at various times, and that M'Dicken said "that they had taken the child to an old man and woman, instructing them to take the child into the Infants' Home, Ashfield, and that they stood by until they saw the child taken in;" male defendant was at the time a compositor in the employ of Messrs. Foster and Fairfax; he told witness that the female defendant was the child's stepmother.

M'Dicken cross-examined sub-inspector Rush, and elicited from him that both he and his wife had given information readily; and the sub-inspector declared positively that both M'Dicken and his wife said "they waited to see the child taken into the institution," and not "into the house of the old people at Ashfield, they took it to."

The medical evidence went to show that the life of the child would be imperilled by the exposure, and Miss Trollope, the matron of the institution, said that it had suffered severely from cold afterwards. The male defendant had applied about two years previously to the directors of the institution to take all his children into the institution, and he proffered to pay for them.

In answer to his Honor, Miss Trollope said that a large number of inmates of the institution were children abandoned by their parents.

Miss Throllope, one of the officers of the institution, corroborated Miss Trollope as to the miserable condition of the poor child, when it was brought, from exposure. She also found marks of ill-usage on it, as if it had been severely beaten with the hand. The child was not of dirty habits, and, though evidently very timid as if through ill-usage, was remarkably intelligent.

Its appearance in Court spoke volumes for the kind and careful treatment it had received in the Infants' Home.

The male prisoner addressed the jury more in extenuation of his conduct than as asserting his innocence.

The female prisoner said nothing.

His HONOR said there was no possible doubt left the jury, and they must convict, for the defence was really a plea of guilty. It was a question sometimes whether the female defendant was a free agent, but, without dictation to the jury, he thought that in this instance Mrs. M'Dicken was equally liable with her husband, and it was doubtful whether he was not a miserable instrument in her hands, as weak-minded as heartless.

The jury convicted both prisoners at once; and his HONOR said that as the case was a very peculiar one, he should not pass sentence until he had had an opportunity of consulting some of his brother Judges.

The Court then adjourned to 10 o'clock on Monday.

Mr. Drysdale was fined £5 for non-attendance as a juror.

POLICE.

At the CENTRAL POLICE COURT, yesterday, Elizabeth M'Cormack was charged with being an idle and disorderly person. Constable Wardell saw her about 1 o'clock in George-street, and took her into custody. She said that she had been eight months in the poor house, and having about a fortnight since, obtained leave to come out, had twice served seven days in gaol for drunkenness. The Bench (consisting of the Police Magistrate, with Messrs. Joly, Reading, Thomas, Skarratt, and Barden), sentenced her to be imprisoned, with hard labour, for a period of two months.

Ellen Ryan was charged by constable Cross with having endangered public safety by wantonly throwing a stone in King-street. She admitted having thrown the stone at the driver of a cart in King-street, but said that she was provoked to do so by the man striking her with his whip. The constable said that the whip may have hit her, but he was sure that the man had no intention of striking her. To pay a penalty of 40s., or to be imprisoned seven days. She was next charged with using obscene language (handed up to the Bench in writing). She admitted the possibility of having used the words, but pleaded in extenuation that if she did she was in agony by the twisting the constable gave her arms. To pay a penalty of £5, or to be imprisoned three months.

Robert Anderson, 9, was brought before the Bench by constable Hemming, who about 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening found him begging in George-street. He said that having no home he was begging for sixpence to procure a night's lodging. In reply to questions from the Bench the boy said that he had been five days in Sydney from Brisbane, that he expected to find his father and mother here, but had failed to do so. His father was a shipwright he said, and came to Sydney, leaving him behind until he should send for him; that he came to Sydney under the care of the cook of the steamer, but had been unable to hear where his parents had gone; he had slept in cow sheds since he came to Sydney. His grandmother, Mrs. Boon, he believed, lived at Balmain. Their Worships directed an order to be made out for the boy's admittance into the Benevolent Asylum while inquiry should be made of the whereabouts of his parents.

Mary Orr was charged by sergeant Lawler with riotous behaviour in George-street, between the hours of 12 and 1 yesterday morning. She denied that she was making any noise or disturbance, although she had some words with her husband. She wanted to call her husband as a witness, but he could not be admitted as an evidence. She then said that a gentleman the sergeant spoke to as Mr. Tickle, but a stranger to her, was present at the time, and could testify whether she was either disorderly or riotous. The Bench postponed their decision until Mr. Tickle could be brought, and for whom sergeant Lawler was sent. Subsequently sergeant Lawler informed the Bench that Mr. Tickle had gone out of town. The defendant was sentenced to pay a penalty of 5s., or to be detained until the rising of the Court.

Twenty-nine persons were fined in sums ranging from 1s. to 20s. on the summons side of the Central Police Court—Messrs. Neale, Graham, and Ridge being the sitting Justices—for offences against the Police, the Vagrant, and the Drunkards Punishment Acts, but none of the cases were of interest beyond the parties concerned. Thirteen informations were withdrawn by the police.

Messrs. Neale, Graham, Ridge, and Hart granted a slaughtering license to John Twigg, an auctioneer's license to William W. Small, a pawnbroker's license to Elias Mosson, a billiard license to Edward Davis, and a colonial wine license to James Hannah. The publican's license held by James Yeoman was transferred to Robert Grace.

At the WATER POLICE COURT, yesterday, before the Police Magistrate and Messrs. Lester and Goodridge, Thomas Shuttleworth was sentenced to pay 60s., or to go to gaol for one month, for refusing to pay 5s. passage money, from Newcastle to Sydney, on board the steamship Kembla.

Louisa Sampson was summarily convicted of stealing a quantity of clothing, valued at £1, the property of Caroline Gritton. The prisoner in the case was the servant of the prosecutor, and, as it appeared from the evidence that the prisoner only intended to wear the clothes for a time, the Bench considered a sentence of seven days' imprisonment a sufficient punishment.

A number of cases under the Transit and Corporation by-laws were heard before Messrs. Smart, Hunt, M'Mahon, and Jeanneret, but the greater number of them were unimportant. Several persons were fined £2 and costs for having filthy premises and removing night-soil during prohibited hours. A cabdriver named Charles Cook was fined 10s., and 5s. costs of court, for demanding more than his legal fare, and a similar fine was inflicted on John O'Dowd, manager of the Waverley and Woollahra Omnibus Company, for not having a bell and check string in one of the company's 'buses.

Before Messrs. Smart, Hunt, and Jeanneret, a pawnbroker's licence was granted to Rose Joseph, and two publican's licences were transferred, viz., from Frederick Leach to Edward Lane, and from George Fisher to Frank Lloyd. There were two other applications on the sheet, one of which was postponed and the other withdrawn.

I have prescribed Grimault and Co.'s Matico Capsules and Injection to two of my patients; the cure has proved radical, and I have no fear in saying that those matico preparations are called to render eminent services in the practice. De Boris, St. Germain.—ADV.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

PHILLIP WARD.

Mr. Richard M'Coy, a candidate for municipal honours at the approaching municipal election in connection with Phillip Ward, addressed a large number of ratepayers last night, in the vicinity of the Crown Inn, Regent-street.

The chair was taken by Mr. W. Forsyth, who introduced the candidate in the most favourable terms.

Mr. M'COY said he asked the suffrages of the ratepayers because he had been requested to do so by a large number of gentlemen who took great interest in municipal and social matters, and had large stakes in the ward. Two years ago he asked the ratepayers for their support. There were three candidates at the time. [A Voice: And you were out of it.] He was not present, however, to say anything about other candidates but to explain his views on matters of interest to the ratepayers. If they thought his views right they should give him their votes, and if they did not think so they should reject him. Personally he had nothing to gain by going into the Council—no axe to grind, no friend to put into office. If he got into the Council he would not represent one or two individuals, nor even the two thousand ratepayers in the ward; he would be prepared to go in to represent the general interests of Sydney, his adopted city. It was wisely arranged that aldermen should have power for only two years, and as a vacancy was just about to occur, he went before them as he had promised to do two years ago. His address, he was afraid, would be exceedingly dry. [A voice: Wet it.] Figures were dry as a rule, but he would try to show by them that he knew something about civic affairs. He found from the last abstract of the City Treasurer, that they were in debt to the very moderate extent of nearly £1,000,000. On account of the city fund proper, they owed upwards of £95,000, on water supply £326,181, on sewerage £444,175, on the Sydney Common £32,448; on the Prince Alfred Park £14,313; making a total of £926,526. [A voice: We knew that long ago.] He was glad to hear the gentleman say so, and wished the ratepayers knew it, for then they would send men to the Council to see that their financial affairs were properly and permanently adjusted. They had a right to complain of being saddled with such a large amount of debt, especially as a very large portion of it was incurred when citizens and ratepayers had no control over it whatever. It would be seen that they were saddled with a great portion of it, in consequence of an extraordinary bad system of sewerage, carried out under irresponsible commissioners. The ratepayers suffered for twenty years, but there was a proposal at last to relieve them of some of their debt. The relief came when circumstances compelled Parliament to do something for the city. They had been deprived for many years of their endowments because the respective amounts of them had been kept back as an equivalent to interest on the debt accumulated by the irresponsible Ministers he referred to. The proposal of the Government was to give them an endowment of £25,000 a year for ten years. Some legislators thought that was doing a great deal for the city, but the bill providing for it also provided that the Government institutions and public buildings should be free from all taxation and have water supplied to them free. If the water supplied to those institutions and buildings was paid for, and the taxes on them paid, the sum of nearly £30,000 would be accumulated. The Government, therefore, offered them a sop for ten years to get rid of the liability and responsibility the whole country or the Consolidated Revenue ought to pay for. He thought they should not make posterity pay for such a state of things. In ten years matters would be as bad as ever. Their sewerage was defective and ought to be improved. With regard to the bill for the supply of water, they would have to bring pressure to bear, to prevent the present bill becoming law, or they would run the risk of being saddled with greater debt. It would provide them with five more commissioners, some of whom would be Ministers of the Crown. To bring a Minister of the Crown to the level of a commissioner would degrade that functionary's office and the colony too. The proposal to give the council two members at the Board was not required. There was no reason why, in the matter of water supply, so much additional expenditure should be incurred. It did not interest the candidates as to where the water was brought from, although it might to some extent interest the suburbs. Botany, if well and properly managed, would give a sufficient supply of water for the city and suburbs for years and years. The supply there had not diminished in the slightest degree during a number of years, and there was no reason to suppose it would diminish to any serious extent in the future. The next thing demanding attention was a Building Act. Before the bill of that sort was laid before Parliament he was one of those who had sufficient courage to assert that unless something was done to improve the dwellings of the people the sanitary condition of the country would be deplorable. He was of opinion that the appointment of the Transit Commissioners was a mistake. The commissioners swallowed in expenses all the money received for vehicular licenses, whereas the money should be utilized for repairing the streets worn out by vehicle traffic. He was prepared to undertake any action required to mend such a state of affairs, to make arrangements for taxing unoccupied land, and for improving the lighting of the city by gas, by bringing the supply of gas under the operations of the Municipal Council. In conclusion, he expressed himself in favour of the eight hour movement, believing that to be a sufficiently long time for men to work in a climate like that of New South Wales. Mr. J. Roseby, M.L.A., proposed that Mr. M'Coy was a fit and proper person to represent Philip Ward in the Municipal Council. The proposition was seconded by Mr. J. A. Clark, supported by Mr. George Gouldie, and declared carried. Mr. Frank Dixon said he was present to state that he had used the language at the anti-Chinese meeting at the Masonic Hall the friends of Mr. M'Coy thought prejudicial to him. Besides, it was no true [A voice: It is true; he owned it himself two years ago.] The committee that organised the meeting were the medium of intimations of it to all the municipal candidates. They did so to all except Mr. M'Coy. He asked why that exception was made when it was stated that Mr. M'Coy employed Chinese in making fittings for his shop. Mr. M'Coy and his friends denied the truth of the assertion; and if the assertion was untrue he had much pleasure in withdrawing his statement. It was on the information brought to the committee he used the assertion, and if Mr. M'Coy had satisfied them on the point he would withdraw the statement—as far as the present shop was concerned. Mr. Henry Bed then went forward and said he was the contractor for the fittings in Mr. M'Coy's new shop, and could testify that no Chinese labour was used on them.

The chairman was then thanked for his services, and the proceedings terminated by three cheers being given for the Queen.

FITZROY WARD.

A meeting of the supporters of J. M'Elhone, M.L.A., was held last evening at Kearey's Hotel, William-street; upwards of 200 persons were present. Mr. Beare was voted to the chair. Mr. M'Elhone addressed the meeting at some length, after which the meeting carried unanimously a motion to the effect that he is a fit and proper person to represent the ward. A committee was formed to carry out the object of the meeting, which adjourned after expressing a very warm and good feeling to the candidate.

COOK WARD.

Yesterday evening, a large and influential meeting was held at Mason's Hotel, Gipps and Macquarie streets, in favour of the candidature of Alderman Carpenter. The chair was occupied by Mr. Charles Glass, who called upon Alderman Carpenter to explain his views. In response, that gentleman entered fully into the various matters connected with the city and the action he had taken in each case. During the whole of Alderman Carpenter's address, the utmost order prevailed. At the conclusion, Mr. Thorn proposed, Mr. John Davies, M.L.A., seconded, and Mr. P. R. Holdsworth supported a resolution affirming Alderman Carpenter's fitness for re-election, which was unanimously carried with cheers. The usual vote of thanks to the chairman, and three cheers for the Queen, concluded the meeting.

The Stock and Share market continues firm, and previous quotations fully maintained. Bank shares in steady request at hardening prices. City had buyers at 10¼, sellers at 10⅜; Commercial offered at 99; Joint Stock had buyers at 13¼, sellers at 13½; Mercantile were firmer, fully paid wanted at 5⅜, and new issue at 3¼; New South Wales sold at 46½, and had buyers, holders asking 47; New Zealand changed hands at 28, and were offered; National of Queensland had buyers at 6, sellers at 6⅛; Oriental sellers at 40, and Union at 57. Debentures were unchanged, New South Wales of all denominations unaltered. Gaslight of both issues firm at late rates. Insurance shares strongly held. Australian Fire were not offered below 6s. 6d.; City had buyers at 1s. 11d., sellers at 2s. 1d.; Mercantile wanted at 2s. 4d.; New South Wales offered at 37s. 6d.; Pacific had buyers at that figure, sellers at 39s. 6d.; Sydney Fire had sellers at 76s., and Sydney Marine sales at 23s., with sellers at 23s. 3d.; United held for 80s. In mining there was nothing done. Shale Oil rather better, buyers at 12s. 6d. sellers at 12s. 9d. Bulli Coal wanted at 13½; Wallsend offered at 16⅜, and Waratah at 6⅛. Great Cobar Copper offered at 8s., sellers at 9s. Volunteer land orders have declined to 103 buyers, 106 sellers.

Messrs. Mort and Co., Mr. Bridge, Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, and Messrs. Maiden, Hill, and Clark, held their weekly sales of produce to-day. There was a good demand for hides, and nearly all offered changed hands at 3d. to 3½d. for heavies, 3¼d. to 3⅞d. for small lots of extra weights. Calfskins realised 9d. to 3s. 1d.; inferior yearlings, 1s. 10d. to 3s. 10d.; kangaroo, 3d. to 2s. 6d.; horse, 4s. 9d.; inferior goat, 2d.; horns, 11s. 6d. to 31s. 6d.; shank bones, £3 to £16. The tallow market was dull, there being no buyers for export.

In the Import markets business was moderately active, but prices low. Breadstuffs remain firm at late rates for bakers' lots on the spot. We have not heard of any sales of new wheat for forward delivery. Late news from the Cape indicates that South Australia will not find so large an outlet in that direction next season, as the local crops promised to be large and prolific. Teas are more active; a line of 320 packages ration sorts were placed to one buyer this afternoon on terms reserved. Good mediums, worth say 70s. per half-chest, are more salable. Coarse Liverpool salt is being pushed off at 65s. In liquors the principal change has been the advance of large contents Geneva to 13s. for key brand. Medium worth 11s. 6d. Queensland rum is easier, with sales at 2s. 3d. Bottled ale having become more plentiful, best brands can be obtained at 10s. 9d. Our usual commercial summary for the Suez mail will be published on Monday morning.

It was intended to hold a meeting in the estate of Messrs. John Isaacs and Co. this afternoon, but as the committee of investigation were not quite ready it will not take place before Monday.

The breadstuffs market is decidedly lower. Flour, £10 10s. to £10 12s. 6d.; wheat, 5s. to 5s. 1d. There is good demand at full prices for brewery and fine descriptions of sugar.

SUMMARY OF NEWS FOR EUROPE.

The summary of Colonial news for transmission to Europe via Galle by the Royal mail steamship Siam will be published in this journal on Monday, the 25th instant. Orders for extra copies should be lodged with the clerk of the counter on Saturday. Our friends in the country are reminded that orders to post for England will be too late after Monday morning's mail.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

We beg to inform our advertising friends that, to secure insertion and proper classification in Saturday's paper, it is necessary that their advertisements should reach this office not later than 9 o'clock on Friday night.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1878.

In the Legislative Assembly, yesterday,

Questions were asked by Messrs. Driver, J. Davies, Dangar, M'Elhone, W. C. Browne, Cameron, and Hungerford, and answered by Ministers.

Petitions were presented by Messrs. Coonan, J. Davies, and Lucas.

Sir John Robertson said he might have to move the adjournment of the House to make a statement. Before moving his resolution respecting the widow of the late Dr. Lang, he had received a letter from her to the effect that she could not receive any gratuity after it had been refused to her late husband. He had attempted to obviate that objection through a mutual friend, and the day after making his resolution he had received a letter from Mrs. Lang positively declining any such gratuity from Government as was proposed. He thought everyone must honour the feeling which had prompted this decision, however much it might be regretted that the gratitude of Parliament could not take effect.

The House then went into committee for the further consideration of the City of Sydney Improvement Bill.

An amendment was proposed by Mr. Terry in schedule C, the schedules and postponed clauses were agreed to, the bill reported, and the third reading appointed for Wednesday next.

The House went into committee for the further consideration of the Railway Refreshment Rooms Bill.

After debate by Messrs. J. Davies, Copeland, Macintosh, Baker, Hungerford, W. Davies, M'Elhone, Greenwood, Roseby, and Jacob, attention was called to the absence of a quorum, whereupon the House resumed, and there still not being a quorum present, the Speaker declared the House adjourned at twenty-one minutes to 8 o'clock, until 4 o'clock on Tuesday.

Mr. Farnell told the Assembly on Thursday, that in his new Land Bill, he had made an effort to grapple with all the defects of the present law. In our judgment, he has, while dealing with many details, left one fundamental defect as it is. That defect is, that the Government first leases land to one person, and then invites other persons to intrude upon that lease. This has been called an imitation of the American system, and Sir John Robertson seems, by his language, to imply that his policy was in accordance with the American model. But it is nothing of the kind. There is this essential difference—the American Government does not lease the unsold land. In all, but some of the Southern States, winter pasturage is not possible, and the unsold estate is simply a summer commonage. It is free to all, and the homestead settler ousts no previous occupier who has a title. But the basis of Australian prosperity has lain in the fact that its pasturage is good all the year round, and its flocks and herds could be sustained without any accompanying agriculture. Such a country could not be wisely thrown open to commonage. Very early in the history of the settlement it became clear that the right course was to allow definite occupancy of definite areas. Owing partly to ignorance, and partly to other causes, many mistakes were made in regulating the details of this occupancy, but no one has ever doubted that it was a wise thing to create the right of run. Two great advantages have followed the adoption of this system—first, the Government obtained a valuable revenue for the grass right; and, secondly, immense improvements have become possible, both in the breed of stock and in the carrying capacity of the land. It is clear, however, that the concession of the right of run is intrinsically inconsistent with the granting to other than the lessee the right to purchase and to graze within the same limits. Sir John Robertson boasts, naturally enough, that his land law was the first to create this second right; but it appears to us that it was matter for regret rather than for boasting, and that the injury it has done to the colony is out of all proportion to the bona-fide settlement it has given rise to. It has admittedly intensified class hostility between small and large occupiers; it has given rise to an enormous amount of dummyism, evasion of the law, and falsification. It has kept down what might have been the better income from public rentals, and by artificially stimulating the passion for land, has, to a most unhealthy degree, absorbed private capital in the premature purchase of land, and overloaded the public treasury. The new bill, which is intended to be a reform, as well as a consolidation of the law, does not touch this evil, and Sir John Robertson is so far justified in claiming Mr. Farnell and Mr. Fitzpatrick as tardy converts to a system which for many years they have condemned. It is not true, however, that this system has been adopted by all the other colonies, and is now the law of Australia, while it is certainly true that in New South Wales, many people who did not see its evil in 1871 are quite awake to it in 1879. But their opposition is paralysed by the conviction that such huge invested interests have grown up under the system, that it is difficult to do more than try and correct some of its worst defects.

Mr. Farnell was quite right in saying that he has not been the first to propose remissions of interest or reductions in the purchase-price of land. There is no doubt that in past days several proposals have been made for fooling away the public estate. To recall them to memory shows how little our politicians understood the value of the property they were dealing with, and how completely they were led away by erroneous theories or by then dominant influences. If some people could have had their way, lands that are now eagerly bought at twenty shillings an acre, would, under the disparaging title of back lands, have been comparatively given away at five shillings an acre. Other politicians would have let them go at ten shillings an acre, and some others at fifteen. Mr. Farnell now claims twenty-five shillings, and the principal objection to his so doing is that he does not raise the price all round. But because politicians previously in power have proposed what, it is now clear, would have been fatal mistakes, is that any reason why, with all the light of experience, Mr. Farnell should to any extent imitate their blunder? It certainly amazes us that the same Minister who has raised the upset price at auction to twenty-five shillings an acre should tell the Assembly that it was necessary to reduce the price to the free selector because the best land was all gone. Yet Mr. Farnell himself admits that free selection has been in excess of any bona-fide requirement, and that there has not been in the colony the population to do justice to the 7,000,000 of acres that have been alienated under the conditions of personal residence, and of improvements at the rate of a pound an acre. Yet although there has been this excessive, this unwholesome, and this unwise alienation of land under the pretence of conditions that could not possibly be fulfilled, and although conditional purchase is still going on at the excessive rate of 2,000,000 acres per annum, Mr. Farnell tells the Assembly that the system requires to be still further stimulated by making the terms still more easy to the selector. When disparaging the value of the unsold residue of the colony, he also entirely ignores the fact that we have spent nine millions sterling in railways to open up the country, and to give facility for the transit of produce to the market. This outlay has given additional value to the Crown estate. Even if it were true that all the first-class land had been alienated, the value of the second-class land has been brought up by the extension of railway communication. Land of second-class fertility close to a station is as valuable as better land remote from a market. Mr. Farnell proposes to make another thousand miles of railway, which means a further improvement in the value of Crown land to the extent of five or six millions sterling; and yet in the same breadth he tells us that the terms upon which the greater part of the estate is alienated ought to be made more easy. Is it possible for a public policy to be more inconsistent in its several parts? Mr. Farnell, indeed, offers to give up this reduction of interest, or anything else that the House does not like; but, though such concessions may improve his bill, they do not improve the quality of his Ministerial exposition.

In the resumed debate upon the Parliamentary Privileges Bill on Wednesday last, the Attorney-General described Mr. Butler's speech in opposition to the measure as that of "an able advocate of specific views rather than that of a statesman deliberating cautiously whether the measure should be accepted or amended." It is, however, Mr. Foster who occupies the position of a special pleader in this matter, whilst it is Mr. Butler and others who with him call upon the House to pause before it passes a law which would involve the rights and liberties of the people in undefined danger, who are acting the part of cautious statesmen. As we have before pointed out, the advocates of undefined privilege are always obliged to fall back upon the assertion that there is no reason to fear that the oppressive powers exercised by the House of Commons in days gone by would now be exercised. Bring back the middle ages, it is said, restore the feudal system, destroy the light of modern civilization, and then, it is admitted, there might be danger to society in the passing of such a bill. But that is simply saying that because the middle ages have passed away, the feudal system has been abolished, and the light of modern civilization pervades the country, society would not be endangered now by it. In other words, the bill ought to be passed, because it is assumed there would be no danger in passing it, although it is admitted that the powers which it would confer were actually exercised to the danger of society in days gone by. It is not cautious statesmanship that confers powers which have been used oppressively in the past on the strength of an assumption that in the present and the future they would not be used at all. Cautious statesmanship would take warning from the past, and regulate its action by the proved necessities of the case.

If we could call back the middle ages, and were about to witness a restoration of the feudal system, then it might possibly be well for our Parliament to arrogate to itself the powers and privileges of the House of Commons, because there would be a prospect of benefit to set against the probability of danger. It might be necessary then for Parliament to be in possession of extravagant and unmeasured power—to have a right to say what its own rights were—in order that it might fight the battle of popular freedom against Royal prerogative and class privilege. But the argument that there is no danger now, because the times have altered, carries with it the counter argument, that there is no necessity now that times have altered. And under existing circumstances, and in view of future developments, our case does not stand only on the negative foundation, that there is no necessity for the assumption of these powers, but also on the ground that the absence of the necessity involves the presence of danger. There was danger from their possession in days gone by; but the danger may be greater in the days to come, because the overbearing influences against which the House of Commons struggled in the past will then have no existence. In the days to come the majority in Parliament will be the instrument of a dominant party, and a dominant class outside; and privilege, which in the hands of the House of Commons in the past was a weapon of defence against powerful enemies in the field, may then become an engine of oppression to keep down the slightest movement or sign of political life on the part of silenced minorities and the members of a class practically disfranchished.

Mr. FOSTER says that to attribute untrustworthiness to our Legislature is a great offence; to insinuate that the body charged with making the laws is not to be trusted is almost treason to the country and its people. Unfortunately for Mr. FOSTER's argument, it is not the trustworthiness of the Legislature that is called into question. If it were proposed that, before these privileges should be put in force against any member of the community, a bill should be passed through both Houses, and receive the Governor's assent, there would be less reason for fearing that privilege might become an instrument of tyranny. The Legislature as a whole might be trustworthy so far; but at the same time it might be quite possible for an excited majority of either House to commit a gross wrong by directing the prosecution of any person whom by such a resolution it would adjudge to be an offender against privilege.

Mr. FOSTER's chief argument is that the privileges of the House of Commons and the common law of England stand upon the same footing. But, as Mr. DARLEY showed, it is not to be accepted as an axiom that the common law of England is incapable of being defined; and still less is it to be assumed that if it could be, by the expenditure of a reasonable amount of time and effort, it ought not to be. Other countries find it to their advantage to rely upon the definitions of statute law, and the tendency of opinion in England is in favour of reforms in that direction. It is not opposition to the principle that delays such reforms; it is rather the difficulty of carrying it into practical operation. But if there be any similarity in kind between Parliamentary privilege and the common law in England, there is an immense difference between them as to the ground which each respectively covers. The common law has a bearing upon all the varied transactions and relations of national life. Parliamentary privilege has reference only to the dignity and independence of Parliament, and provisions for the effectual discharge of its functions. It might be a labour of HERCULES to reduce the common law to a code, and to detect and eliminate in the process all that is superfluous; but to ascertain and specify all that is under actual circumstances necessary to maintain the dignity and independence of Parliament, and to provide for the effectual performance of its duty, is a work that could be performed in any single session if members would approach the task with simplicity of purpose, and without allowing their attention to be distracted by fanciful analogies.

We find Mr. FOSTER referring again to the privileges of the superior Courts in the matter of punishing contempt. When will he learn that this is no argument, but simply a begging of the question? The privileges of the Courts in the matter of contempt are upon their trial. The necessity or expediency of retaining or maintaining them is yet to be proved. It may be asserted by some that justice could not be administered if they were more closely restricted, and clearly defined by statute. But that has not been proved, and in default of actual experiment cannot be. So it is with Parliamentary privilege. No amount of assertion that our Parliament cannot do its duty without possessing all the powers of the House of Commons could prove that to be the fact. The repeated admission that all these powers, if possessed, would not be exercised, discredits the assertion. On the other hand, we know that in the case of the law Courts, as in that of the House of Commons, the possession of these powers has led to wrong-doing. The present question, however, is not whether the powers of the Courts should be defined. That is a reform which will one day be taken up and carried. The question now is whether the Houses of the Legislature should be put in possession of powers which are not really required, and which might be in the future, as they have been in the past, used as powers of mischief. Cautious statesmen will not accede to such a request.

It is greatly to be regretted that any Judge should be under the necessity of passing sentence of death, and of confessing that his doing so is a mere formal affair. This, however, was what Sir WILLIAM MANNING felt himself compelled to do in the case of the QUEEN v. CRAWSHAW and wife. His Honor stated that the prisoners having been found guilty of arson, no alternative was left him but to pronounce the sentence of death on them. But he did so as a matter of form, and, according to the report, the sentence of death was formally passed. No objection whatever can be taken to the course pursued by his Honor. Still such a state of things reveals the necessity that exists for a thorough revision of our criminal code. The sentence of death is, and ought to be felt to be, a solemn thing, and we submit that it never should be pronounced under circumstances in which nobody expects for a moment that it will be carried out, or in which no seriousness of any kind is attached to it. Nothing can be more demoralizing than a law which is not meant to be kept, which is wholly out of harmony with the public conscience, and which is preserved as a relic of the past rather than a requirement of the present. In former times the heaviest sentence of the law was visited upon offenders who committed comparatively light crimes, as well as upon those who were guilty of murder itself. The crime of arson, for example, was once believed to be worthy of death, but no one now considers that it is so. In reality the great bulk of people believe that only when life is taken should life be forfeited; and probably the number of those who think that capital punishment should be inflicted at all is lessening every day. As intelligence and humanity grow the severity of punishments becomes increasingly modified. The laws of a community should be the interpretations of its soundest judgment, and of its purest conscience. A law, above everything else, ought to embody a living reality, not a mockery or a sham, and every such trial as the one to which we have alluded should help the public to realize this. Such an admission as the one that was made by Sir WILLIAM MANNING, however, must do the opposite of this. It is to be hoped that the day is not distant when our criminal jurisprudence will be so altered as to make it impossible for a Judge to pass any sentence, and most of all the sentence of death, merely as a matter of form.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

GREAT BRITAIN now appears to be fairly launched on another war. All attempts to bring the Afghan ruler to his senses have failed, the patience of the English Government is exhausted, and British troops have advanced across the frontier from Quettah, and occupied an Afghan fort. The ultimatum which was sent the Ameer informed him that he must dismiss the Russian emissaries, and preserve a neutral attitude. This he has ignored altogether, and there was thus no other course left to England but to assume the offensive. Lord Lytton announced to the Afghan frontier chiefs that England's quarrel is against the Ameer personally, on account of his repeated unfriendly acts and insults. He impressed upon them that England had no grievances against the Afghans, but that the British forces would dispose of armed resistance and occupy strategic positions along the frontier. He promised to continue their privileges, but at the same time warned them than any attempt to impede the British troops would be severely punished. That the frontier tribes duly appreciated the Viceroy's promises and threats is manifest by the unresisted movement of the British forces across the frontier, and their occupation of an Afghan fort. Moreover, the chiefs are said to have promised England their assistance. Russian intrigue has been so active and potent at Cabul, that the danger to be apprehended is that Russia should become so involved in the dispute as to bring that nation into conflict with Great Britain.

THE success of the International Exhibition will depend entirely upon the disposition of the colonists of New South Wales to honour their country, combined with prompt and energetic action on the part of the committee entrusted with carrying out the details, providing buildings, and so on. At present it would seem that the promoters of the affair have to seek honour from abroad, and they are doing it with a success which rather puts the colony to shame, and unless things alter, we shall be killed with kindness, and the efforts of other countries to help us will prove to be the very obstacle on which the undertaking will wreck. It has already been intimated that large quantities of exhibits are coming from France, and now we are told by our cable message of this morning that the French Government has taken our cause up so enthusiastically as to place a sum of £12,000 on the estimates to defray the cost of a proper representation of the great republic in Sydney. This is more than we have done for ourselves, and more than we have as yet shown any inclination to do. The Government has promised, liberally as it was thought at the time, to propose to Parliament the granting of an amount equal to that subscribed by the public, and just sufficient has been subscribed to bring the total up to the amount proposed by the French Government. Is the public spirit, the patriotism, of the colony fairly represented in the £5000 and odd subscriptions already promised? It may be that the matter has not been fairly put before the country. It is hard to account for the faint-hearted response in any other way. And the committee will do well to settle as soon as possible that tremendously knotty question as to "what privileges are to be given to the members of the Agricultural Society," the consideration of which momentous question has already occupied a large amount of time without any definite result, and at once enter upon the real business of the Exhibition. The colony is unmistakably committed to the Exhibition now, and as was remarked by the Hon. Charles Campbell, in the Legislative Council, the other evening, "If the matter is not carried out the colony will be covered with confusion and ridicule."

THE R. M. S. Assam, with the English mails for Australia, left Galle on the 15th instant, two days in advance of contract time. She may be expected at King George's Sound on Wednesday or Thursday next. Her London dates (via Brindisi) are to 25th October.

THE Mayor and Aldermen of Sydney, in their corporate capacity, have petitioned the Legislative Assembly that the election of the Mayor under the proposed new law, should be left in the hands of the Aldermen, as at present.

YESTERDAY afternoon a public meeting was held at the Freemasons' Hotel, York-street, for the purpose of considering the best way of welcoming Alderman William Macarthur, member of Parliament for Lambeth, on his first visit to the colony. A considerable number of leading citizens attended the meeting, including many representatives of large mercantile firms. Mr. Benjamin James, who was voted into the chair in the unavoidable absence of the Mayor, explained the object of the meeting, alluding particularly to the fact that in all movements in England for the benefit of the colony, Mr. William Macarthur and his brother Alexander (the former member for Newtown in our Legislative Assembly), had taken a prominent part. After some conversational discussion a committee, consisting of the following gentlemen, was appointed to carry out the object of the meeting:—His Worship the Mayor of Sydney; Hon. William Foster, Attorney-General; Hon. S. D. Gordon, Hon. J. Marks, Hon. S. Samuel, Hon. A. Campbell, Hon. J. S. Farnell, Hon. John Sutherland; James Watson, M.L.A.; T. R. Smith, M.L.A.; Dr. Moffit; Alderman Chapman, Alderman Moore, Alderman Young, Alderman Green; Messrs. John Greer, B. James, William Hezlett, J. R. Love, W. Henderson, T. J. Chapman, Joseph Tess, R. M'Coy, and W. Speer, with power to add to their number. A subcommittee was appointed to wait upon Mr. Macarthur, and ascertain whether it would be agreeable to him that the demonstration should assume the form of a picnic down the harbour on Saturday next, the 29th instant. The sub-committee, on returning, informed the meeting that Mr. Macarthur was quite willing to accept a run down the harbour on the day suggested. The sub-committee were empowered to make arrangements to secure Clontarf, or some suitable recreation grounds, and to engage steamboats, &c. The meeting adjourned until Monday next.

THE Reception Committee appointed by the Cricket Association met last evening at Tattersall's Hotel, and made final arrangements for the demonstration in honour of the Australian team. We understand that his Excellency the Governor will be present at the banquet to take place on the 2nd December. His Excellency has also given his patronage to the match, Australian team v. N. S. W. 15, and with Lady Robinson, will visit the new ground during the progress of the contest. The public landing of the cricketers will take place at 4.30, on Monday afternoon. During their stay in Sydney the team will take up their old quarters at Harwood's Oxford Hotel, King-street. We learn that Mr. Waterhouse has placed his steam launch, Prince of Wales, at the disposal of the reception committee free of charge.

AT a meeting of the members of the Sydney Rowing Club, held yesterday afternoon, it was determined that such of the members of the club as chose to take part in the proceedings, should be formed into a number of boats' crews (probably ten), to welcome the Australian cricketers on their return to Sydney. It is probable that about an equal number of boats from the Mercantile Rowing Club will join in the demonstration. Lavender Bay, where the steamer which brings the team is to anchor, is the site where the rowing men of Sydney will welcome home our successful cricketers.

A SPECIAL general meeting of the University Cricket Club was held at the Oxford Hotel on Thursday evening last for the purpose of taking into consideration the approaching match between the Universities of Sydney and Melbourne, which is appointed to take place on the Association Ground on the 26th and 27th December. Mr. Hugh Kennedy was voted to the chair, and, after considerable discussion, the following gentlemen were appointed a committee (with power to add to their number) to carry out all arrangements connected with the match: Messrs. H. Kennedy, Faithfull, R. Teece, Jones, Lord, Carruthers, Raper, Powell, Watkins, and Sly. On the 28th December a match will be played between the combined Universities and the best eleven of New South Wales. The committee will hold its first meeting at Dr. Sly's chambers on Wednesday next at 4.30 p.m.

A WELL-ATTENDED meeting was held at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday for the purpose of considering the propriety of forming a purely Pastoral and Agricultural Society; and if thought requisite to carry out resolutions passed at a meeting of stockowners held at Sydney on July 26, when it was resolved that in the event of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales refusing to hold the stock show of 1879 as usual in April, the meeting pledged itself to carry out a pastoral and agricultural show at that time, and to refrain from exhibiting in August, and that a committee be appointed to carry out the proposal. The terms of that resolution were conveyed to the Agricultural Society and a communication was received from the International Exhibition Committee shortly afterwards, desiring that they should be reconsidered. The Hon. G. H. Cox, who was in the chair, pointed out how matters stood. After some discussion, during which it was very generally held that the appropriation of the Agricultural Society's funds for the purposes of an International Exhibition was illegal, it was resolved, on the motion of Dr. Jenkins, that stockowners were prepared to assist in making the stock show in August a success if the Council of the Agricultural Society would hold a two days' stock show and fair at the usual time in April next; otherwise the meeting decided to hold the usual stock show in April. The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

AT noon yesterday a fire broke out in the roof at the rear of the premises of James Reading and Co., booksellers and stationers. Within a yard or two of the roof, which was made of shingles, stood the chimney of the Glasgow Arms cook-house or kitchen, and it is believed that sparks from this chimney fell upon the roof and set the shingles on fire. When the fire was first seen a bucket of water would have extinguished it, but the timely application of water was not made, and the flames spread. An alarm was given at once, and the fire engines very quickly arrived, No. 2 Volunteer Company's engine appearing first, the Insurance Company's engine second, and the engine of No. 3 Volunteer Company third. There was plenty of water handy, but it was not used with as much care as might have been shown, and consequently there was a great waste, and, as the result showed, more damage was done by the water applied to the burning premises than was actually done by the fire. However, the engine of the Insurance Company was quickly got to work, and the men in charge of the No. 2 and No. 3 Companies' engines showed considerable smartness also; and the fire, which by this time had made considerable progress, was soon well in hand, subdued, and extinguished. Mr. sub-inspector Anderson was one of the first to know that the premises were on fire, and he gave valuable assistance in having as much of the stock as possible removed from the back to the front part of the premises, and in seeing that it was not injured by being taken into the street. The fire entirely destroyed the back roof in which it broke out; and what with the burnt rafters and the plaster ceiling falling, and the water thrown from the hose of the engines, the stock remaining in the rooms at the rear of the premises is in anything but a sound condition. What amount of damage has been done could not yesterday be ascertained, but it is covered by insurances in various offices to the extent of £6000. It is fortunate that the fire was prevented from spreading, and equally fortunate that it did not break out at night, for in either case, as the premises are in the midst of a long line of buildings, such a fire as that which broke out yesterday might have resulted in a conflagration that would have destroyed the whole of the buildings in George-street from Hunter-street to King-street.

AT this time of the year snakes on land and sharks at sea demand more than passing attention. Yesterday afternoon a boating party, while fishing from a light skiff near Clark Island, were attacked by a shark about 10 feet long. He first surprised the occupants of the boat by rising suddenly straight out of the water and snapping at the arm of one of the fishers (Mr. R. F. Pickering), who had a very narrow escape from being taken overboard. In the course of about half an hour the shark returned, and struck the boat violently. A tomahawk and a sprit were brought into play, but the monster was not to be denied, and after the fifth determined charge the kellick rope was cut, and the shark left in possession of the field, or rather the water. It is not often that denizens of the deep display so much daring and ferocity as this one, and it would be well for those in the habit of indulging in fishing excursions in the harbour to be careful not to throw a chance away.

DURING the late third-class match of the R. S. Y. S. the owners of the Pleiades considering that Mr. Jackson, of the Violet, was not sailing that yacht in such a manner as gave them fair play according to yachting rules, hoisted a protest flag, which was at once noted by the Commodore of the day. Since then a large amount of evidence has been taken by the committee of the club, and the protest having been sustained, the prize goes to the Pleiades.

THE following is the order of musical service at St. Andrew's Cathedral for Sunday, 24th November:—Magnificat, Arnold, in A; Nunc Dimittis, Arnold, in A; anthem, "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way," Dr. Elvey.

THE many friends of Dean M'Carthy will be glad to hear that the reverend gentleman's health is greatly improved, and that he is enjoying his holiday in the old country. He went to Italy and specially to Rome, where, although his Holiness the Pope was in the retirement of twelve days' mourning for the death of Cardinal Franchi, an audience was specially allowed to Dean M'Carthy. The Dean has visited his native land and city, and has been there and everywhere else heartily welcomed. At the date of his last letter received by the Hankow, the Dean was in London.

ADVANCE OF BRITISH TROOPS.

[BY CABLE.]

(FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Nov. 21.

No answer having been received from the Ameer of Cabul to the ultimatum of the British Government, the troops crossed the frontier. The military authorities have interdicted the Press from telegraphing the movements of the troops.

A despatch from Viscount Cranbrook, Secretary of State for India, dated 18th instant, has been received by Lord Lytton, and a resume published. It justifies the Government policy in India and shows the complete accord of the Cabinet with Lord Lytton.

Lord Lytton, Viceroy of India, has announced to the Afghan frontier chiefs that England's quarrel is against the Ameer of Cabul personally, on account of repeated unfriendly acts and insults. He impressed upon the chiefs that England had no grievances against the Afghans, but that the British forces intended to dispose of armed resistance, and would occupy strategic posts along the frontier. The Viceroy further promised the chiefs that he would continue their privileges, but warned them that any attempt to impede the British troops would be severely punished. The chiefs expressed themselves satisfied and promised to assist.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

The Secretary of State for India (Viscount Cranbrook) has issued a despatch reviewing the relations between England and Afghanistan. From the same it appears that the difficulty arose in 1873 during the Gladstone Administration, when the Cabinet overruled a proposal of Lord Northbrook, the then Viceroy of India, to assure the Ameer that he might rely upon British protection in the event of a Russian attack on Afghanistan.

The ultimatum forwarded by the British Government to the Ameer of Afghanistan on the 2nd instant has been allowed to remain unanswered.

At a Cabinet Council held yesterday, it was resolved in consequence of the Ameer's failure to reply to the British ultimatum, to transmit orders to India for the immediate advance of troops across the frontiers.

BOMBAY, Nov. 21 (EVENING).

Acting upon the orders received from England, the British troops advanced from Quettah to-day, and occupied Fort Kapion, near the town of Tull, in the southern portion of Afghanistan. No resistance was offered to the British advance.

SYDNEY INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

£12,000 have been placed on the French estimates, in connection with the dispatch of French exhibits to the Sydney International Exhibition.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Theatre Royal, Mr. Wybert Reeve gave, last evening, his powerful representation of Count Fosco in the "Woman in White," which has had a very fair run. This evening "Templeton" is to be produced, being a dramatic adaptation of Mr. Wilkie Collins' tale of "No Name." The piece has been, as in the case of the "Woman in White," specially dramatised for Mr. Reeve by the author, and is said to be equally successful in bringing out the histrionic merits of Mr. Reeve. On Monday evening it is anticipated that the Australian cricketers will visit the theatre, and advantage will be taken by Mr. Lazar to present them with souvenirs of their late successful tour in England. The Hon. J. S. Farnell will make the presentation.

Hicks' original Georgia Minstrels concluded their season at the Queen's last evening, when Uncle Tom's Cabin was repeated in aid of the funds of the Seamen's Union. The company purpose playing a short engagement at the School of Arts prior to their departure, when the minstrel business will provide the source of amusement. Miss Clara Stephenson, who has been a comparative stranger to Sydney boards for some time, reappears at this theatre on Monday evening, in the drama the "Relief of Lucknow," in which she sustains the leading character of Jessie Brown.

At the Victoria Theatre, the stock company commence a series of performances pending the Christmas pantomime; and to-night "The Convict's Revenge," a sensational drama, in which Miss Emma Austin takes a leading part, will be produced, followed by the farce of "Stolen Kisses." The management announce the first distribution of Christmas gifts, many of a valuable kind. On Sunday evening a troupe of vocalists, calling themselves the Sacred Hampton Jubilee Singers, make their first appearance at this theatre. Performances such as theirs are somewhat of a novelty in this country, though popular enough in America. The selections they give are chiefly sacred choruses of the modern school, and assisted by a good orchestra they are said to be very effective.

An exceedingly clever illusion known as Fatima, or the living bust, is to appear at 946, George-street, late Newman's Polytechnic, this evening. This is not the optical illusion at present exhibited in Castlereagh-street.

The Highland Society are determined to keep up their national festivities on New Year's Day. They have prepared a lengthy programme of sports (which will be found in our advertising columns), and are offering prizes which will probably induce keen competition. The gathering is to be held on the New South Wales Cricket Association grounds.

The new musical society, as will be seen by our advertising columns, which is being founded on principles somewhat analagous to the Orpheonists, is rapidly completing its organization. The musical directorship has been accepted by Mr. Charles Packer.

LUNAR PHENOMENON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With regard to the remarkable shadow upon the moon observed at Woodford, on the 21st October, Mr. Tebbutt, in your issue of yesterday, says:—"It would be interesting to know if any search was made at the time for the body which, in all probability, was projecting this shadow upon the moon." No search was possible in the sunlight, because a body that was in a position to cast a shadow upon the moon could not in daylight be seen from the earth, and unfortunately it became cloudy on the afternoon of the 21st, and remained so until we left, so that no search before sunrise was possible.

RESERVES AT BOTANY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the Parliamentary Report, published in your issue of the 20th instant, I observe that Mr. M'Elhone had said in connection with the reserves at Botany: "After months of delay a surveyor named Binsted was sent out, and he measured these reserves. But he made an improper survey." Again, "The land has since been resurveyed, and Mr. Binsted had been proved to be wrong."

As such statements made in the House are calculated to injure me professionally with those who are not aware of Mr. M'Elhone's peculiarities, permit me to state through your columns that I did not make an improper survey; and that no officer of the Survey department, nor, so far as I am aware, any person out of the department, has resurveyed the reserves and proved them wrong. I am, &c.,

THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN VICTORIA.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

The Times, reviewing the policy of Mr. Berry and his intended visit to England, approves of the Norwegian plan, but strongly condemns a plebiscite, and says it is improbable that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach will propose it. GRAFTON.

FRIDAY.

Some absurd rumours have reached Sydney concerning the arrival of Pastor Chiniquy in Grafton which have not a vestige of truth for their foundation. The ex-priest came from Sydney by the City of Grafton, and was met in the river by several Orangemen, with whom he proceeded to Grafton on board the river steamer Favourite. There was no demonstration whatever either on one side or the other. The statement that Chiniquy was refused the use of the School of Arts is entirely false, as it was never applied for. He lectured last night in the Oddfellows' Hall, to a moderate attendance, and everything passed off quietly. There is not the remotest likelihood of any disturbance occurring in Grafton.

The weather to-day was intensely hot. The thermometer registered 105 in the shade yesterday. Rain is badly wanted.

Thompson, Vaughan, and Co., of this township, arrived here last night from Port Goolwa, South Australia, laden with a cargo of 80 tons, consigned to Messrs. Thompson, Vaughan, and Co., Walgett. To-day the town celebrated the auspicious event by an excursion and a demonstration. The Brewarrina departed at noon, freighted with wool. The utmost enthusiasm was displayed by the townsfolk and surrounding inhabitants towards the enterprise and success of the undertaking, and hearty cheers, long and loud, echoed farewell to Captain Gribble and his bijou boat. The Namoi was navigated some five miles upwards from its junction, and the Brewarrina discharged its freight a few yards only from the Commercial Stores. The Princess Royal, steamer, consigned to Nelson and Rich, will arrive on Saturday, laden with general cargo.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, FRIDAY.

In consequence of the arrival of the Victoria from Sydney to-day with a Chinese crew, the sailors and also the wharf labourers of the A. S. N. Company immediately struck work. A requisition to the Mayor is being signed to call a public meeting for the purpose of expressing disapprobation at the employment of Asiatic seamen on board the company's steamers. A strong feeling against the policy adopted by the company is prevalent, and the crews of other steamers due to-morrow are expected to strike.

The Hon. J. P. Bell has been elected unopposed for the Northern Downs. Messrs. R. A. Kingsford and Angus Mackay have been returned for South Brisbane, and Mr. W. L. Fowles for Clermont.

It is rumoured that the company endeavoured to engage fifty newly arrived German immigrants to proceed to Sydney, but failed.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

There does not appear to be much prospect of the Council Reform proposals receiving consideration from the Ministry, and they will not delay the prorogation to discuss them. The proposition that any disputed item in the Appropriation Bill should be included in a separate bill, and both Houses dissolved on such bill if necessary, is objected to as not containing a solution of the difficulty.

Mr. M'Intyre's efforts to obtain the restoration of teachers' salaries to their old scale has been negatived in the Assembly by 38 to 27. A lengthened discussion took place on the claim of Mr. Venables, late secretary of the Education Department to compensation, and it was generally admitted that he had not been treated fairly. The Rabbit Bill has been abandoned.

At public meetings held at Drysdale and Nunawading, resolutions were passed against the Embassy to England.

Mr. Berry has sent to Mr. Burns requesting him to press on Colonel Glover a promise that a reduction in Press rates should take place on the signing of the cable contract.

The trial trip of the Nelson takes place during the first week in December. Members of both Houses are invited.

Invitations have been issued for the prorogation of Parliament on Thursday next.

Three tenders have been sent in for the supply of coal to the Government, but none are accepted yet. The tender of the Phœnix Foundry, Ballarat, has been accepted for seven locomotives at £22,089.

Writs have been issued against Wright, Orr, and Co., for false imprisonment, by two of the men arrested during the dock dispute.

A Mr. M'Meikan, a passenger on the St. Agnes, was lost overboard in the Murray, when near Robson's mills, Gunbower. He had been previously rescued, and is supposed to have been drinking.

The sittings of the Presbyterian Assembly were brought to a close to-day, and the Assembly adjourned to the first Tuesday in May.

The DUPLICATION of the CABLE.

The following correspondence respecting the right of the colonies to construct a second overland line from Port Darwin to Queensland has been laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly:

"The Honorable Graham Berry (Victoria) and the Honorable J. F. Burns (New South Wales) to the Honorable the Chief Secretary for South Australia, Adelaide.

"Government Offices, Melbourne, May 22, 1878.

"Sir,—We have the honor to inform you that the final resolution arrived at by the Conference which recently sat in Melbourne with a view to providing for the duplication of the electric telegraph between Australasia and Europe was as follows:—

"'That whilst the Conference has not made any provision for the duplication at the present time of the continental line of telegraph from Port Darwin, the representatives of the different colonies expressly reserve for confederate action a future decision on this important point, and empower the Governments of New South Wales and Victoria, before entering into and making any contract with the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company for the construction of the second cable between Port Darwin and Singapore, to receive an engagement from South Australia to co-operate with the other Australian colonies in constructing and maintaining a new line of telegraph from Port Darwin, to be connected with the telegraphic system of Queensland: Provided that in the event of such line being decided upon, South Australia shall not be called upon to contribute thereto.'

"As the representatives of the Governments of New South Wales and Victoria specially referred to in the foregoing resolution, we have the honor to inquire whether you concur therein.—We have &c.,

"Chief Secretary's Office, Adelaide, June 4, 1878.

"Sir,—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 22nd ultimo, in which you set out fully the final resolution arrived at by the Conference recently held in Melbourne on the question of providing for the duplication of the telegraph cable between Australasia and Europe, and to intimate that this Government concurs in that resolution; understanding from its delegates that the 'co-operation' required does not extend to meaning that South Australia will be called upon to hand over any portion of her territory in furtherance of the object contemplated in the deliberations of the Conference, but that she will, at the request of the several Governments interested, construct and maintain the proposed line.—I have, &c.,

NEW SOUTH WALES RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The eighteenth annual prize meeting of this Association is to be held next week, commencing on Monday. The interest will be considerably heightened this year by the fact that a Victorian team has come to represent the sister colony. Below we give the names of the thirty competitors who have been shooting for place in the team that is to contest with the Victorian riflemen. The match takes place on Monday and Tuesday.

The weather on Thursday was altogether against good shooting, but as all the men were together (excepting Ensign Cork who only arrived from Ulladulla on Thursday evening) of course all fared alike. Each man had to fire 40 shots, with both the Henry and the Martini-Henry; the shooting was divided into 4 practices of 10 shots, with each rifle at the ranges of 500 and 600 yards. The Council had reserved to itself the right to nominate four members out of the 30, for the 20 comprising the team. They did not, however, act upon this privilege, but directed the 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, and 21st men, with ensign, to fire a practice with the Martini rifle. The four highest are to take the vacant places, the remaining two men being emergency men. This practice will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock:—1, A.B. Killian, Naval Brigade; 2, A.B. Young, Naval Brigade; 3, private Nelson, No. 3 Company; 4, lieutenant Finch, No. 1; 5, private Slade, No. 1; 6, A.B. Goulding, Naval Brigade; 7, private H. S. Smith, No. 1 Company; 8, corporal Halls, No. 2; 9, private Chambers, East Maitland; 10, colour-sergeant West, No. 6 Company; 11, sergeant Rice, No. 5; 12, sergeant Sheridan, No. 1; 13, private Drinkwater, No. 1; 14, sergeant Sellar, No. 1; 15, lieutenant Blackshaw, Goulburn; 16, colour-sergeant Gee, No. 5 Company; 17, private Somerville, No. 5; 18, colour-sergeant Honey, Kiama; 19, corporal Sherring, Goulburn; 20, private B. Clarke, No. 8 Company; 21, lieutenant Stack, Balmain; 22, lieutenant Arnott, Newcastle; 23, quartermaster-sergeant Law, No. 6 Company; 24, captain Bartlett, East Maitland; 25, Corporal Kidd, Newcastle; 26, private Sharpe, Kiama; 27, sergeant Shaw, No. 1 Highlanders; 28, private Thorne, Newcastle; 29, private Newling, Parramatta; 30, ensign Cork, Ulladulla. Ensign Cork only fired two practices.

Major Templeton has selected the following team to represent Victoria in the Intercolonial Rifle Match, to be fired on Monday and Tuesday:—Major Sleep, Captain Christopherson, Lieutenant Lang: Sergeants Draper, Dubberlin, Hall, Illingworth, Kerr, M'Farlane, Pitt, Powell, and Ross; Corporal Clarke, Bombadier Lancaster; Gunners Meads, Oldershaw, Stock, and Wood; Privates Allan and Newenham. Emergency men: Lieutenant Spyer and Private Murray.

RE-ORGANISATION of the VOLUNTEER FORCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Lieutenant-Colonel Raymond, in his desire to set "Honesty" right, says he wishes to lay a fair statement before intending recruits of the new force. He, however, restates, erroneously, that only four days are taken from a member in the eight days continuous training in camp; the other four days being Easter holidays, are as nothing; also he endeavours to point out that that being so, a private is paid £6 for those four days. It is a pity he did not make an impartial statement. Assuming that there are four days holidays at Easter, still they are a man's own to do what he likes with, and therefore he should not be called upon to "throw them in" as of no value to him. Would Lieutenant-Colonel Raymond give four days of his time in his business capacity, for nothing? But at Easter time there are only two days holidays, excluding the Sunday, for nineteen-twentieths of the community—the intervening Saturday being only enjoyed by a very few, and not at all the class that will join the new force.

There is no doubt that in addition to the 5s. for each parade, and 10s. per day for each day of continuous training, a private, if he attends the minimum number requisite for efficiency, will get £4 for efficiency; but against that may be charged the probable two or three days taken up for musketry instruction, and the six, ten, twelve, or twenty possible recruit drills which may be ordered, and for which there is no extra allowance.

I notice that strenuous efforts are being made to induce persons to join the new force; no such efforts were necessary when in the presence of danger the present force was called into existence; then gentlemen of good social position and of wealth willingly enrolled themselves at the first intimation of recruiting being allowed, and without any idea of payment so-called. If recruiting were allowed in the present force under the same conditions, and without so many disabilities as are proposed in the new, the standard of numbers and excellence would soon be again raised.

Yours obediently,

19th November. A PRIVATE.

PROPOSED PASTORAL and AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

A well attended meeting of stockowners and those interested in pastoral and agricultural pursuits was held in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning, for the purpose of considering the desirableness or otherwise of organizing a purely Pastoral and Agricultural Society, and for considering a letter received from the International Exhibition Committee, asking stockowners and others who held a meeting on July 26 to reconsider the following resolution agreed to thereat:—"That, in the event of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales refusing to hold the stock show of 1879 as usual in April, this meeting pledges itself to carry out a Pastoral and Agricultural Show at that time, and to refrain from exhibiting in August, and that a committee be appointed to carry out this proposal."

The Hon. G. H. Cox was voted to the chair, and amongst those present were the Hon. W. Chisholm, Mr. A. Bowman, M.L.A., Messrs. E. B. Woodhouse, J. de V. Lamb, T. S. Clibborn, Brunker, Aldritt, G. F. Tait, T. Dawson, J. B. Christian, A. Bruce, Logan, Yeo, Calvert, J. C. Irving, L. F. Stephen, R. Richards, T. V. Want, A. T. Smart, G. Maiden, C. F. Want, H. P. Mostyn, and Dr. Jenkins.

The letter from the Exhibition Committee was as follows:—

"International Exhibition Committee, Agricultural Society of N. S. Wales, Sydney, Oct. 5.

"Sir, I have the honour to inform you that, since the receipt of your communication of the 29th July, the Agricultural Society has, after careful consideration, arrived at the conclusion that it is right the International Exhibition of 1879 should be proceeded with in accordance with the notification as to time and other particulars announced to the public in the Government Gazette of the 7th of February last. The International Exhibition Committee feel assured that, as this decision has been come to in view of what, under existing circumstances, is considered best for the interests of the colony generally, the stock owners represented at the meeting of the 26th of July will be willing to reconsider the question in a large and patriotic spirit, and the committee trust that the project will now receive from those gentlemen and from the pastoral interest generally that hearty co-operation and support which will largely conduce to the success of the undertaking, and so to the credit and prestige of the colony.

"H. M. WRIGHT, Acting Secretary."

The CHAIRMAN said he regretted that the present meeting should have been considered necessary because it would damage the Agricultural Society—a society he had been a member of for many years, and which he helped to form. Unfortunately the affairs of that society had fallen into the hands of gentlemen who seemed to take an interest in other matters than those relating to the society, and who by mixing the affairs of the society with those of an International Exhibition had made a great mistake. Those gentlemen had no more right to engage in an International Exhibition than a jockey club or a yacht club. A great mistake was made by gentlemen taking up the Exhibition affair against the wishes of the council. The council it was presumed represented the great body of members of the society, but unfortunately a large number of the members, especially those connected with pastoral pursuits, were rarely able to attend the meetings. He saw by the reports in the paper that a large number of gentlemen interested in the society deprecated the course taken of having an Exhibition, and held that ten years hence would be sufficiently early for it. At the present time, it would imperil the sound condition of the society, and he was afraid the members would be led to the verge of insolvency over it. The little money they had saved up would be all gone, and those who had taken the Exhibition in hand, would find themselves in great financial difficulty, for it would, if carried out properly, cost at least £50,000. Where that amount would come from could only be guessed at; but he believed the Exhibition Committee would eventually go ad misericordiam to the Government while in the meantime they would be hampered in all their financial operations. Unless the Government took the Exhibition in hand at once it would be a miserable failure. It was being got up by a few meddlesome people acting upon unworthy impulses—jealousy because there was to be an International Exhibition in Victoria in 1881, and fear lest the oldest colony would be rivalled by its younger neighbour. The reply to their letter based upon the actions of the meeting held on July 26, was courteous in its terms, but it would hardly meet the views of the society, because stockowners, particularly those who were members of the council, thought the stock show should be held at the usual time, and their arrangements would be upset by its being held several months later. They had therefore to consider what steps should be taken on the present occasion. It seemed to him that on one occasion members of the Agricultural Society pledged themselves to give £1000 out of the society's funds towards the Exhibition. That was a monstrous proceeding, and he thought the Supreme Court might be applied to for an injunction to prevent the society's money being used for purposes for which it was not intended. The society had £2500 at deposit, but he was afraid from what he heard that the whole of it would be swamped in the ill-advised Exhibition. Other gentlemen would perhaps speak more fully on the subject than he could, for he had been absent from Sydney three or four months. He had, however, written three or four times to the council of the society, deprecating the action they had taken, and stating that they were going beyond their jurisdiction. He still held the same views, and if all came to all he would help to form a new association.

Mr. MOSTYN here stated that in response to circulars he had received about a dozen letters on the subject of forming a new association. They were about evenly balanced in tenor—some being in favour of the proposition and others fearing it would interfere with the Exhibition.

Dr. JENKINS said he was present as a member of the Exhibition Committee and of the society as well. He regretted that the meeting was not held in the society's rooms, for that was the proper place for it. It looked at present as if they were disconnected with the society. As he had only recently made up his mind to attend the meeting, he had not many observations to make. There appeared to be some mistake over the matter. The schedules published to the world had pledged the society to meet in August. It was mischievous that action should be taken upon those schedules, for it had brought the society into its present dilemma. The Minister of the day was persuaded by over sanguine men to send schedules through various countries upon a mistake and a delusion. Those gentlemen had no right to say that they represented the society, and that they could carry out the Exhibition without recourse to the funds of the Government. They did wrong, and went beyond their powers, and the affair, he was afraid, had been accomplished in a very underhand manner. A letter was sent by the Colonial Secretary saying that the Exhibition must be carried out without an appeal to the Government. That letter was kept back from the annual meeting of the society, and from a special meeting, and was only lately discovered. If it had been produced properly there would be no International Exhibition Committee at the present time. The members were misled, and made to believe that the Government consented to assist them. They believed that in the end the Government would give them the necessary support, and he agreed with the chairman, that the Government would have to do so yet. Already there were applications in connection with exhibits it would require £50,000 to provide space for, and it was that which made him certain the Government would have to come forward in the matter yet. The sum of £20,000 might be raised by the public and the Government jointly at present; but the Government would eventually have to give the remaining £30,000. He held that, in order to prevent loss to the funds of the society, country members must be elected to the council. Then it might happen that their power would be kept up. There was a general feeling that the stock show should be held at the usual time (in April), and the fact was that there was not room to hold an exhibition and a stock show on the same grounds simultaneously. It appeared that the committee were willing that there should be a stock show in April, and if that was the case the matter might be considered, and it might be decided whether after getting into a mess they ought all to do their best to get out of it. The largest number of gentlemen replying to the circular seemed to be of opinion that there should be no separation. He thought they should try to secure the sympathies of the public. He liked to see town and country people meeting together on the occasion of exhibitions, and he was sure their doing so would make exhibitions a financial success. In conclusion, he begged to move the following resolution:—

"That the stockowners have, as requested, reconsidered the decision come at the meeting held at the Exchange on the 26th July, and are now prepared to assist the international committee in making the stock show in August a success, if the council of the Agricultural Society would hold a two days' stock show and fair at the usual time in April next; otherwise this meeting decide to hold the usual stock show in April."

Mr. A. BRUCE seconded the resolution.

Mr. ALDRITT was proceeding to draw attention to the working of the Agricultural Society, and its connection with the proposed International Exhibition, when he was called to order by the chairman.

Mr. MAIDEN thought the circulars under which the meeting was convened did not receive the general support it was anticipated they would. The resolution, to his mind, should be put as to whether they should form a separate body, or remain connected with the society. They fought hard in the matter, but to his mind, at the present time, for them to support the Exhibition Committee in every shape and form, they would gain nothing by harassing that committee. The highest authority in the colony said the Exhibition must go on, and it would be as well that the people should not have the power to cast an onus on stockowners and others, and say that the failure of the affair fell upon them. They could not redeem what had been done; they were outvoted, and had not the means to follow the course proposed.

Mr. BRUNKER urged that pastoralists and commercial men should unite in making the Exhibition what it should be.

Mr. G. F. WANT said they were present for the purpose of arranging for a pastoral show at the usual time. They had nothing to do with the Exhibition being a success or not. The fact stared them in the face that the Exhibition must be an immense failure unless the Government came forward with a large amount of money which he thought, they were not prepared to do. Already it was evident that £50,000 or £60,000 would be required to provide accommodation for goods that had been on view at the Paris Exhibition for the last five or six months, to the detriment of their own. If they provided a building to cover all those goods, they at once shut out their own exhibits, their products and stock, because there would be no room for them. Besides that, breeders of stock were very unlikely to keep their stud animals in the city for two months when they ought to be at home. He did not see why breeders should be done out of their usual show. Gentlemen in the far north were prepared for a show in April, and why should they be shut out for the sake of an exhibition ten years in advance of its proper time. They ought to ask the Council what they intended doing in the matter, and then see what those constituting the meeting would do.

The Hon. J. W. CHISHOLM complained that stockowners and country people had been thrown over, and it was said that £1000 of their money was to be taken away. It seemed to him that if £1000 could be appropriated the whole lot could be taken for a boat race, or a yacht race, or anything else having no connection with the society. It was very easy for them to say whether they would start a fresh society. They must do that or go to the Supreme Court for an injunction to prevent their money being spent. The Exhibition would be a failure, he thought, and those promoting it would make an exhibition of New South Wales.

The resolution was then agreed to almost unanimously, and it was resolved to convey the terms of it to the Agricultural Society and to the Exhibition Committee.

Finally it was arranged that a deputation, consisting of the Hon. G. H. Cox, Dr. Jenkins, and Mr. J. de V. Lamb wait on the Agricultural Society in reference to the resolution.

THE NORTHERN QUEENSLAND DIOCESE.

A public meeting to welcome the clergymen who arrived by the Cuzco to proceed to the Northern Queensland diocese of the Church of England was held last night at the Masonic Hall. Over 400 persons were present, the chair being occupied by his Lordship the Bishop.

The proceedings were commenced by the Dean of SYDNEY reading a portion of Scripture, and a hymn being sung, after which the Chairman delivered an opening address. In the account of the apostle's journey to Rome they read that he got as far as the Three Taverns, and that there he met with certain brethren and took courage, which was the position of their brethren here this evening. One touch of nature made the world akin, and it would be strange indeed if they did not give expression to their sympathy with those who were going to the Northern Queensland diocese to carry on the work of God. It was only right that they should say that they wished them good luck in the way of the Lord. For several years it had been the desire that Northern Queensland should be made a separate diocese, and those who were here this evening were the men who were going to work in that diocese, and to carry on there the greatest of all works viz., the salvation of their fellow-men. That he was the metropolitan Bishop no one could deny. It had been acknowledged by the Archbishop of Canterbury and by the Council of Lambeth, and when it was proposed to create that Northern diocese, he had felt it was his duty not to shrink from the duty that that office imposed upon him. He might have said that this had nothing to do with him; but he was aware that Northern Queensland had claims, and he did not intend to shrink from them. He had visited the diocese, and he knew there were difficulties and dangers. But what were they without difficulties to overcome; they were intended to be overcome. As for dangers they were always in them, but they were in the hands of Providence, which they should never forget. So far as his own personal feeling was concerned, he would rather be Bishop of Northern Queensland, with all its difficulties and dangers, than the Bishop of such a place as this, where everything was so orderly and quiet. What had been promised, or what had been intended, other than that the Church should go into the whole earth. It had been a pleasure to him to know from Bishop Patteson and Bishop Selwyn that many of the natives of the South Sea Islands returned to their homes better than they left them. The aboriginals too, and the much misliked Chinese had also been improved. Even of the Chinese—though in the present state of public feeling he had to speak with great caution—he said that it was the duty of the Church to give them a better duty to fulfil than that which Confucius gave them. To those who were going to labour in Northern Queensland, he said, "Go in that might in which Gideon went, and may the Almighty prosper all your doings."

The DEAN OF SYDNEY proposed the following resolution:—"That this meeting, recognising with thankfulness the goodness of Almighty God in raising up a supply of clergymen to labour in the newly created diocese of Northern Queensland, and bringing them thus far in safety, greets them with a hearty welcome, and wishes them godspeed in the name of the Lord." There were two sentiments that all must feel, and these were sympathy and thankfulness. He hoped those they had come to welcome would labour with great success, not only amongst the civilized Englishmen, but also amongst all those people whom God had made of one blood, and that they would find in the last day that they had souls for their inheritance.

Canon O'REILLY seconded the resolution, and recommended teetotalism in the climate to which their brethren were going, which created both lassitude and thirst. He looked upon the Northern territory as a nursery for the Chinese and South Sea Island missions.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

The Rev. Mr. Mason, the Bishop's chaplain replied, as also did the Rev. J. A. Ross, the Rev. Mr. Puttock, and the Rev. Mr. Newstead, all of whom expressed the thankfulness they felt at the reception that had been accorded to them.

The Rev. Mr. EVA moved the next resolution, as follows:—"This meeting, acknowledging the importance of the work committed to the Bishop of North Queensland, desires to sustain that work by prayer and sympathy and pecuniary support."

Canon STEPHEN seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously, after having been supported by Mr. CLARENDON STEWART.

His LORDSHIP pronounced the benediction, which closed the meeting.

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION COMMITTEE.

The usual weekly meeting of the Internation Exhibition Committee was held yesterday. His Excellency Sir Hercules Robinson in the chair. There were also present Sir John Hay, Dr. Garran, Dr. Jenkins, Captain Mann, Captain Broomfield, and Messrs. Broadribb, Busby, Ridge, Palmer, Jennings, Calvert, Pile, S. Samuel, J. Young, Wallis, Trebeck, Gordon, Joseph, Alger, Thompson, Humphrey, Oxley, Griffiths, and King.

It was reported that a tender for levelling the ground had been accepted; also, that the total subscriptions to date amounted to £6025 18s., of which £2498 15s. had been paid, independent of £150 paid in the room.

Mr. JENNINGS asked if anything had been done by the finance committee with respect to obtaining further subscriptions.

Mr. SAUL SAMUEL said that circulars had been issued to the Mayors of the various municipalities throughout the colony, and where there were no Mayors to the police magistrate, asking them to associate two influential gentlemen with them to form a committee to obtain subscriptions and to employ canvassers at the rate of 5 per cent. on the subscriptions obtained.

A letter was read from the secretary of the Moruya Agricultural Society, promising assistance.

A letter was read from Mr. G. H. Cox, saying that the stockowners had reconsidered their decision arrived at on 26th of July last, and that they were now prepared to assist the Exhibition committee in making the Exhibition a success if the Council of the Agricultural Society would hold a two days' stock show and fair in April, otherwise the meeting had decided to hold a stock show at that time.

Dr. JENKINS said he had been present at the meeting of stockowners, and the feeling was that their interests had been entirely neglected. He did not come to this meeting with any power and authority from the stockowners, but he thought all opposition would be withdrawn if the Council of the Agricultural Society agreed to hold the two days' show in April.

After some discussion, his EXCELLENCY said he thought a letter ought to be written to Mr. Cox saying that the committee felt glad that the stockowners intended to assist; that there was no objection to the two days' show being held if the Council of the Agricultural Society agreed to it.

A resolution in the form suggested by his Excellency was carried without opposition.

Dr. GARRAN stated the result of the conference between the Finance Committee and the committee of the Agricultural Society with regard to the privileges that members would receive. It was, he said, the wish of the committee of the Agricultural Society that they should be informed of what was intended to be done respecting season tickets, and what privileges members would be allowed.

A long discussion took place on the subject, and eventually, on the motion of Dr. GARRAN, it was decided that the further consideration of the matter should be postponed for a week.

The meeting was closed in the usual way.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With regard to the proposed International Exhibition, it seems to me that "in the multitude of counsellors there is"—confusion. The Committee and the Agricultural Society seem to have somehow got into an entanglement, and besides that they fear to move because the funds promised by the public and the £1 for £1 from Government will not so far anything like cover the probable expenditure. It would be as well to look the matter fairly in the face. Under the authority of the Government—the Government representing the colony—the colony is committed to a great exhibition. There is only one way of clearing the matter up, and that is by the Government asking Parliament for a special vote of money large enough for the great undertaking to which the Government have committed the country, and then, when the vote is passed, placing the undertaking in the hands of three men accustomed to deal with great works, and letting them accomplish the end. The present committee, though highly respectable, is very impractical. Unless the Government take some such step as suggested here, the whole affair will be a failure, perhaps on too large a scale.

Yours obediently,
COLONIST.

PRODUCE REPORTS.

MAIDEN, HILL, AND CLARK.—Wool: The new clip is now coming forward in full force; the catalogues this week comprised many important lines, most of which changed hands at satisfactory prices. The fourth series of London wool sales commenced on the 19th instant, with catalogues representing 172,000 bales; and telegrams already to hand report a good attendance of home buyers, while the foreign trade was only moderately represented, competition dull, and values of fleece and scoured had given way from ½d to 1d per lb., and greasy ½d per lb. compared with the lowest rates of last series. This news had its effect upon prices here on Thursday, especially upon faulty parcels; good lines, however, met with keen competition. Quotations are: Fleece, 15d to 21d; scoured, 14d to 20d; greasy, 7d to 11d per lb. Sheepskins: Supply was very short this week, no superior lines offering. A fall in price of fully ½d per lb, had to be submitted to; we cleared our catalogue at 6d to 6½d for full woolled; medium growth, 5d to 6d; fair, 4d to 5d; pelts, 2d to 3½d per lb. Leather: No alteration to report, the market remains very depressed for every description. Quotations are—Sole, 6½d to 8½d; kip, 14d to 16d; calf, 20d to 24d; tweed, 18d to 22d; kangaroo, 2s to 3s per lb.; bag, 8s 6d to 10s; bridle, 8s 6d to 10s; collar, 8s to 9s per side. Tallow: The market remains depressed; shippers are operating sparingly, local buyers only poorly represented. Quotations—Mutton, £29 10s to £30; beef, £25 to £28; station, £22 to £24 per ton. Hair: Market is good; all offered created keen competition, and prices realized were—For horse, 13d to 15d; cow, 6d to 10½d per lb Hides: The market was again barely supplied, and competition was good, but prices remain without improvement. We sold every line on our catalogue, and topped the market with one superior line in dry condition, which brought 4½d per lb. Quotations are—Extreme heavies, 3½d to 3¾d; heavies, 3d to 3½d; medium weights, 2¾d to 3d; light, 2¾d to 3½d per lb.; horsehides, 4s to 7s; yearlings, 3s 6d to 4s; calf, 9d to 2s each. Kangarooskins are scarce, and realized from 6s to 30s per dozen, according to quality and size. Horns and Bones: This market if anything is easier, and all parcels which are in any way mixed with small horns and tips are difficult to quit except at great reductions. Prime lines of large horns create keen competition, and good bones share the same. Quotations—Horns, 20s to 30s per 100; bones, £4 to £9 10s per ton. Beeswax: Market almost bare; prices are from 12d to 13d per lb.—November 22.

HARRISON, JONES, AND DEVLIN.—Wool: This week's catalogues numbered 3083 bales, and 1864 were sold under the hammer, and a considerable portion of what was passed at auction has since been sold privately, at prices quite up to those obtained at auction. The sales have been well attended and there has been good competition, and prices obtained show the market to be quite as firm as at any time since the opening of the season. For greasy as high as 15½d has been given, and fleece 21d, and scoured up to 21d. Our own private cablegram bears out what has already been published, that the London November sales have opened at rather lower values than previous sales; but we hope to see the market rally. We have sold by auction and privately since last report 1700 bales. One or two of the lines are—Dumble, 205 bales scoured at 21d; Arajol, 164 bales fleece at 20d; R Cox over Marrar, 133 bales greasy at 11d; ARIAH in diamond, 81 bales at 11d; WG over ..., 14 at 12d; G. Merriman, 12 bales fleece at 19d. We give the prices obtained, viz.—Greasy, good to best, 10d to 13¾d; seedy to medium, 6d to 9¼d; fleece, good, 18d to 21d; medium, 14d to 17¼d; scoured, good, 18d to 21d; handwashed and medium descriptions, 11d to 17d. Sheepskins: These have sold at good values, the prices showing well as compared with the sale of wool. We disposed of a large number at the following prices, viz.—for best, 6d to 7½d; medium, 4½d to 5¼d; burry and short, 2¼d to 4d. Tallow: 240 casks offered, 55 sold. A rise in freights and a further unfavourable news of the English market has prevented any shipping business being done this week. Trade parcels scarcely so firm as last sales. Quotations—Best mutton, £29 to £30; beef, £27 to £28; mixed and station, £23 to £25 10s. Hides: 2887 offered, 2401 sold. No material alteration to note in this market, the demand being equal to the supply. Quotations—Extra heavy, 3d to 3¼d; heavy, 3d to 3¼d; medium, 3d to 3¼d; light and middling, 2¼d to 3d. Leather: Tuesday's sales were very dull, and little or no business was done. Prices on all descriptions weaker, more noticeable on sole and harness. Quotations—Sole, best 9d to 10¼d; medium, 8d to 8½d; light, 7d to 7½d; kip, best, 16d to 17d; medium, 14¼d to 15¼d; harness, best, 12d to 13d; medium, 10¼d to 11¼d; bridle, 10s to 12s 6d; bag, 10s to 12s; cow tweed, 20s to 21s; calf, 25s to 30s. Tin Ore: All the ore arriving has been easily sold at the same price as was ruling last week. Only a limited quantity is still coming forward. Our sales only amount to about 8 tons. Tin: For the past week the London market has been fluctuating, and, according to our latest cablegram, dated the 19th instant, the price has mended to £62 15s. We note a good demand for what is offering at fair value, as compared with the London quotations.—November 22.

MORT AND CO.—Wool: Arrivals are now becoming very heavy, and catalogues are more attractive. We submitted a good catalogue this week, and our sale passed off very satisfactorily, nearly all the lots offered being cleared. The biddings were spirited for all fairly conditioned parcels, both of clean and greasy wools. Some of the latter were in excellent condition, and one small parcel realised 13½d per lb. The principal lot of fleece, 49 bales, brought 21d per lb. The telegrams regarding the opening of the London sales, which commenced on the 19th instant, quote a decline of ½d to 1d per lb. on lowest rates current at previous series, but as competition is described as being keen at the reduced rates, there may be a recovery as the sales progress. The result of our sale was as follows:—Washed fleece, fair to good, 17d to 21d; faulty, 14d to 16d; greasy, superior, 11½d to 13½d; good, 10d to 11d; faulty, 7d to 8½d; scoured was in small supply, and the sales made do not admit of a reliable quotation. Sheepskins were in very firm demand, and were actively competed for at good rates. We cleared our catalogue at from 3½d to 7½d per lb., according to condition and quality. Leather: At the sales this week there was a small attendance, and the business done was limited. Quotations are—Sole, medium, 6¼d to 7½d; best, 7½d to 8½d; kip, medium, 13d to 14d; best, 14½d to 16d; harness, 10d to 13d; tweed, 18d to 22d; calf, 24d to 28d; bag, 9s to 11s per side. Hides: The supply was more limited to-day than for some time past, and most of the lots offered were disposed of at about late rates. Heavies are worth from 3¼d to 3¼d; medium, 2¾d to 3d, and light and dry, 3¼d to 3¼d per lb. Horsehides: The only lines available for to-day's sales were of an inferior description, and consequently not very salable. We quote best at 6s to 7s 6d; middling, 4s to 5s 6d per hide. Tallow: The demand is only moderate; and to make sales, comparatively low rates have to be accepted for all descriptions. At the sales to-day the trade were the only purchasers. Beef is worth from £28 to £29; mixed, £25 to £27; and mutton, £29 10s to £30 per ton. Kangaroo Skins: The bulk of those in the market are weevilly, and of an inferior description, and worth from 10s to 18s per dozen; large sizes bring from 20s to 25s per dozen. Hair is in short supply, and meets with a fair demand. Horse tail may be quoted at from 13d to 15d; mane, 8d to 10d; and mixed, 11d to 12d per lb. Horns: Old and sun-dried are difficult of sale, but good conditioned, large sizes, are salable at from 20s to 30s per 100. Shank bones meet with ready sale at from £6 to £10 per ton.—November 23.

STOCK AND STATION REPORTS.

P. N. TREBECK.—Stations: Beyond preliminary inquiries from a few capitalists, no business in these properties has taken place during the past week. Those buyers who have appeared have shown a preference for sheep stations adapted for working under fencing. I have had buyers asking for small cattle stations, but the market is dull for such properties. Freehold grazing estates near the railway lines have been asked for, but there are not many of these in the market just now. Store Cattle: A few purchasers have appeared, but only to buy at much lower rates than have been lately ruling. Bullocks, in small lots for paddocks are worth £3 5s to £4, according to age and quality. Ordinary mixed sexes are almost unsalable at present. Store Sheep: I have several negotiations pending for wethers at 6s 6d per head shorn, and have had inquiries for weaners and hoggets. I could place a few at moderate prices, but the market is dull. Fat Cattle: About the usual number yarded. No change for the better has taken place at this week's sales. The quality in most instances has been good, but buyers seem very unwilling to operate. The Meat Preserving Co. being still out of the market has had a considerable effect in keeping prices down. Best yards realized from 19s to 20s per 100 lbs., and medium from 17s to 18s per 100 lbs. Fat Sheep: The quantity penned this week having been very large, the rates obtained during the last two weeks have not been sustained, and the prices at the close of the market showed a decline of fully 1s per head. Best pens realized from 10s to 13s, and medium from 6s 9d to 8s per head.—November 22.

HARRISON, JONES, AND DEVLIN.—Stations: We have nothing fresh to report under this heading. Fat Cattle: 1281 yarded for week, of which 732 came forward for Monday, the quality of same, with one exception, being good, the attendance of town and country buyers being fair. The opening sales were very dull, and prices evidently easier, but as sales progressed things assumed a firmer tone, prime pens making 19s to 20s; medium, 17s to 18s per 100 lbs. On Thursday a very full supply came forward. This, coupled with a poor attendance of buyers, caused a slack competition, and prices gave way slightly, best pens reaching 19s. We think that there will be but little change for the next fortnight. Fat Sheep: 8439 penned, the trade also having some 3000 forward, and with the great facilities now offering for transmission of stock, our market soon becomes overdone. Prices on Monday showed a slight decline, and Thursday's sales were fully 1s per head lower than last week's quotations. 60 lbs. full fleece are worth 13s, and shorn 9s 6d to 10s, lighter weight in proportion. Store Cattle: We notice a better demand for this class of stock. We may mention the sale of 700 Bonshaw bullocks at £4 10s per head. Store Sheep: A brisk inquiry for both ewes and wethers is now being shown, and we are in treaty for sale of some large lots.—November 22.

ROSS AND HIPGRAVE.—Stations: We know of no properties having changed hands since our last. As most of our squatters are now busy shearing, but little will be done until it is over. During the week we have had inquiries for good sheep properties, and well secured, and have submitted an offer for one. We have also placed under offer a New England sheep station, and anticipate reporting a sale after inspection. Fat Cattle: 1200 odd forward for the week; and, although the quality was good, we are unable to report any improvement in prices. Quotations—Prime, 19s per 100 lbs.; medium, 17s to 18s per 100 lbs. Fat Sheep: 8000 odd penned for the week's supply, besides some the trade had forward. At the closing sales on Thursday, prices fell about 1s per head. Quotations—60-lb. shorn wethers, 9s 6d to 10s; lighter weights in proportion. Store Cattle: As the season advances the demand is improving. This week we have placed under offer a draft of females, and are treating for a large lot of bullocks, and a herd of mixed cattle at satisfactory prices. Store Sheep: Good demand for young wethers of fattening ages, but buyers and vendors still differ as to value. We would draw the attention of buyers to our advertisement of sheep for sale in to-day's (Saturday) Herald.—November 22.

SULLIVAN AND SIMPSON.—Stations: We cannot report any improvement in the demand for these securities. No doubt this is only to be accounted for by the fact that those that are disposed to purchase can readily get a very high rate of interest for their money on mortgage, thus very few sales are being effected. Fat Cattle: About 1400 passed through the yards for the week's supply. This number may be considered much above trade requirements. However, considering the excessive heat of the weather, particularly on Thursday (for we do not remember a day like it), the sales passed off quite equal to last week's rates; indeed there was a slight improvement, and we regret to notice that the manager of the Sydney Meat Company was not a buyer of cattle this week, and if some fund is not raised to assist this valuable institution, we fear before long that boiling rates will have to be submitted to. We quote best bullocks worth 20s per 100 lbs., fair to good, 17s to 18s, all others proportionately. We have this week sold 199 bullocks, by road, on account of the Hon. James White, up to £8 13s, the whole draft averaging £7 9s. Fat Sheep: The supply above requirements, and prices for all descriptions lower than last week's rates, and they would have receded lower than they did, had it not been for Mr. Gee, the general manager of the Sydney Meat Company, purchasing those he did. We quote 60-lbs. wethers, shorn, worth 9s 6d to 9s 9d, all others proportionately; lightweights having been sold at little better than store rates outside. Store Stock: We have had inquiries for well-grown wethers that have been shorn early, and are negotiating for the sale of a large lot. We quote best shorn wethers worth 6s to 6s 6d, all depends on place of delivery, and when shorn.—November 22.

G. M. PITT AND SONS.—Stations; We have nothing fresh to report under this heading, business remains exceedingly dull, and there is not likely to be much improvement till the money market gets easier. Fat Cattle: 1300 yarded. The supply this week consisted of two lots of paddock cattle from the Hunter, two lots by rail from the south, and the remainder were auction lots. The latter were principally of indifferent quality, but the former were all from good to prime, and principally heavy weights. Prices on the whole were about equal to those obtained last week, and we do not expect much alteration on present prices for some little time to come. We quote—Best beef, worth 20s per 100 lbs.; fair to good, 17s to 18s per 100 lbs. Our sales have been—98 bullocks (Thomas Cook's), from Turanville, at £7 5s; 70 mixed ½ cows (T. and S. Learmonth's), from Groongall, at £7 10s, being the highest average of the week for a mixed lot; 197 bullocks (E. Vickery's), £5 7s 3d. Fat Sheep.—The supply this week was fully equal to requirements, and as the trade had a large lot down from the south, sales were dull, and prices hardly up to those obtained last week. Best mutton is being carcassed at the abattoirs at 1½d per lb., which is about equal to boiling value for prime lots. The Meat Company are operating to a considerable extent, and help materially to strengthen the market. We quote 60-lb. wethers worth 9s 6d, 54-lb., 8s 6d, 48-lb., 7s 6d. Our sales have been 2118 wethers (W. F. Buchanan's), from Warrane, by road, at from 7s to 8s 6d, store stock. There is a good demand for breeding ewes, and we could place a large line at a satisfactory price. Store wethers are also inquired after, and we shall receive particulars of any such for sale.—November 22.

BRUNKER, WOLFE, AND BADGERY.—Stations: Very few sales are effected yet, but it is probable that confidence will soon be restored to this class of investment, and more business be done. Fat Cattle: The supply has not been so heavy this week, and closing sales showed an improvement in prices. We look for a firmer market next week, but extreme prices are a thing of the past, and unless the Meat Company is assisted in some way, so as to enable them to increase their consumption of stock, very low prices must rule towards close of this summer, or we must look to disease or drought to lessen the numbers sufficiently to enable us to obtain payable rates for fat stock. We quote best lots, bullocks, £7 10s to £8; cows, £6 to £6 10s; medium, bullocks, £6 10s to £7, cows, £5 5s to £5 10s. Fat Sheep: The market on Monday was firm, with a full supply. On Thursday lower rates ruled, and closing values were for best shorn wethers, 9s 6d to 10s 6d; extra good, 12s; best wethers in wool, 13s to 13s 6d. Our sales have been 1795 (Swift and Hann's), shorn, at 9s 9d to 10s 9d; 401 wethers, shorn (Taylor's), at 8s; 88 wethers in wool (Donkin's), at 13s 2d; 175 wethers in wool (steamer), 11s 4d to 11s 8d; 32 wethers, shorn (Taylor's), 12s. Fat Calves: Market glutted, and low prices ruling. We sold 18 (Mrs. Huggins's) at 9s; 41 (John Badgery's), 11s to 25s; 33 (Badgery, Brothers'), 14s 6d to 31s. Fat Lambs: An over-supply forward, and prices ruled lower. We sold 90 at 6s 3d. Store Cattle: There is a better demand, and prices are improving. We have inquiries for several lots, and could at once place good bullocks, not too far away. We have several lots now under inspection at advanced rates. Quotations are—for best bullocks, £4 10s to £5; cows, £3 10s to £3. Store Sheep: We have large inquiries, and prices are firmer. We have sold 6000 wethers, Liverpool Plains, at 6s 9d cash. We have 20,000 prime ewes for sale. Horses: To sell well horses must have style and condition; other sorts are dull.—November 22.

WILLIAM INGLIS.—Fat Cattle: The supply again was very large, and there was no improvement in prices. To-day the market was very dull, owing to the excessive heat; best beef is only bringing from 19s to 20s per 100 lbs. I sold 146 head light (Dunn and M'Kinnon's), £3 17s to £5 17s. Sheep: The market is about the same, the demand continuing brisk for good wethers. Milch Cows: The sale was very dull. A large number in, about three-fourths of which only were sold. I sold 41 from £2 17s 6d to £8. Calves: Supply very heavy, more than double the usual quantity, causing prices to be very low. I sold 28 (Cooper's), 15s to 56s; 13 (Dunn and M'Kinnon's), 11s 6d to 27s; and 114 others from 4s to 36s. Lambs: A fair demand for good ones. I sold 110 (M'Nickle's), 8s to 9s 3d; 40 (Mackenzie's), 5s to 7s 9d. Pigs: Supply moderate; market unchanged. I sold 111 from 13s 6d to 61s. Horses: There is a slight improvement in the market, and I have held some satisfactory sales during the week, the principal lots being 10 (M'Connell's), £8 to £24 10s; 14 (Walters's), £4 5s to £16 10s; 8 (Graham's), £3 5s to £9 5s; 10 (Dwyer's), £4 5s to £17.—November 21.

MAIDEN, HILL, AND CLARK.—Fat Cattle: 1281 head passed the yards during the week, a larger supply than usual; 732 of these came forward for Monday's sales, about half of which were portions of north-western drafts of fair to medium descriptions, the balance being trained lots from Riverina. There was a fair muster of the trade, but in consequence of the large supply prices were hardly so firm. On Thursday 529 head were yarded, portions of some lots being held over. The weather was excessively hot, and heavy weights were not so much in demand. The Meat Company are still out of the market, and until they commence operations again we do not look for much improvement. Prime descriptions cannot be quoted over 18s per 100 lbs.; mediums and seconds, 15s to 17s. Our sales have been—95 cows (Hill and Hector's) at £5 13s 6d; 55 bullocks (Rudd, Brothers'), £7 16s, the best price of the week; 7 cows (Rudd, Brothers'), £6 17s 6d; and 110 cows (R. Hill and Son,s), £5 8s 10d. Fat Sheep.—8291 passed the yards, together with about 4000 which have arrived direct to the trade. 8687 were penned on Monday, when prices were firm at about last week's rates. 4604 were penned on Thursday, when, in consequence of the trade having a large number forwarded unexpectedly, prices were hardly so firm. Prime shorn Riverina wethers made to 9s 9d; medium, from 6s 6d to 8s 9d. Our sales have been—867 woolled wethers (Cobb and Co.'s), 11s to 12s 1d; 707 shorn wethers (Caldwell's), 6s 8d to 7s; 361 wethers (Cobb and Co.'s), woolled, at 11s.—November 21.

W. FULLAGAR AND SON report having sold, on Monday last, for Mr. J. Perry, 69 head of cattle, mixed—12 cows at £5 5s. 6d., and 57 bullocks at £6 11s. 6d. each; also, for Mr. W. F. Buchanan, 69 bullocks at £6 5s. 3d. each. On Thursday he sold, for Mr. J. Flynn, 78 head, mixed, averaged £4 12s. 9d. each; also, for Mr. W. F. Buchanan, 66 head, which averaged £6 2s. 6d. each. The market still keeps very low, and shows no appearance of any improvement for some time. We quote best beef as worth from 17s. 6d. to 19s. 6d. per 100 lbs.; second class, from 15s. 6d.; and inferior, as low as 12s. per 100 lbs.

SYDNEY LABOUR MARKET.

J. C. GLUE reports this market brisk. The demand and supply good. The immigrants per La Hogue and Pericles have been engaged, comprising couples with more or less young children, and a few working families. There were only a few married couples able to take situations, these were engaged at £60 per annum. The single farming men were chiefly from Ireland, these obtained from £35 to £40 per annum. The single women were engaged for town and suburbs. A large proportion of the immigrants went to the country on own account. Our usual engagements have been made with the varied classes for town and country; all obtained full current rates. Wages upon the whole are well maintained. There is a strike at the A. S. N. Co., and the labour market is somewhat disturbed. The Union men shepherd our agency to induce men not to enter the company's employ.—November 22.

PUBLIC HEALTH—PUBLIC GOOD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The Chinese question cropping up now as a labour question, as that of the coolies did a few years ago, and of the convicts did on another occasion, appears to me to offer an opportunity for saying a few words upon that aspect of the case which more nearly affects the public health, leaving to those whose skill in setting class against class surpasses my ability to reconcile the divided interests to deal with the matter from the point of the right to maintain wages above the rate at which labour can be profitably employed.

Having regard to Imperial relations with China, we may hardly impose upon the Chinese terms which are not imposed on other peoples; but there can be no objection to a general law regulating immigration from all countries, requiring an equal number of females to be brought by every ship bringing males—a law which should class as an immigrant ship every vessel bringing more than a certain number of passengers. Under such regulations the cardinal objection to Chinese immigration would, I think, be removed, removed by placing ourselves in harmony with the Divine provision, based upon the assertion that "it is not good for the man to be alone." For the rest, the Chinese are as clever as we are, he is more industrious, more sober, at least as loyal; the criminal calendar contains no unfair proportion of names of celestial origin. Is he dirty? Are we clean? Does he drug himself with opium? What do our beer and spirit dealers do by such of us as consume their preparations? Let such as doubt ask our druggists who are their best customers.

The time has gone by for regarding the Chinese as barbarians. Their civilization is long antecedent to ours; we are in some respects ages behind them still. With what result would four hundred millions of such as our people attempt to sustain life within the area of the Chinese Empire? Can we doubt that the one-half would have to eat the other? To how much of the back country of Australia has Chinese gardening afforded the only preventive of scurvy?

To conclude, when shall we leave off legislating for classes, and lay, broad and deep, the foundations of a noble future for this country, upon the rock of justice?

I have the honour to be, Sir, &c.,
BURTON BRADLEY.

Llewellyn, Five Dock, November 20.

THE ISLANDS OF PORT JACKSON AND THE ABORIGINES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I hope I may be pardoned for suggesting that the claims of the original owners should not be overlooked when dedicating the islands in the harbour as reserves.

It is recorded that one of the aborigines, named Benilong, inherited Goat Island from his father, and announced his intention of leaving it as a gift to his descendants (Dumont d'Urville, "Voyage de l'Astrolabe.")

Many aborigines now come to Sydney yearly from Shoalhaven and other parts of the colony, and they are compelled to camp at North Shore, often to the great discomfort of its permanent residents. If one of the islands in the harbour could be devoted to these blackfellows, I believe that they would be far more comfortable than in Berry's Bay, and removed from much temptation and annoyance.

Considering the vast territory which has been wrested from these poor people without any compensation, I take it that it would be a graceful act to allow them the privilege of pointing to one of these small islands at the entrance to the metropolis as still their own.

THE TRADES UNION CONGRESS IN ENGLAND.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Sept. 27.

Labour has been sitting in grave council, discussing its claims and grievances, real or imaginary, and Capital is in nowise terrified. Why should it ever be otherwise? It would be only in accordance with the teachings of experience were the proceedings at the annual congress of Trades Unionists to prove a kind of social safety valve, enabling a considerable amount of unpleasant feeling on the part of the labouring classes to find a ready vent which, otherwise, might prove a source of great danger from being too closely restricted. Unfortunately, our journalists do not regard the gathering from this point of view, preferring, as a rule, to treat it in a political light. Hence, we find the Liberal papers approving of the speeches and the proceedings generally, and the Conservative organs equally ready to find fault with everything. Curiously enough, "The Times," which has been merciless in its exposure of Unionist fallacies, and is popularly supposed to be the "enemy of labour," has given the most copious and most impartial reports of the doings of the Congress, a circumstance which, although merely a repetition of what the same paper has done in previous years, has both pleased and perplexed the Unionists. "The Times," however, is acting wisely, and has done, in this respect, more for the united interests of capital and labour than is usually imagined, for by recognizing the right of these representatives of a large and influential portion of the labouring classes to be heard on the same terms as are the representatives of the various federations of employers, it has caused the former to become conscious of the real duties and responsibilities of their position. They know that if they invite discussion and court the aid of public opinion they must come into court with clean hands. They cannot plead on behalf of Unionism if Unionism persists in setting itself above the law and the public interest. Knowing this, each member of the Congress, which fairly represents the intellect and moral power of Unionism, instinctively feels he has become a kind of hostage for the good conduct of those whom he has been deputed to represent, and accordingly throws the whole weight of his influence into the scale against the old policy of violence and terrorism, which has made Trades Unionism almost synonymous with secret despotism of the worst possible character. Ever since the Unionist Congress has become a recognised institution, and its proceedings fairly reported in the newspapers, especially in "The Times," there has been observable a feverish anxiety on the part of Unionist officials to prevent their followers from doing anything which may tend to unfavourably influence public opinion. Hence it is that Unionist outrages have ceased to form a standing topic in the newspapers. The violent scenes in Lancashire, during the recent strike, were not the work of the Unionists, but of a mischievous mob, conscious of its own power and the weakness of the protective force. The writer of this letter has little sympathy with the principles of Unionism, but this is no reason why he should not be just to those from whom he differs in opinion, and give them credit for good as well as for evil. The mistake committed by many of those who formerly had to deal with the progress of Unionism was precisely that which animates Prince Bismarck in his futile crusade against German socialism: they sought to intimidate the social forces which were beyond their control. They treated the Unionist as a social pariah, a being accursed, and against whom the hand of every capitalist was raised.

The danger now is that the re-action in the opposite direction may be too great, and have a tendency to cause the Unionists to over-estimate the real strength of their position. On the other hand, it is noticeable that with the change in public feeling the influence of the old Unionist demagogues has become considerably diminished. The names of those who, a few years ago, were conspicuous by their noisy counsels of resistance to employers when such a policy had become simply hopeless, do not appear very prominent in the proceedings of the Congress, the members of which, no matter what might be the character of their economical and industrial views, were (at least the majority of them) men possessing much good sense and business tact. The Congress commenced its sittings about a fortnight ago at Bristol, under the presidency of a Mr. Jones, the members inflexibly declining to nominate to that position any individual who has not been delegated by the Trades' Union of which he is a member. The business of the first day included the introduction and unanimous adoption of a resolution recommending that the Parliamentary Committee should prepare a measure to be submitted to Parliament with the object of lowering the qualification of jurymen and paying such remuneration for services on juries as would secure men against actual loss. He recommended the resolution on the ground that working men failed to obtain justice under the present system, owing to class prejudice, and that as citizens they were entitled to the privilege of sitting on juries. The present resolution differed from the resolutions passed by previous Congresses, inasmuch as it recommended that they should take up the matter themselves, and get such a measure laid before the House of Commons as would clearly and explicitly embody the reforms which they wished to see introduced. It should here be mentioned that in connection with the Congress, which consists of a certain number of delegates from every labour organization in the United Kingdom, there is a standing Parliamentary Committee, whose duty it is to examine and report on all bills brought into Parliament of a character affecting in any manner the interests of the labouring classes. Of course they have nothing to do with purely political matters. The next resolution was one recommending the extension of the Employers and Workmen's Act to English seamen in British waters. During the discussion which ensued, the following characteristic letter from Mr. Plimsoll was read in reference to the proposed abolition of advanced notes:—

"Derby, Sept. 11.

"Dear Sir,—I think your difficulty as to advance notes is most completely met by the proposal to extend to seamen the provisions of the Workmen and Employers Act. For if this is done and the power to imprison taken away advance notes will by that fact alone be abolished, since none would be issued if the power to imprison did not exist. They now rely on this power, and this only, in making the advances. At the same time, I do not consider the seamen would be prejudiced, as a shipowner or captain would not be likely to refuse an advance note to a steady man in need of it who engaged with him, just as a master carpenter or builder now does, and as to the unsteady, those who would dissipate the amount advanced would be better without it.

"I am, dear sir, yours very truly,
"SAMUEL PLIMSOLL."

Several other resolutions were also discussed and adopted, including one recommending the appointment of women as inspectors, under the Factory and Workshops Acts, for places in which females and children were employed. This latter resolution, which came on in the form of an amendment to a preceding question, was moved by a female delegate, who said she had a translation from a French paper which showed that women were appointed in the Department of the Seine to see that the law was not evaded. She admitted that she was opposed to the Factory and Workshops Acts, but seeing they had passed she thought there should be women as inspectors. The members were much divided in opinion on this point, Mr. George Potter taking the side of the ladies. He said that Mrs. Paterson, the fair delegate referred to, had very properly enforced her views by the fact that the great majority of the persons employed were women and children; and who, he asked, could look after them so well as women themselves? We allowed women to be members of Boards of Guardians and School Boards on the ground that there was a portion of the population whom men could not so well represent, and it was for the same reason that women should be appointed inspectors.

The two great features of the Congress were, however, the address of the president, delivered on the second day, and the paper on "Over-production," read by Mr. John Morley, editor of the "Fortnightly Review," on the third day. The first was a most remarkable document, free, on the one hand, from any trace of vulgar declamation, and characterized, on the other, by an evident desire to state, in calm and dispassionate language, the views of the Unionists generally. The address, which was full of interest, deserves reproduction in full, but as this is impossible, a few extracts must suffice. Referring to the prevailing depression in trade, Mr. Jones said:

"The possession of land has ever been a coveted prize, and it is probably the only property which naturally advances in value as the population increases; yet from time immemorial it has been monopolised by a few persons, and some radical change must take place before the people become attached to the soil by possessing some portion of it. It is evidently the duty of the Legislature so to control the landed interests of the nation that the peasant as well as the peer may have some spot of earth whereon he may live. The right to live is equally and divinely decreed, though the surroundings and circumstances to which the former has fallen a victim are entirely beyond his control. The Government is a means to an end, and that end is the happiness of the people. It ought not to embody partial interests—the interests of monopolists and classes—but the general interests of the community. Its great functions are to protect persons and property, to frame just laws, and administer them cheaply, promptly, and impartially. Other phases of this question, such as the absorption of small by large farmers, the conversion of arable into pasture, the invention and improvement of machinery, all tend to reduce the demand for hand labour, and force the surplus from the country into the towns to compete with each other in the skilled labour market. The difficult and costly mode of transfer has prevented the possession of land by the people, otherwise many more would be engaged upon its cultivation, by which means it would become increasingly productive. We are beginning to pride ourselves on the fact that much has been done to remove class legislation between labour and capital; such is not only right and just in itself, but conducive to the national good. Class legislation has been one of the great obstacles to commercial prosperity. Yet, at the present time, this great and vital question of land is made up of monopolies, and until the laws which govern it are brought into harmony with the principles that govern other kinds of interest, it will contribute to periodical depression in trade."

How different this tone from that which prevailed in the days when Chartism and Trades Unionism were leagued together, and spoke of the establishment of a new social system in which the detested capitalist should have no place. When working men are found speaking in this strain, it shows that they have a right to be heard, even by those from whom they most differ. In another portion of his address, Mr. Jones proceeded to deal with some strictures passed upon Trades' Unions in a letter to himself from Mr. Samuel Morley, M.P., whose name was loudly cheered by the meeting. Mr. Morley wrote:—

"The opinion I wished to express was that while I believe Trades' Unions have done good service in bringing work-people to act unitedly, and so in many districts they have ceased to be a 'rope of sand,' and have thus been able to ensure better and more just consideration from employers, they have, by transferring all negotiations as to wages and conditions of work to middle men, who have often no connection with the work generally, none whatever almost always with the particular employer, altered materially the character of the relationship between the two classes. There is, I fear, ceasing to be the intimacy between masters and men which existed some years ago. Speaking for my own manufactory, we know scarcely anything of the men who have come into our service of late years, because strangers negotiate most of the arrangements which are made. I believe this is a misfortune for both parties. Then as to the less number of hours for work. I am clearly of opinion that unless some different arrangements are made, involving some concessions, the demand for English manufactures will gradually diminish. Unhappily, in spite of Mr. Brassey and others, we know to our cost that some markets for certain classes of goods are gradually closing to us, and while this is perhaps to be expected I feel anxious before it is too late to try whether I can induce representatives of both sides who have influence to meet and consider whether some amendments in our methods of conducting these negotiations, and other points seriously affecting the interests of the men, could not be brought into action. English manufactures cannot be consumed in England alone, and I confess I tremble for the future of large numbers of English workmen unless some changes are made."

I feel strongly tempted to quote a few of Mr. Jones's remarks on Mr. Morley's letter, less for the purpose of owing the natures of the countries argument employed, than the temperate character of the language in which they were expressed. One portion of Mr. Jones' address, perhaps the most important, seems to have escaped observation. He said:—

"To the question, what concessions are we prepared to make in the mode of conducting our negotiations with employers? I think it only reasonable to inquire what further concession is required. If it implies conciliation and arbitration, then I say these are no new features in connection with our organisations; it is one of the fundamental principles of many societies, who not only enjoin its observance by their members, but make it imperative on the part of their officers in all cases, where applicable, to offer conciliation, or failing in that, arbitration; thus casting the onus of disruption on the employers, by their refusing to meet the men in conference; and yet the public mind is kept in a state of ferment by ignorant and irresponsible persons, who allege that trade unionists are opposed to all reasonable modes of settling the wage and other questions in dispute."

In support of his observations, Mr. Jones pointed out that in the year 1824, a Committee of the House of Commons was appointed to consider the laws relating to workmen and artizans, and that section 10 of their report was as follows:—"That the practice of settling disputes by arbitration between masters and workmen has been attended with good effects, and it is desirable that the laws which direct and regulate arbitration should be consolidated, amended, and made applicable to all trades."

Mr. John Morley's paper was listened to with profound attention. He was not a member of the Congress, but was present by special invitation, his opinions on various points being known to be in harmony with those of the Congress. Without admitting the soundness of Mr. Morley's views, it is impossible to read his paper without admiring the clear and argumentative manner in which they have been put. Leaping over his prefatory remarks, we find Mr. Morley contending that the present seriously depressed condition of trade is partly a result, not of industrial competition abroad, but of unrestricted competition at home. He said:—

"There is nothing original in this, and if it were merely my own opinion it would be of very little value. It is the deliberate judgment of many of the very ablest of the manufacturers and merchants of the country. In the words of one of them, 'The redundancy of loose capital brought about by an extraordinary combination of circumstances stimulated much unprofitable competition among the members of the manufacturing and distributing classes who were possessed either of credit or means of their own.' Now, it may be said that the industrial capitalists of the country, if they had been preternaturally shrewd, prudent, and far-sighted men, would have realised the possibility or reasonable probability of these unfavourable events coming to pass, either singly or in a fatal combination, and would have been careful not to allow the intoxication of their splendid prosperity to carry them away into headlong excesses of production. A moralist might speculate on the loss of the millions that have been flung into the ocean of worthless foreign investments, and might, perhaps, further have his own reflections on the morality of investments which can only make a return on condition that the masters of Egyptian and Turkish peasants grind their faces to the earth to extort interest for the foreign lender. But people with capital are so far not unlike people without it, and there is nothing astonishing or extraordinary in the motives which have actuated the employers in their policy of headlong extension. Roaring profits offered an immediate temptation which in the present state of human nature we had no right to expect them to resist. Nor is it any one class that contributed the capital for this enormous extension. In Lancashire a great deal of the capital for the new mills was subscribed, in such places as Oldham especially, directly by the workmen. It is said that there are certain towns in England in which every maidservant is a shipowner, for a fine ship could be bought for £1000; one sixty-fourth share in her would cost £16, and a housemaid might save that, and for two or three years the investment might bring 30, 40, or as much as 50 per cent. But, after all, it is the directing classes of a community that have been responsible for this unwise rush after great profits."

Contending that the mischief would have been greater but for the interference of the trades' unions, Mr. Morley proceeded to insist that there had been "a deplorable administration of capital." He said:—

"I have before me a list, which I will not take up time by reading out to you, of the great iron and coal concerns which have ended in disaster, not because they were 'eaten up by their workpeople,' as is so constantly and so foolishly said, but because they insisted on going on. The result was ruinous loss, after the difference between the lowest cost of producing iron and getting coal, and the prices which the iron and coal would bring, had ceased to be profitable. One concern in this way wasted and destroyed a million and a half of capital; another three-quarters of a million; a copper-mining enterprise, from first to last, not less than a million and a quarter. No less than eight concerns in Glamorganshire, Pembrokeshire, and Montgomeryshire have been closed, while others are in liquidation. There are others, again, in which the £10 share is down at £3 or at £1. This is one result of the persistency of the capitalists in following blindfold the formula which at this moment finds such favour in the cotton trade—namely, that if you only go on producing, the consequent low prices must inevitably stimulate demand, and the markets right themselves."

Continuing in this strain for some time, and laying great stress upon the present condition of the shipping trade in every part of the civilised world, and the gloomy state of affairs in Lancashire, Mr. Morley remarked that in the great manufactures of worsted and woollen, on the other hand, the best authorities assured him that there has been no over production. The proof of this is that in spite of the long depression of trade and the greatly reduced exports there are no large stocks pressing upon the markets. The Yorkshire manufacturers have been very cautious, and have prevented the accumulation of stocks by limiting their production to the daily demand. Hence in those districts, though the profits during the last four or five years have been small, and though in some cases there have been losses, yet the very trifling increase of pauperism and the general aspect of the workmen combine to prove that good wages have been earned. Yet Mr. Morley finds himself compelled to admit that the evil of which he complains has several compensating advantages.

"Over-production is, I need not say, far from being always being an evil to the great body of consumers, either in a given country or all over the world. In the shipping trade, for instance, the fact that the carriage of goods was never so cheap is a clear boon to everybody save the carrier. It brings the whole world, as has been said, to the feet of any person in it, and we are told that nothing that has not happened seems a safer thing to predict than that the value of meat, with very slight differences for carriage, will equalize itself over the world. So in the coal trade, the fact that railway companies which had to pay 18s. a ton for their fuel in 1873 are now paying less than 8s. 6d., or, as I am told, only 4s., is what makes all the difference between a bad and a fairly good dividend on the great investment in the middle class. And it is not only the middle class that is affected. It has been calculated by Mr. Fawcett that the reduction of the price of coal to its former level represents a relief to the country at large of a burden which, apart from its indirect influence on manufactures, was equal to half the interest on the National Debt. A well-informed correspondent of the Times, after describing this extension, lays the blame of the present state of things on the fact that the surpluses of good years were expended on additional plant, instead of being husbanded for a rainy day. The means of producing our staple manufactures, such as iron and textiles, have been of late years abnormally increased far beyond the consuming power of the world. It is quite possible that this may be so. For myself I cannot see the evidence which would justify this final limitation of consuming power. It is enough for our purpose to recognise the increase beyond the consuming power of the world at the present moment."

Admitting thus much, Mr. Morley proceeds to point out what, in his opinion, should be the policy of the workmen during the existing crisis. He says:—

"It is plain to any impartial observer of the history of production for the last twenty years, that the only effective impediment to the desperate competition of employers with one another, not abroad, but at home, and the consequent over-production, has been the determination of the English workmen not to work fourteen hours a day. And if anybody says that the determination about hours has been carried out to the loss of the employer and to the advantage of the foreign competitor, then he can only answer that in the trade where the resistence on the part of the employers to the Ten Hours Bill and the Nine Hours Bill was most strenuous, the textile trades of Lancashire, even with shortened hours, they are turning out a greater quantity of work for each spindle and loom per week than at any previous period in the history of the trade, and more than they are doing in any other country in Europe, however many hours they work."

Mr. Morley denies that foreigners are beating us on our own ground. He observes:—

"In Germany it appears that a worsted industry very much resembling our own has been developed with considerable success. But, on the whole, if we are beaten in neutral markets or in our own, it is not in the articles in which we have naturally excelled, but in those which other countries—France especially—have always produced to greater advantage than ourselves, and which, therefore, it is in the natural order of things that they should continue to produce. In no case has the new foreign competition in our own market been genuine. I will take one illustration, which may stand for more. The Lancashire operatives are warned that American cloth has found its way into the Manchester market. But the history of that cloth—except in a special kind where the Americans have always had our market—is well known, and it is this:—After the war a tariff was imposed which gave to the manufacturers high profits and a proportionate stimulus to extend the trade. They re-invested their own profits and attracted new capital, and the production expanded enormously. In 1873, owing to financial causes, the home demand fell off; stocks lay oppressively on hand; banks grew unwilling to continue ever enlarging advances, and an intense pressure to effect sales followed. But to whom? The two-edged sword of their tariff had cut off foreign competition from themselves, and it had cut off their own power to compete in neutral markets. Even had they secured this power, the returns would be too slow for the urgency of their necessities. Money, and not produce, was what they sought, and must have. Hence shipments to England, where quantity was no object, if the price were only low enough. If the competition were bona-fide, why should they choose to send the goods to Manchester of all places in the world, the place where they would compete at the greatest possible disadvantage, instead of sending them to the ultimate markets direct? It is not denied that there are firms in New York quite wealthy enough to make ventures at low prices to neutral markets, and to afford to await the result. But the history of the bulk of the shipments which have been held up to frighten the public and confound the workmen is as I have said. Let me mention one or two curious facts in the same trade. At a meeting of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, where every speaker had wound up, as if it were the chorus of a convivial song, by denouncing the action of trade unions as disabling us in foreign competition, at this meeting it was casually remarked that in 1876, when the employers were still doing a profitable trade, the price of the calico that we sent abroad was less per yard than in any year except one in the history of the cotton trade. If this be so, what becomes of the argument that the tyranny of the workpeople and the legislative restrictions on the hours of labour are driving our manufacturers out of the market? How can this be, if at the moment when tyranny and interference had reached their maximum, that did not hinder the price, a price with a profit, from falling to a minimum? Again, if it were true that it is the action of the workmen that disables us in foreign competition, then we should expect that the more labour entered into the cost of production the greater would be our disadvantage in the competition. But in the cotton trade, at all events, exactly the contrary of this is true. These articles, in the production of which labour is the most expensive element, are just those in which competition is least formidable. A common shirting sold, say, at 7s., and which has cost only 2s. in wages, is exposed to competition. But a piece of fine cambric sold, say, at 9s. 3d., has cost 4s. 6d. in wages, and yet in this department the English goods have complete command of the markets—that is to say, the article on which the manufacturer has paid most to his workmen is precisely that article on which he has feared least from his foreign rival. Nothing is more useful than to compare our own situation with that which is complained of in other countries. A remarkable report was addressed to the French Senate last May by a Parliamentary Committee appointed to inquire into the causes of the existing commercial suffering. The reporters begin, just as a similar committee would begin in England, by showing an astonishing change in the relative amounts of exports and imports. From 1872 to 1875 the exports exceeded the imports by amounts varying from 190 to 330 millions of francs. In 1876 the tide turned; the imports exceeded the exports by more than 400 millions of francs; and in the first four months of the present year that excess already amounted to 350 millions."

Again, Mr. Morley says:

"It ought to raise some doubts in the present cry about foreign competition being the cause of existing slackness, when we find that in the same report the French are saying just the same thing. 'These industries,' they say, 'are bending under the burden of foreign competition, . . . and it is not possible to keep up a situation that threatens both the future of our manufactures and the wages of our workpeople.' There is another illustration. The two gentlemen who went from Huddersfield and Leeds to report on the woollen industry of France—and a very able report they issued—when they reached Elbœuf, a great centre of that trade, were informed at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, that they could not enjoy any facilities for visiting the mills nor obtain the information of which they were in search. The reason of this, as the Elbœuf manufacturers candidly admitted, was that their trade had seriously declined of late years, and they attributed the decline to the competition of British goods. That is, the gentlemen from Leeds and Huddersfield heard the very argument used by French manufacturers against English manufacturers and in favour of protection, which English manufacturers use against their own workmen to support reductions of wages. And in the next page of this report the writers quote an explanation of the decline of the Elbœuf trade which is exactly like one of the explanations that I have heard Lancashire workmen give of the decline of the cotton trade. 'The Elbœuf manufacturers,' said local observers, 'were universally acknowledged to be the best in the world, but they were wanting in commercial sagacity and in the knowledge and application of sound business principles.' However that may be, it would be amusing—if the infirmities of human nature on a great scale were allowed to be amusing—to compare the eagerness of our shrewd Yorkshiremen to prove in what a miserable plight they are, with the eagerness of the men of Elbœuf to prove to the Senatorial Commission that in their town the number of manufacturers has decreased, the revenue from municipal taxation has fallen off, and the exportation of woollen fabrics has remained stationary. Just the same story is told in other branches of industry. At Aubusson the famous manfacture of carpets is declared to be extinguished by the competition of English and Oriental carpets. In cotton velvets the English have flooded the markets and ruined one of the industries of Amiens. The makers of looms and engines at Rouen declare their trade to be reduced to a most precarious condition by the competition of England, Belgum, and Switzerland. It is the same throughout. The whole report is one long moan over the ruin that is being slowly brought upon French industry by triumphant foreigners."

These facts are certainly undeniable, but Mr. Morley does not perceive one point—admitting all that he says about over-production in England to be correct—how would he prevent it abroad? But there is much force in these observations. The work of production here is greatly in excess of the demand. In Northamptonshire where, twenty years ago there were about thirty or forty boot and shoe manufacturing firms, there are now between two or three hundred. The principals in many of these were originally workmen, who commenced business principally on credit, and, in order to keep their position had to dispose of their goods on terms which scarcely admitted of a profit, each new comer having to offer lower terms than his rival. One retailer of boots and shoes, who enjoyed a large trade, recently informed us that in place of two or three travellers per week calling on him for orders, he often had as many as six or seven in a single day. It is the same in other trades. Hence the whole of the blame of this fearful amount of over-production must not be laid at the doors of the great capitalists. The truth is, this is an age of luxury. No longer content with the quiet plodding ways of fathers, everybody is anxious to become rich in the most speedy manner, and directly the profits in a particular trade reach a certain point, large numbers of the workpeople forsake their employment and set up as employers, even on the most humble scale. How are the trades unions to meet this? Mr. Morley admits that the old system of monopolies is impossible. The most prejudiced unionist fails to perceive any good in the protectionist doctrines sought to be revived here. What they require is the limitation of production. But if this is enforced in the case of the large employers, it will simply stimulate the tendency in the case of the smaller firms. There have been plenty of newspaper articles in reply to Mr. Morley, whose paper contains almost as many fallacies as facts, but it has been overlooked that in thus bringing up the subject for discussion he has performed a public service. It is only by examining a question in all its bearings that the actual truth can be arrived at.

Of the minor work of the Congress little need be said. It was of an eminently practical character, forming a strange but most encouraging contrast to the proceedings of similar associations on the Continent. It is only just to the Unionists to remark that they have refused, in the most decisive manner, to allow political or theological matters to be introduced into their deliberations. "Our business," they say, "is purely industrial. We have to do with facts and not theories." Contrasting their present tone with that formerly adopted by them, it is impossible not to discern therein cheering indications of increasing knowledge and good sense. It is too much to hope that the present generation are destined to behold the end of the long continued and distrous conflict between labour and capital, or that there exists any reasonable ground for believing that strikes and lock-outs may in future become avoided; but there can be no question that there is an increasing reluctance on the part of the trades unions to have recourse to extreme measures, or to encourage, directly or indirectly, anything like systematic intimidation. This, in itself, is an immense stride on the part of the unionists, and must be attributed in no small measure to the ameliorative character of recent legislation. The right of combination within certain limits has been duly recognised by the law: it is no longer penal to be a member of a trades union; and an employer no longer has it in his power to send his workmen to prison for refusing to work on his own terms, unless they have broken the specified terms of a formal engagement. At the same time, it is to be noticed that many employers are becoming weary of ceaselessly hearing the employed spoken of as if they were always in the wrong, as if capital was invariably in the right, which certainly is not the case, and seem disposed to effect a compromise when the nature of the dispute is such as not to render the same impossible. In this there is much hope for the future. It seems as if, after all, capital and labour may yet become firm friends. Why should it be otherwise? Each have their place in the industrial world, and the success of the one can be secured only by that of the other.

REPORTS ON THE PHYLLOXERA IN VINES.

The following information respecting the ravages of the dreaded phylloxera in the vines of Europe will be of some interest to vignerons here. It is extracted from trade journals and republished in a circular by M. Genevieve Martineau, of Cognac and London. The "Paris Wine and Liquor Review," of May last, says:—

"The following is the result of the inquiries made as to the position of the phylloxerated vines, dated June 23rd, 1877, extracted from the 4th part of the official publication:—

"In twenty-eight departments quoted, more than 288,000 hectares, or nearly one-sixth of the total area, have been destroyed. The department that has suffered most is Vaucluse, where, apart from the new plantings, there does not rest more than 1500 hectares out of 32,000. Gard has not more than 83,000 hectares out of 90,000 before the disease. Drôme has lost 20,000; Bouches-du-Rhône, 29,000; Herault, 71,000.

"To these statistics may be added the departments of Correze, Haute-Garonne, Gers, and Loir-et-Cher, where the presence of the phylloxera has been announced subsequent to June 23rd, 1877.

"THE PHYLLOXERA IN THE CHARENTE-INFERIEURE.

"The seventh bulletin of the Commission instituted for the study of the phylloxera in the Charente-Inférieure department contains very discouraging reports with regard to the march of the scourge. Out of the 6 arrondissements, 26 cantons, and 480 communes, which comprise the department, 3 arrondissements, 17 cantons, and 99 communes were invaded in 1875; 5 arrondissements, 25 cantons, and 248 communes in 1876; in 1877 the presence of the insect was reported in the 6 arrondissements, in the 28 cantons, and in 305 communes. 135,000 hectares out of 169,745 which the Charente-Inférieure possesses, are found to be troubled with this terrible enemy; 3590 hectares are already devastated, and 2400 will be absolutely unproductive in 1878. When shall we end such frightful ravages?

"EXTRACT FROM LETTERS IN 'LE MONITEUR VINICOLE'
(Published in Paris 19th June, 1878.)

"La Jarrie, 17th June, 1878.

"As in our preceding bulletin we have still to complain of the rain, every day brings rain, and the weather is unfavourable for our vines, which are commencing to flower.

"In a month's time we shall be able to value what remains of the grapes after the dropping which threatens us, and the terrible 'pyrale,' which will by then have finished its devastating existence for 1878, in leaving behind it a fresh and innumerable generation for 1879.

"We do not fear being contradicted when we say that at present certain properties have already lost, through the 'pyrale' alone, eight-tenths at least of their produce.

"The phylloxera has also made a fresh start. Its presence has been reported in the environs of Aytre, near La Rochelle. Trade still quiet; no business doing.

"Matha, 17th June, 1878.

"The present temperature is far from being favourable to our vines, which are in full flower, and if this weather continues another week the vines not attacked by the phylloxera will lose at least the half of their fruit.

"We will now treat of the actual state of the vineyards, as far as the phylloxera is concerned, in our district and the neighbouring ones.

"In twenty-five parishes of our district the harvest, through the plague, will be reduced to the half—in the district of Cognac it will be reduced four-fifths, in Rouillac to the half, in the district of Aigre to the half, in the district of Aulnay to three-fifths, in St. Jean d'Angély to the third, in the district of St. Hilaire to the third, and in the district of Barie to two-thirds; finally, in a circle of 30 kilometres, which represents about the half of the Charantais vineyard district (I speak of superior growths), the harvest of 1878 will be reduced in plain terms to three-fifths; and, if we take the vineyards altogether, a good half may be expected, as long as the dropping and other evils do not touch us.

"In 1874 the two Charentes produced 12 million hectolitres; in 1875, 15 millions; in 1877, 8 millions; and in 1878 they will certainly not produce 7 millions.

"'LE MONITEUR VINICOLE,' 26TH JUNE, 1878.

"Barbezieux, 24th June, 1878.

"We receive bad news of our vineyards from all parts of the country. The phylloxera makes terrible progress, all our region is more or less attacked by it. The proprietors who, before the invasion of this dreadul grub, made from 400 to 500 hogsheads of wine, will this year barely make 50 hogsheads, besides which, in consequence of the excessive damp in the vines, the 'brouillard' destroys the flowering, and a certain quantity falls to the ground.

"Cognac, 24th June, 1878.

"I have just made a short visit to the four cantons of our district. The phylloxera is extending generally, several districts have no vines, and will not reap the tenth part of their usual consumption, without speaking of the dropping and any other accidents which can happen. It is certain that the four districts of Cognac, Jarnac, Segousac, and Château Neuf (the latter is the least attacked) will not reap the fourth of 1875.

"You know that the 16 communes which form the Grande Champagne are situate in the district of Cognac, so that this superior growth is nearly totally destroyed, and the holders of this growth are always raising the price, which is not astonishing.

"The harvest is very behindhand; weeds have rarely been so numerous and so strong. Haymaking has scarcely commenced, and the harvest will come after it. The cultivation of the healthy vines will leave much to be desired, as to those attacked by the plague, the proprietors leave them without cultivation.

"I will end my letter with one example. The commune of Château Bernard (Grand Champagne), which formerly produced up to 10,000 hogsheads of wine, has hardly a vine but what is attacked, and from producers the inhabitants have absolutely become purchasers. This fact alone, which is unfortunately not an exception, is sufficient to explain the firmness of the prices of good wine and pure Cognac, in spite of the depressed state of the market."

Sale this day, at 11 a.m., superior household furniture, china, glass plate, pianofortes, and other effects.—Bradley, Newton, and Lamb, Spring and O'Connell streets.

THE STRIKE OF THE A. S. N. CO.'S SEAMEN.

The A. S. N. Co.'s steamer Coonanbara has returned from Newcastle, with what assistance the company could obtain, and will be laid up. The laying up of all the steamers in port, for the present, at least, is the intention of the directors. Efforts will be made to discharge the cargoes, however. A communication has been sent from the head-office of the company to the superintending engineer, at the company's works, Pyrmont, advising him that as no income is now being received it is necessary to at once reduce, to the extent of one-half, the number of men employed at the Pyrmont works, until the difficulty arising from the strike of the seamen has passed. This notice was posted at the works yesterday, and the reduction in the number of hands will be made to-day. Probably before many days have gone by the works will be closed entirely. Yesterday morning a deputation from the Eight Hour Conference waited upon the manager of the company (Captain Trouton) with reference to the dismissal on Tuesday of four junior engineers, who refused to light up the donkey boilers when the officers of the company were called upon to turn to and assist in discharging the cargo of some of the steamers. The deputation explained that the action of the dismissed juniors was in no way connected with the strike of the seamen, but simply in accordance with what might be called the etiquette of the engineering profession. It was arranged that the deputation should have an interview with the directors of the company in the afternoon. We cannot learn that the company has taken any specific measures for obtaining seamen for their steamers; but two steamers will leave Hongkong for Sydney in a few days—the Menmuir on the 30th instant, and the Mecca on December 2. The strike is causing great inconvenience to shippers by the A. S. N. Co.'s boats; and we understand that Mr. John See, one of the largest constituents of the company, and a number of other shippers, whose interests are greatly affected by the present condition of affairs, have offered their services as mediators between the company and the men.

Yesterday afternoon an extraordinary meeting of the seamen was held in the Protestant Hall. On the previous day the officers of the Union had been waited upon by Mr. F. J. Thomas, the Manager of the H. R. N. S. N. Co., and subsequently by Mr. Windeyer, M.L.A., one of the directors of that company, with a view to obtain the approval of the Union to the company chartering two of the A. S. N. Co.'s boats, in order to meet the requirements of the Hunter River trade, and prevent public inconvenience; and it was to obtain the opinion of the men upon this proposal that the meeting was held yesterday afternoon. It appears that Mr. Thomas had mentioned the matter to a number of Union men, and that they were agreeable to it on the assurance that the chartering of the two steamers would be bona-fide, but when it was told them that it would be necessary to employ the captains of the A. S. N. Co.'s boats, because of their knowledge of the coast and of the Hunter district, the men hesitated. However the proposal was made to the officers of the Union, and it was pointed out to them that through the unfortunate loss of the steamer City of Newcastle the H. R. N. S. N. Company are not in a position to fully meet the requirements of the Hunter River trade, and that as a matter of business, and to prevent the public from suffering, they wanted to charter two steamers from the A. S. N. Company. The committee of the Union considered the matter, and decided that the serious state of affairs, and the importance surrounding the proposal justified an expression of opinion being obtained from the men. The meeting held, yesterday, was hastily called, and Mr. Macintosh, M.L.A., and Mr. Halley, coachbuilder, were requested by the committee to attend. Mr. Macintosh took the chair, and the meeting, which was conducted with the utmost quietness and propriety, was addressed by the secretary of the Union (Mr. Poole) who explained why the men had been called together. He informed the men of the particulars of the interview with Mr. Thomas and Mr. Windeyer, pointed out to them that they were engaged in a struggle in which the slightest mistake might land them in a false position, and urged each man to give his vote upon this question without consulting his neighbour, and conscientiously. The men were engaged in a struggle, he said, that was likely to last some time. The A. S. N. Co. would adopt every means they could to defeat the men, and the men were in duty bound to follow a similar plan of action. Every manœuvre, every move, ought to be watched, so that they might be prepared for any emergency; and with regard to the proposals submitted by the Hunter River Company, there arose the question whether in consenting to that company having the use of the boats of the A. S. N. Co., the men would not place in the hands of the A. S. N. Co. an additional means to crush the seamen. Another aspect of the proposal was that if the Hunter River Company were permitted to charter the two steamers they required, what was to prevent any other company, in this or any other port of the Australian colonies, from chartering the rest of the A. S. N. Co.'s steamers and employing them to the great detriment of the movement for which the seamen were out on strike. For the company, instead of losing, would be gaining, money all the time; and the men would actually be placing in the hands of the A. S. N. Co. tools to be used against them. There was to be no discussion at the meeting; it had been decided by the committee that the question should be fairly and honestly put before the men, and that they should vote upon it. The committee would refrain from voting.

The chairman then called upon any one who was not connected with the strike to go to one side of the room, and explained that the question was, "Do you object to the Hunter River Company engaging two of the boats of the A. S. N. Co. for the Hunter River trade?" Two ballot-boxes and a bag of marbles were then produced; Mr. Halley and Mr. Lyne (of the Herald) were requested to act as scrutineers; and the vote was taken. One box represented the votes in favour of the proposal, and the other the votes against it; and the men walked one after another past the boxes, each dropping a marble into whichever box he pleased. When the voting was concluded and the marbles were counted it was found that there were two votes in favour of the proposal, and one hundred and seventy-six against it.

The announcement of the result was about to be followed by a cheer, but it was pointed out to the men that the occasion was one for the utmost seriousness, and not for any demonstration of satisfaction; and there was, therefore, no cheering until it was declared from the platform that the proceedings of the meeting had terminated,—when the men could not be prevented from transgressing the rule of silence which had been observed throughout the meeting, and giving a hearty cheer for those who had conducted the proceedings, and three cheers for the Queen.

After the meeting the result of the voting upon the proposal of the H. R. N. S. N. Co. was communicated to Mr. Thomas, the manager of the company, by the secretary of the Union. We are informed that the directors of this company intend to make some alterations in the present manner of running the company's boats between Sydney and the Hunter, so as to meet public requirements as much as possible. Probably arrangements will be made for the steamers to run more frequently than they do at present. Efforts have been made to charter boats other than those of the A. S. N. Co., but steamship proprietors are averse to taking their steamers off their regular lines of trade.

In connection with the Seamen's Union, we are requested to state that the men feel aggrieved at the impression amongst the public that they have placed themselves, or have allowed themselves to be placed, under the leadership or control of certain political agitators. These men have thrust themselves forward, and though the committee of the Seamen's Union, recognising the injury likely to be done to their cause, have discountenanced these objectionable persons as much as possible, they continue to interfere and persist in speaking at public meetings, and in associating themselves with the strike.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, THURSDAY.

A public meeting was held at the Protestant Hall, Newcastle, on Thursday evening, in reference to the above, and to consider the action now taken by the seamen employed in the A. S. N. Company's boats. Mr. William Richardson was voted to the chair. There was a very large attendance composed of the labouring classes, the whole of the body of the hall and the gallery being crowded.

The CHAIRMAN said that he felt a very great interest in this question of the introduction of Chinese labour into the colony, and he did not think there was a man, woman, or child in the country who was not interested in it. This introducing of the Chinese into the steamers was the putting in of the thin end of the wedge. If they allowed this principle to exist, it would form a precedent, and they would be introducing the Chinese into the coal mines if they did not put a stop to it. The A. S. N. Company was not paying so much for their labour in comparison with the Kembla, Illawarra, and other companies on the coast. He did not wish to see men work and starve. He would make one to put the whole of the Chinese out of these boats.

Mr. JOHN TOOMEY, one of the delegates from the Seamen's Union, Sydney, gave some information respecting the rate of wages paid by the A. S. N. Company. He said the wages of firemen and trimmers were £8 and £6 per month, and seamen £6 per month. The Chinese employed in place of these were being paid from £2 15s. to £3 per month. The company seemed to look on the matter in a monetary point of view, and were trying to make as much money as they could, and they contended that in tropical climates the work was more suitable to Chinese than to Europeans. He would ask them if there was any Asiatic that could work better in the same climate than a white man. From personal experience he could say that Chinese could not work with Europeans in hot climates. He said there were companies on the coast now paying as much as £9 and £8 a month to their sailors, and the A. S. N. Company could not afford to pay more than £6. The company had now a line of boats running to Hongkong, and if they proved a success the next thing would be that they would be making miners of the Chinese.

Mr. HUBBARD then came forward to move the first resolution as follows,—"That this meeting sympathises with the seamen, labourers, and other working men in the position assumed in reference to Chinese labour being employed in the A. S. N. Company in place of British and Europeans, and expresses its earnest desire that the Legislature will take prompt measures to prevent the influx of Chinese labour to the injury of the present labouring classes; also pledge ourselves to assist the seamen and labourers in their struggle whilst resisting the unnecessary introduction of Chinese labour into the A. S. N. Company's boats in the labour market of the British colony of New South Wales." He said he had much pleasure in putting this resolution before the meeting. He would ask them to take a few matters into consideration that he intended to lay before them. Let them ask themselves, "Is the case of the A. S. N. Company just in the action they have taken?" (Cries of "No.") He thought not. If they had entered into a trade which was not a paying one, they should have withdrawn from it. Again he would ask, "Is the introduction of Chinese into the colony of New South Wales beneficial to the colony?" He referred them in answer to the foul effects already made apparent of the Chinese population in Sydney. He stated that the Chinese in their own country were now buying up steamers, and even railroads, in order that they might supplant Europeans with their own countrymen. Then, "How does the introduction of the Chinese population affect our merchants?" Does the merchant reap any benefit from them? Does the landed proprietor reap any benefit? They had abundant evidence in answer. He referred to the state in which Chinese were generally grouped together, polluting wherever they resided, and their object being directly they hoarded up a few shillings to be off to China with it. And, then, what would become of the numbers of European immigrants that the Government was bringing to these shores if the Government allowed the Chinese to fill up the labour market? In regard to the Chinese that were now in the colony we would have to put up with them; but he sincerely hoped the Legislature would take the matter in hand, and pass a measure to prevent their further influx. He thought the workmen of the A. S. N. Company were entitled to all praise for the stand they had made, and he for one would be only too willing to lend his hand and his mite to help them to gain their rights.

Mr. JOHN DIXON seconded the resolution, which, after some further discussion, was carried unanimously.

A speaker from the hall then asked the chairman if it was true that Captain Allen, the harbour-master at this port, had sent his men aboard the Coonanbara last night under pretence of sending them down to Sydney for inspection.

The CHAIRMAN said he had heard something about the matter, but was not in a position to answer with certainty. However, he would advise that the matter had better be placed before the meeting in the shape of a resolution asking the sense of the House thereon.

Mr. THOMAS ROSE then moved,—"That the sense of this meeting be taken whether Mr. Angus Cameron, M.L.A., ask from his place in Parliament whether this matter be true or not."

The resolution was duly seconded and carried; and after a vote of thanks to the Press and the chairman, the proceedings closed.

PUNISHMENT OF DRUNKARDS BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Any effort on the part of our legislators to deal with the giant evil of the day deserves the warm approval of everyone. If any one poison were to work in the community one hundredth part of the injury and ruin that strong drink is doing, there would be a universal cry for a law against it, and the members of Parliament would vie with each other in making and passing such a law without delay. I have always looked upon drunkenness as a crime, and I think nearly every Judge on the Bench would say that it is a great parent crime. I am not a little surprised, therefore, at the expression used in a letter published in your issue of yesterday, which is as follows: "I again assert that every man has a right to get drunk, so long as he is perfectly inoffensive and well able to take care of himself." The wretched morality of such an assertion needs no comment; but imagine such a man the father of sons and daughters, who have a spark of right feeling in their hearts, and think how painfully offensive such a sight must be to them.

Supposing an impossibility, that a man drunk "is perfectly inoffensive," there is a power for good or evil which earnest thinkers account one of the greatest in the world, namely, the power of insensible influence; what an amount of harm then must be laid to the door of this "perfectly inoffensive" drunkard. But how opinions differ as to what is offensive or "inoffensive." Take a case in point: About three years ago I was returning from Mount Victoria, and got into a saloon carriage; in this carriage was a somewhat stout gentleman very boisterous from the effects of drink. I had not sat down more than a few minutes when he came and fixed himself on some luggage in front of me, and rudely staring me in the face tried hard to get me into an argument about the writings of Strauss; failing to do this, he got up, grossly insulted me, using language which shocked the ladies present, and left me; a short time after at one of the little stations, to the great comfort of every one, he left our carriage. The next time I saw this gentleman was at the Parramatta Station, violently struggling with a porter who was trying to prevent him entering the train as it was moving away; he must have got into the train which left a little while after, for as I was standing on the platform at the Junction he passed, standing up in an open second-class carriage, and immediately he caught sight of me he literally howled at me. This same gentleman who thus conducted himself happens to be a great advocate of liberty, and I dare say he would consider all this very harmless, perhaps "perfectly inoffensive;" my simple statement of facts will, however, I imagine, be looked upon by most persons in a different light. At the time, this very gentleman was occupying one of the highest positions that can be conferred upon a colonist, which, I suppose, was the reason he was not taken care of till the effects of drink had passed away; certainly at that time he was anything but "perfectly quiet."

The tidings which come from almost every quarter are very saddening as to the prevalence of drunkenness—the evil is so destructive of everything which can make a people great, that every one who desires the welfare of his country, every true man, whether total abstainer or non-total abstainer, should do all in his power to do away with this desolating crime. I am, &c.,

Picton, November 20. SAMUEL FOX.

STREET WATERING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With your kind permission I should be glad to express the feelings of several thousand shopkeepers in George-street in reference to street watering. There is nothing by means of which shopkeepers suffer so much as by the irregular and imperfect manner of watering our streets. Ordinarily the shops are opened soon after 8 o'clock in the morning, and to benefit ratepayers, the streets should be watered before that hour. Such, however, is not the case, and the consequence is that the moment the shop-doors are open, in flies the dust and destruction commences. After getting the shop well besprinkled, the street watering business commences, and at intervals is renewed all day.

The great defect, however, is that too long a time is allowed to elapse between one watering and another. The effect of the first has completely passed away before the second watering takes place, and in the interim mischief to an incalculable extent is done to the unfortunate shopkeeper. At noonday in particular is the evil most perceptible. Instead of fresh men relieving the morning workers, a lapse of about two hours is permitted, when volumes of dust and horsedung are entering every shop, and I may say every foot-passenger's nostrils.

From experience I can tell you that no one can adequately realize the full importance of keeping the street always damped, but shopkeepers. If our aldermen were shopkeepers in George-street they might possibly fight hard to combat the evil, but as such is not the case we must expect little from them.

Owing mainly to the imperfect system of street watering, I am bold to say that deterioration in the value of goods in George-street shops alone is several hundred pounds per day, and it has often been a marvel to me that the shopkeepers take the matter so passively.

The remedy is very simple: let the streets be watered before 8 o'clock in the morning, and kept wet all day, which can easily be done by increasing the number of waterers by a few, and so arranging their hours of operation that they will relieve each other at certain times in the day; but by all means let us have street watering before eight and during the noonday—just the times when most traffic is upon the streets, and the stifling effect of the dust operating upon the largest number of people.

Owing to the irregularity and unevenness of our streets, customs for cleaning streets prevalent in other parts of Australia and the world would be impracticable here.

Yours truly, A SUFFERING SHOPKEEPER.

HYDE PARK.
The present discreditable state of this Park is largely owing to trespasses over the edges of the paths and along lines which are unauthorised.
The Trustees of the Park, appointed recently under the Parks Regulation Act of 1854, ask therefore the co-operation of the well-disposed in the measures about to be taken for the better preservation of order. It must be obvious that grass borders cannot be preserved if hundreds of passengers habitually as at present trample over them; and that it will be useless to attempt the task of improvement if persons are allowed to make thoroughfares in any direction just as it may at the moment suit them. By the Regulation Act the Trustees are empowered to frame rules on such matters, the breach of which is punishable by fine. But they make this appeal in the hope that it may not be necessary to resort to compulsion, so far as the funds which Parliament may place at their disposal will allow, efforts will be made to improve the existing paths, or such as may be substituted for them, and, where general convenience may so require, to form new ones; as well as in other respects to render Hyde Park in some degree worthy of the metropolis. But, without support from the public in the duty which they have undertaken, the Trustees feel that success is hardly to be expected.
Communications on the subject of the trust may be addressed to the undersigned, to the care of Edward P. Ramsay, Esq., at the Museum.
By order of the Trustees.

PRIZE MEDAL SEWING-MACHINE.—At the Sydney Exhibition of 1878, the HIGHEST AWARD for Sewing-machines (viz., BRONZE MEDAL) was accorded to the NEW DAVIS "VERTICAL FEED" MACHINE for "Simplicity, Durability, and Efficiency."
There need be no misapprehension of the fact that the "New Davis" is the SIMPLEST, MOST EFFICIENT, and withal the CHEAPEST machine in Australia. The essential feature in the "New Davis," the "vertical feed" enables it to perform, with the greatest facility, a range of work hitherto unknown in the history of sewing-machines. Specimens of work and illustrated catalogues sent post free to any part of the colonies. The price of the "New Davis" has been fixed at a lower figure than any first-class machine has hitherto been offered for; thus—No. 1 Family Machine, handsomely mounted on ornamental iron stand, on castors, and with polished walnut top, plated hand-wheel, and complete attachments, £6 10s. Nothing like it has ever been seen before for the money. A liberal system of time payments.

ALEXANDER MOORE and CO., Labour Bazaar, 285, 287, 289, 291, 293, and 295, Pitt-street, Sydney.
Established A.D. 1840.
NOTICE.
To Hotelkeepers, Managers of Clubs, Boarding-house keepers, Ladies and Gentlemen furnishing, Country Buyers, Storekeepers, and the Trade in General.
Mr. TIMOTHY MAHER, late partner in the firm of Mullins and Maher, trading under the style of ALEXANDER MOORE and CO., having entered into partnership with Mr. C. J. Ryan (also for many years connected with the same firm) conjointly, they intend to carry on the business of the LABOUR BAZAAR with all the energy and that true business spirit which has always been characteristic of the long established and widely celebrated firm of ALEXANDER MOORE and CO.
It is unnecessary to dilate upon the manner in which business will be carried on at this establishment, as the long and honourable commercial career of the senior partner (Mr. Maher), and the strict integrity and thorough business capacity of Mr. Ryan will be a sufficient guarantee that the sound and legitimate business policy of the Labour Bazaar will be strictly adhered to in every transaction of the new proprietors.
The business principles of this establishment will be the same as heretofore, viz., always to execute quick and bona fide sales by disposing of stock at the lowest remunerative profits. The original name of the firm will be still retained, and it will be the constant aim of Messrs. Maher and Ryan to preserve unsullied in the future the high character that Alexander Moore and Co. have maintained in the past, for integrity of principle and a strict systematic attention to business.
To meet the spirit of the times houses of from three (3) to seven (7) or more rooms can be furnished for cash at from £15 to £500 or £1000, according to the requirements or means of the purchaser.
The attention of ladies and gentlemen about to furnish is specially directed to the fact that the present proprietors will continue to furnish houses on the same liberal terms as those so long practised by their predecessors; and in directing the attention of picnic parties, excursionists, pleasure seekers of all kinds, they respectfully intimate they will always have on hand for the purpose of lending out on hire, a stock of about 4000 chairs, trestletop tables, glass and china of every variety, drawing-room suites, pier-glasses, toilet glasses, toilet tables, washstand and sets, in fine everything necessary for a ball, picnic, or supper party.
Alexander Moore and Co., importing their own material, and having a large staff of experienced mechanics and workmen, are in a position to manufacture as good if not better and cheaper furniture than any other house in the trade.
As heretofore, all kinds of furniture both new and second hand, will be bought, sold, or exchanged, and advances made on goods received to be sold by auction.
All kinds of furniture will be received for storage at the lowest rates, and the highest cash price given for new and second hand furniture.
All kinds of furniture, chattels, &c., will be received daily for sale by auction, and as the large room at the southern end of the Labour Bazaar will be specially set apart for auction sales, the trade and the public may feel assured that their goods will be properly placed, and the highest price obtained for same by one of the most experienced auctioneers in the city of Sydney. All goods for sale by auction will be placed in the Mart under the supervision of the auctioneer, and account sales will be rendered on the day after each sale.
ALEXANDER MOORE and CO. take this opportunity of informing wholesale storekeepers and importers that their Auction Mart as now established, and the auction system which they have adopted, will afford greater facilities to storekeepers and importers than they have hitherto experienced of getting rid of damaged or surplus stock.
In respectfully soliciting ladies' and gentlemen, and the general public to inspect the goods on view at the Labour Bazaar, and to judge for themselves, the new proprietors feel confident that the verdict for quality and cheapness will be decidedly in favour of
ALEXANDER MOORE and CO.,
Pitt-street.

Notwithstanding the increase in the number of Life-Assurance Societies during the present generation there are tens of thousands of heads of families amongst us who are still uninsured. The utmost efforts of the most active Agents have been hitherto unable to keep pace with the steady development of an ever-growing prosperous population, and there is consequently ample scope for the successful working of another Prudential Institution, such as the Company now proposed.

That this richness of field is recognised in the Life-assurance world is plainly evident by the establishment in Sydney of several Agencies of Companies which were founded in neighbouring colonies; and the promoters of the present enterprise believe that the time has come when a New South Wales Life Assurance Company may be formed and developed with the highest success.

This Company will be based on what is known as the mixed proprietary and mutual principles. This union of principles combines the advantages of both; and from the day of starting, under proper management, unites absolute safety with profit. Purely mutual societies are those where the policy-holders themselves are responsible one to another for the fulfilment of the obligations incurred. But even with this class of societies, a guarantee fund has to be subscribed, or foundation policies issued, or some other protective step taken to guard against unexpected policy claims falling in, and to provide for preliminary expenses in the early stages of a mutual society's career. In the mixed proprietary and mutual society, on the other hand, a body of shareholders is established, as in the present instance, who subscribe a moderate but sufficient amount to start and firmly establish the society, so as to leave the policy-holders premiums intact for accumulation at compound interest. The policy-holders, thus entirely freed from risk, will nevertheless receive four-fifths of the profits; whilst the shareholders, as remuneration for their investment of capital, will be entitled to the remaining one-fifth; and the shareholders and policy-holders combined form a powerful body of active agents, linked together by a common interest for the obtaining, year by year, a wide-spread and remunerative business.

The number of shares is one hundred thousand, of one pound each; the first call to be one shilling per share, to be paid on the allotment of shares, and the second call at the end of six months if required.

The names of the Directors and officers form a sufficient guarantee that the utmost prudence will be exercised in expenditure and management, and the representative character of the respective founders is indicative of the very wide and productive field that lies open for the Company's operations.

Every description of Life Assurance, Endowment, and Annuity business will be transacted by the Company on safe moderate terms.

FATHERS can provide for their children's start in life by way of endowment.

Since the establishment of the National Mutual Life Association it has met with marked success, the direct result of the public appreciation of the sound and equitable principles upon which it is established and conducted, and of the full and open statement of its affairs, periodically published in its reports.

During the first eight years of its business 3654 policies have been issued, assuring upwards of ONE MILLION STERLING, on which the premiums received exceed ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND POUNDS. TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND POUNDS have been returned to members in payment of claims, surrenders, and bonuses; and the ASSURANCE FUND at 30th September, 1877, amounted to £53,470 8s 10d.

Among the leading features adopted by the National Mutual, and introduced for the first time in these colonies, are the following:—

No member's Policy shall be allowed to lapse on account of the non-payment of any Premiums so long as it has a surrender value sufficient to pay the Premium overdue.

No member shall be compelled to pay a higher Premium on his Policy than that opposite his age in the table of rates.

The age of members shall be taken as at nearest birthday.

Surrender value allowed after a Policy has been two years in force.

We beg to notify to the WOOLGROWERS and MERCHANTS of the Australian Colonies that our warehouses are ready for the reception of the 1878 clip of Wool, and that we are prepared to make LIBERAL CASH ADVANCES, if required, on Wool sent to us for SALE either in the colonies or in the London market.

Our business is that of SELLING BROKERS ONLY, so that our friends may depend upon our best exertions to obtain for them the fullest market value. Valuations are carefully made before the sale of each lot, and the smallest lot is not sold unless a fair market value can be obtained.

The charge for offering Wool at our own warehouses is only nominal when not sold. All Wool while in our stores is covered by insurance at full value at a very trifling cost. Our arrangements for shipping are not to be surpassed, as, from the extensive nature of our business, we can command the most favourable freights.

Our charges for selling, receiving, and delivering are about one half of those charged by Victorian brokers.

We hold PUBLIC SALES BY AUCTION of WOOL and SHEEPSKINS once a week, and ACCOUNT SALES are rendered and PROCEEDS PAID within SEVEN DAYS OF SALE.

AUCTION SALES of TALLOW, HIDES, LEATHER, and other produce are also held weekly.

Way-bills will be forwarded on application, and any further information that may be desired.

"Chas. Luker, late Sergeant R. Engineers.
"Witness—W. J. Sparrow.

CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.
The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the world, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY YEARS. The proprietor, therefore, feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.
Purchasers are therefore requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which none are genuine:—
1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH PACKET.
2. Each SINGLE POWDER has directions for the dose, and the words John Steedman, chemist, Walworth, Surrey, painted thereon.
3. The name Steedman is always spelt with two EE's.
4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.

BRUNKER, WOLFE, and BADGERY have received instructions from the Trustees in the estate of the late S. Emanuel, Esq., to sell by auction, in conjunction with Messrs. P. G. Myers and Co., at Dickson's Commercial Hotel, Goulburn, on WEDNESDAY, 27th November, 1878, at 12 o'clock prompt,
The following very valuable properties:—
LOT 1.—Those magnificent premises known as THE BEE HIVE STORES,
now in the occupation of Messrs. Riley, Brothers, having a frontage to Auburn-street of 44 feet by a depth of 180 feet. They are situated in the very heart of the city of Goulburn; the position is acknowledged as the very best business site in the city, in proof whereof the land on which these premises are erected realised the highest price yet obtained in Goulburn. The extensive store room (covering the whole of the land), complete and elegant fittings of the warehouse and show-rooms (costing over £1000), substantial and well-finished character of the buildings, make this property one of the most desirable investments to be found. In the rear of these premises, and separated from them by Back-street, are several outbuildings, such as stables, stores, and gas works, erected on a frontage of about 100 feet to Back-street by a depth of 100 feet.
LOT 2.—The MARKET HOUSE TAVERN, now in the occupation of Mr. Albert Prior, having a frontage of 22 feet to Auburn-street by a depth of 184 feet, and 22 feet frontage to Back-street by a depth of 100 feet.
These premises almost adjoin the Bee Hive Store; they have always commanded a first-class trade, and never without a tenant. They are now let at £130 per annum; a large advance upon this rental can now be obtained, they having been at one time let for £250 per annum.

Also, the following Allotments:—
LOT 13 of section 25.—Frontage of 165 feet to Bourke-street, depth 132 feet
LOTS 15 and 16 of section 25.—Frontage of 66 feet each to Bradley-street, depth 330 feet

5 Allotments, Nos. 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10, town of Murrumbah (Paddy's River), county of Camden

Allotments 13, 15, and 16 of section 25 will be cut up into 10 lots, map of which is being prepared.

Allotment 3 of section 43, will be divided into 4 lots
Allotments 23 and 24 of section 57, will be divided into 8 lots.

And
Farm at Windellama of 129 acres, rented to Mr. Josh Britten at £20 per annum.
The auctioneers do not think it necessary to enter at any great length on the many advantages possessed by these desirable investments now offered for bona-fide sale, as intending purchasers and the public will admit, the judgment exercised by the late proprietor in the selections made, the increasing value of the lots to be offered, and the rare opportunity they have in securing such sterling investments, bearing in mind that many years may pass before such a sale of choice lots may take place again.
The terms will be—25 per cent. cash, the balance in 1, 2, and 3 years, bearing interest at 7 per cent.
Plans will be prepared and exhibited at sale. In the meantime, any further information may be obtained from Messrs. P. G. MYERS and CO., Goulburn; or

THE GREAT CLOSING SUBURBAN LAND SALE of the Year 1878.

AUBURN PARK ESTATE,
Near ROOKWOOD,
With LARGE FRONTAGE to the MAIN LIVERPOOL ROAD.
The LARGEST BLOCK of SUBURBAN LAND which has yet been offered to the Public.

BATT and RODD have received instructions to sell by PUBLIC AUCTION, at their ROOMS,
132, Pitt-street,
On THURSDAY, 5th December,
At 11.30 a.m.
ALL that VALUABLE BLOCK of LAND, known as the AUBURN PARK ESTATE, most carefully surveyed and laid out by Mr. Licensed Surveyor REUSS, jun.

AUBURN PARK ESTATE
is situate between the LIVERPOOL ROAD, to which it has a large frontage, and the RAILWAY LINE, and is in the immediate neighbourhood of the LARGE RESERVE lately purchased by the Government.
THE SUBDIVISION has been arranged with great care and liberality, no block being of less area than one acre.
THE SITE is in every way desirable, commanding extensive views of the BLUE MOUNTAINS, the valley of George's River and the hills beyond, while on the other side may be seen the pretty and varied windings of the Parramatta River, backed up by the Pennant Hills and bold country beyond.
THE SOIL is perhaps the RICHEST in the whole county of Cumberland, fit for the cultivation of cereals, flowers, and garden produce, while the undulating nature of the country makes it specially adapted for the orange, lemon, citron, grape, and other semi-tropical fruits.
IN ELEVATION it stands pre-eminent, being on the summit of the DIVIDING RANGE of HILLS between the GEORGE and PARRAMATTA RIVERS, thus providing a good NATURAL DRAINAGE.
ITS PARK-LIKE appearance has been maintained by clearing away only the underwood, scrub, and such trees as were unsightly.
THE ROADS are all ONE CHAIN WIDE, with the exception of the MAIN or AUBURN PARK ROAD, which is for some distance nearly 100 feet in width.
WATER is abundant and of the purest kind, not being a BRACKISH fluid like that found in the clay soil in the valley near the Line, while the "NEPEAN WATER SCHEME," as surveyed passes through the property, so that in all probability RESIDENTS on this ESTATE will enjoy the advantage of a TOWN WATER SUPPLY before those living in Suburbs still nearer Sydney.
RAILWAY EXTENSION TO THE CITY, now so soon to be an accomplished fact, will bring AUBURN PARK within ONE HOUR'S easy ride of the Sydney Exchange.
In addition to the Railway, there is DAILY COMMUNICATION BY OMNIBUS.
SHOPS and STORES, newly erected, already provide for the necessaries of life; while the FARMS in and about the neighbourhood will ensure a ready supply of Milk, Butter, Eggs, Poultry, &c., for the residents.
LASTLY, the TERMS are the most liberal which have yet been offered in any bona fide Estate—
12½ PER CENT. CASH AT SALE.
The balance in Seven equal Instalments, bearing interest at rate of 6 per cent., payable in 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18, and 21 months from day of Sale, coupled with IMMEDIATE POSSESSION.

TITLE.
A large portion of THE ESTATE is under TORRENS' ACT; the remainder is FREEHOLD, and unchallengeable.
FOUR HOUSES are already in course of erection the Estate.
We may summarise among many other ADVANTAGES to the PURCHASERS OF BLOCKS in this Estate the following:—
Land at Reasonable Price.
Site and Elevation inferior to none.
Drainage Natural and Perfect.
Access to Sydney Easy.
Water Supply Abundant.
Churches and Schools in the vicinity.
Terms the Most Liberal.
Scenery Picturesque, Grand, and Varied.

EXENSIVE CATTLE PROPERTIES,
MARANOA DISTRICT,
QUEENSLAND.

MAIDEN, HILL, and CLARK, in conjunction with ETTERSHANK, EAGLESTONE, and MANN, of Melbourne, have received instructions from Messrs. Hurtle Fisher and James Hill, to offer (in consequence of Mr. Fisher's intended departure for Europe) by auction, at Menzie's Hotel, Melbourne, on TUESDAY, 28th January, 1879,
The whole of their magnificent cattle properties in the Maranoa district, in Southern Queensland, close to the border of New South Wales, and comprising an area of over a MILLION of ACRES of SPLENDID COUNTRY, and including a herd of cattle, numbering about 33,500 head, which, for breeding, cannot be surpassed in the Australian colonies.
LOT 1.
That magnificent station, CUBBIE, situated on the Culgoa, Ballandool, and Bokira Rivers, in the Maranoa district, and consisting of 18 blocks of the RICHEST FATTENING COUNTRY, comprising the extensive area of —— acres.
The HERD numbers about 16,000 head of the very best bred cattle, and of that number at least 4000 are BULLOCKS OF FATTENING AGES, which can be turned off prime, and sent to market during the year.
The country is all first-class, and is covered with the richest fattening grasses and herbage. It is also splendidly watered; and it may here be mentioned that during the late severe drought that this and other districts have passed through the losses on this run were not only trifling, but the stock held their own as to condition, and the proof of this consists in the number of cattle now being offered with the run.
IMPROVEMENTS are all first-class and substantial, consisting of good dwelling-house of 12 rooms, kitchen, out-offices, &c.; garden, well stocked; new stockyard, just finished, and all other appliances for the efficient working of so large and valuable a property.
The fencing is very extensive, and comprises bullock and heifer paddocks, horse paddocks, &c.
LOT 2.
BULLAMON STATION, consisting of 24 blocks of first-class breeding and fattening country, comprising the large area of over 650,000 ACRES, situated on the Moonie River, in the Maranoa District, Queensland, to which river it has a frontage of 40 miles on each side, besides which there are numerous large TANKS and DAMS, which have been made at a very heavy outlay of money, and, as they each contain an extensive body of water, the whole run, both frontage and back, is thus admirably watered, making it one of the safest runs in Queensland.

THE FENCING IN of the whole Run is very nearly completed, only about 28 miles being required to make a perfect Ring Fence. There are several Paddocks complete, and others in course of being finished.
THE CATTLE consist in number about
and, for so large a number, is perhaps THE VERY BEST BRED HERD IN AUSTRALIA; certainly there is nothing better.
Its foundation was commenced many years ago by that well-known breeder and stockowner, Mr. D. F. M'Kay, and most carefully attended to by him for years, and since it has been in the hands of its present owners its character has been well kept up by the addition of the very best bulls at a heavy expense, only last year 100 of Jenkins's "Theodore" and Lee bulls being put into the herd. Any one, therefore, purchasing this herd would reap the advantage of the years of knowledge, labour, and expense that has been spent on it.
As regards the country and its safety for stock during times of extreme drought, the same remarks apply here as in the case of "CUBBIE;" and as regards the very moderate nature of the losses that were sustained during the late drought, a similar proof is given, viz., the number of the stock now being offered for sale with the run.
The IMPROVEMENTS consist of first-class dwelling-house, garden, &c., men's huts, large stockyard, and everything necessary for the working of the property. Both "Cubbie" and "Bullamon" being at present owned by one person are worked as one property, being only 65 miles apart. But they possess the double advantage, capable of either being worked separately or, being so close together, can be economically worked as one property.
In offering these very choice properties for sale, the Auctioneers confidently invite inspection, and desire to draw the attention of INTENDING PURCHASERS, CAPITALISTS, and STOCK-OWNERS to the fact that these stations are most favourably situated for the sale of stock for the Queensland, Sydney, and Melbourne markets.
It is also a matter of great importance that, while both properties are so close to New South Wales, the lower end of Cubbie being only 12 miles over the New South Wales boundary, and that of Bullamon about 25 miles, they possess the great advantage of being under the long leases of Queensland, nearly the whole of the blocks having yet to run up to the year 1890. This is an advantage that cannot be too highly estimated.

Particulars on application to J. T. Gannon, Esq.

FINLAY and CO., Goulburn, have received instructions to sell by auction, at their Rooms, Belmore-square, Goulburn,

on WEDNESDAY, 4th proximo,
at 11 o'clock,
the following very desirable property, known as BORO,
with 1960 acres of really good freehold, entirely fenced in with a splendid two-rail fence, together with 5730 acres of good pre-emptive land.

The property is situated twenty-eight miles from Goulburn, on the main road from there to Braidwood and Queanbeyan, and an equal distance from the three places.

The house contains seventeen rooms, with verandah in front and rear.

The out-offices consist of stone kitchen, stable, coach-house, all galvanized large new stockyard, piggery, &c.

This property is admirably situated within three hours' drive of the city, and splendidly watered throughout by the Boro Creek.

For a person of limited capital this is really a splendid investment; the area of land is great, the improvements good, and within three hours' drive of Goulburn. As a depot for stock, to catch the fluctuations of the Sydney and Goulburn markets, and benefit thereby, it is incomparable. A fortune might soon be realised by treating it as such. The property is for positive sale, and on the most liberal terms. Immediate possession can be given.

For further particulars apply to the Auctioneers, or Mr. BARRETT, on the property, who will show intending purchasers the same.

WEDNESDAY, 4th DECEMBER.

To Gentlemen desirous of securing the most beautiful site in the southern district for a residence or estate, or to Farmers wishing to possess one of the finest pieces of country obtainable for agricultural or pastoral purposes.

300 ACRES,
part of those beautiful properties known as ROSSIVILLE and BOISCHERE, three miles from Goulburn, on the Southern Road, and one and a half miles from the Railway Platform.

FINLAY and CO. have received instructions from Mr. George Cole to sell by auction, at their Rooms, Belmore-square, on WEDNESDAY, 4th December, at 11 o'clock, 300 ACRES of the celebrated BOISCHERE and ROSSIVILLE PROPERTIES, within twenty minutes' drive of the city.

This most beautiful piece of suburban property is situated three miles from the city on the main southern road, and is a portion of the much-admired and highly valuable Boischere and Rossiville estates.

It would be difficult to imagine a more beautiful piece of country or one more lovely in its general outline. As a site for a gentleman's residence it is simply grand.

The land is richly luxuriant in its grasses and pasturage, the never-failing stream with its graceful curves and abrupt windings charms the eye, whilst the lofty eminence of the hills at the rear gives a commanding and picturesque view of the country around and completely shelter it from the westerly winds, securing to the purchaser a sheltered and coveted eastern aspect of great beauty.

The land is nearly all fenced in; half the cost of the remainder will be borne by the proprietor. There is limestone on the property similar to what is now sent to Sydney from the same estate.

F. and Co. simply urge an inspection of the property. It is for positive sale. Its beauty is in no way overestimated, and its prospective value has not even been hinted at. It has more grass upon it than many hundreds of acres in the district.

Intending purchasers will be shown the ground on application at the office.

Terms, exceedingly liberal, at sale.
Title unquestionable.

GOULBURN.

WEDNESDAY, 4th December.

Highly Improved and Valuable
AGRICULTURAL and PASTORAL PROPERTY,
27 miles from Goulburn,
in proximity to the well-known properties
Lake Bathurst and Bonny Doon, known as MILLENDED, and containing
1010 acres of superior Agricultural and Pastoral Freehold, with 80 acres additional conditional purchase adjoining the freehold, and 2790 acres pre-emptive land, making a total area of 3880 acres Freehold and Pre-emptive.

FINLAY and CO. have received instructions from Mr. Nixon Fife to sell by auction, at their Rooms, Belmore-square, on

WEDNESDAY, 4th DECEMBER,
at 11 o'clock,

That well-known property MILLENDED, containing 1010 acres freehold, with 80 acres conditional purchase and 2790 acres pre-emptive.

The improvements comprise—Neat and substantially built six-roomed stone cottage, kitchen detached, men's huts, large barn 50 x 18, piggery, stock-yards, stables, coachhouse, well with pump, garden with varied and choice fruit trees.

About 90 acres are laid down with English grasses and lucerne.

Garden paled, and about 700 acres ringbarked and subdivided into seven paddocks, one paddock of which is cropped.

MILENDED ESTATE is truly one of the finest little properties in the south. The freehold land is a very early grant, and possesses soil of the richest and most fertile description. The selections have been made most judiciously, and with the pre-emptive land form a perfect little holding of 3880 acres. Millended is abundantly watered by springs and the creek from whence it derives its name. The pre-emptive grazing land on the Fairy Meadow adjoins the Boro property, which is now in the market, and will be sold on the same day. The purchaser of both properties will have an extent of country comprising 11,570 acres, an area of country (at a small cost), almost unobtainable for money in the settled districts, and within three hours drive of the city of Goulburn, thence a day's communication from Sydney.

Millended by itself is all that could be desired by the smaller capitalists, and with Boro the whole would form a grand property which must yet become, from its contiguity with the metropolis and other established markets, of great value. A very little fencing would surround both properties.

Mr. Fife, the proprietor, who is leaving the district, will be happy to show purchasers over Millended; and Mr. Barrett, of Boro, will point out how both properties can at so little cost be worked together.

Terms most liberal.

It is a known fact that for YEARS and YEARS back no opportunity like this has been offered to BUILDERS,
CAPITALISTS,
SPECULATORS
MECHANICS, and others, for securing
FREEHOLD BUILDING SITES
in this immediate neighbourhood.

All the properties and lands on the eastern and southern boundaries of the
GREENFIELD ESTATE
are well known as the WATERLOO ESTATE, held under lease by a dense population from Sir DANIEL COOPER, therefore this is likely to be the only one of the description to choose from for some considerable time.
FREEHOLD SUBDIVISION

RAGLAN-STREET, the main leading thoroughfare, running east and west through the WATERLOO ESTATE
and
GREENFIELD ESTATE,
right on to NEWTOWN, is now open to the public, and most of the enormous traffic from Newtown South, Macdonaldtown, St. Peters, Stanmore, Marrickville, and other western boroughs to and from the city, that formerly passed by way of
is now tending in this direction in order to avoid the dust and inconveniences, as well as considerably shortening the distance, thereby saving time, which is money to the business man.

This fact alone stamps Raglan-street as the MAIN ARTERY in this direction, leading from all such important suburbs as it does by a short cut to the RAILWAY TERMINUS and the CITY.

The whole of the lots have been carefully pegged out by Mr. SURVEYOR REUSS, Jun., so that intending purchasers, with the aid of

LITHOGRAPHS
(which may be obtained at the Rooms), will have no difficulty in making their selections.

SUTTON FOREST.

That well-known improved
FARM AND GRAZING PROPERTY
WOODSIDE,
comprising 488½ ACRES of rich cultivation and fattening grazing land, in this celebrated district, adjoining THROSBY PARK ESTATE, on the BURRAWANG, ROBERTSON, and KIAMA ROAD, 2 miles from MOSSVALE RAILWAY STATION.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on FRIDAY, 13th DECEMBER, at 11 o'clock,
WOODSIDE,
comprising 488½ ACRES of good land, equal to any in this far-famed and popular locality.
The improvements comprise two cottage residences of 5 and 4 rooms respectively and kitchens, detached stables, barn, dairy, stockyards, about 1½ acre of orchard of choice fruit trees all in full bearing.
The property is all securely fenced and subdivided into four grazing paddocks and four small cultivation PADDOCKS; about 50 ACRES have been cleared, and the timber on the residue, with the exception of about 50 acres reserved as shelter for stock, has been all ringbarked.
WOODSIDE is abundantly watered by natural springs and a chain of waterholes never known to fail in the driest seasons.
This well-known property is equal in position to any other in that celebrated tract of valuable country extending from Bong Bong to the Cross Roads, a spacious basin of volcanic origin, forming a series of rich alluvial flats, interspersed with whinstone hills, all of the most fattening character for stock, and well adapted for general agricultural purpose.
A favourable feature of this district is its fine elevated position (over 2000 feet above the sea level), which secures a delightfully cool bracing atmosphere, redolent of health and renewing vigour—a climate in which English fruits, forest trees, flowers, and cereals are produced in luxuriant profusion.
 One great recommendation to Woodside is its being close to RAILWAY communication with SYDNEY and GOULBURN MARKETS.
Plan showing position of the property may be inspected at the Rooms.
Terms at sale.

The ABOVE MAGNIFICENT PROPERTY.

CARRARA stands unrivalled as a FIRST-CLASS MANSION amongst the many costly buildings which adorn the most fashionable suburb of the metropolis; it is situated on the waters of Rose Bay, within five miles from the city, and approached on the land side by a drive scarcely to be surpassed in the Southern Hemisphere, and equally accessible by the waters of the harbour, to which the grounds have a very extensive frontage, including the whole of one of the prettiest sandy beaches on the waters of Port Jackson, and possesses advantages of situation far beyond comparison with any other of the many beautiful buildings that here and there embellish the landscape of the shores of our noble bay.
The grounds of "Carrara," which contain an area of about 14 acres, are all securely enclosed, and the mansion which occupies a most commanding site is approached by a well-formed carriage-drive leading through massive and highly ornamented iron gates. The Porters' Lodge, at the front entrance, is a very handsome building, and worthy the estate to which it belongs.
The MANSION itself is of a modern order of architecture, and was erected without regard to cost under the able supervision of Messrs. Hilly and Mansfield, architects. It is nearly all built of the best freestone, and from foundation to rooftree, money has been expended with a lavish hand to make it the MOST SUBSTANTIALLY-BUILT RESIDENCE IN THE COLONY.
Passing the entrance gates, a well-arranged drive leads to the mansion which is entered from a widely verandahed porch opening into a very handsome hall, 65 feet long by 19 feet wide—right and left are the reception rooms including DRAWING-ROOM, 65 feet by 15 feet, having a large bow-window that greatly adds to the noble proportions of the apartment.
DINING-ROOM, 27 feet by 19½ feet.
BREAKFAST-ROOM, 17½ feet x 16 feet.
TWO SMALLER ROOMS, pantries, and other conveniences.
The FIRST FLOOR is reached by a handsome staircase, leading to a wide corridor, out of which open
SITTING-ROOM, 30 feet by 16 feet, with bow window, similar to that in the drawing-room
ONE BEDROOM, 27 feet by 19½
THREE other BEDROOMS, 17½ feet by 16 feet each
TWO DRESSING-ROOMS, 10 feet by 10 feet each
Store-room, bathroom, and other requisites for comfort.
The UPPER FLOOR consists of one very large apartment, suitable for a ball-room.
The OUT-OFFICES are connected with the main building, and consist of two kitchens, laundry, ironing room, store-room, six bedrooms, &c. These occupy two sides of a paved courtyard, in which there is a LARGE UNDERGROUND TANK for conserving water.
The STABLES and COACHHOUSES are built in conformity with the style of the mansion, and contain
A stable of 5 stalls
Two coachhouses
Large harness-room
5 bedrooms over; also a large granary and hayloft.
A SECOND large UNDERGROUND TANK supplies this part of the premises with water.
